

Bill Would Curb Rodeo Activity

Salem—(UPI)—Rodeos in Oregon would be handicapped if a bill introduced Wednesday by Sen. Jean Lewis (D-Portland) at the request of the Oregon Humane Society becomes law.

The bill provides that any person "who engages in a contest in which cattle or other animals are roped as a test of skill for any money, prize, title or championship, shall be fined not less than $100 or more than $500."

The bill states that nothing in the section above shall prevent a person "from engaging in a contest in which calves or goats are roped as a test of skill, as long as he does not throw or drag a roped animal while the rider is on a horse."

"Such a bill would destroy the Pendleton Round-Up and every rodeo throughout the state," Sen. Anthony Yturri (R-Ontario) said.

Portland—(UPI)—City Commissioner Mark Grayson said that he believed about 400,000 acres of Portland's Bull Run watershed could be opened to recreation without danger to the city's water supply.

TRIED TO POISON SON—Mrs. Edna Howard and James L. Wells sit in Pasadena, Cal., police station after they were arrested for attempting to kill Mrs. Howard's six-year-old son, Michael, by mailing him some poisoned candy. The boy is at a school for handicapped children in Phoenix, Ariz., and authorities at the school checked the candy before giving it to him. Wells is a former husband of Mrs. Howard's.

Fill Work Starts On Embankment

Work has started on the east embankment of the Eighth st. approach, Vern Thorpe, city public works director, announced Wednesday.

The contractor for the project has started hauling fill from excavation on top of Barneburg hill at the Rogue Valley Manor site, it was reported.

Thorpe said the city hopes to call for bids on the curbs and paving in the Eighth st. approach system sometime this month. He added that bids are also expected to be called for curbs and paving of North Columbus ave. between Jackson st. and McAndrews rd.

REACH AGREEMENT

New York—(UPI)—The Transport Workers Union reached agreement Wednesday night with Pan American World Airways on a new contract covering 8,000 mechanics, flight service employees and airport personnel. Details of the labor agreement were not made public pending their approval by the union's membership.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Lydia D. — Mother has been betting.

Mrs. M. F. — There's no moral law against fun.

Lydia D. — I am all upset about my mother, a 70-year-old widow who seems to have suddenly gone off her track, or should I say on the track?

Mother has always been a straight-laced, religious woman. Recently she met a man her own age, who has spent most of his life gambling and betting on the horses. For some reason he and Mother took a liking to one another and they go off to watch the races nearly every day. Mother has been betting and claims she has been winning so far, but what'll happen when she doesn't win? Her income is very small.

Mostly I'm concerned about everyone knowing all about this. It's terribly embarrassing to me when I see my friends watching her go off with this man. She should at least have consideration for me and my children.

Mrs. M. F. — In the three months I've been at this, I've made quite a bit of money. Maybe I've had beginner's luck, but my boy friend says I'm really terrific, and I've no system — just intuition. I've always had a lot of intuition.

been straight-laced and religious — well, maybe I was a little too straight-laced. Anyway I'm still religious. I can't see what that has to do with it. There's no moral law against fun.

I don't really care what my daughter and her noisy, gossiping friends say about me, but it does make me mad when my daughter is rude to my boy friend. When he calls for me, she leaves him standing in the middle of the living room with his coat on. She doesn't even ask him to sit down.

The Council: This looks to us like a clear — cut case of jealousy. We can't see any other reason why young women can't find anything better to do than observe and

Equipment Reported Taken from Home Sites

Equipment valued at more than $240 owned by A. R. Dubs, contractor, was reported stolen from two building sites Tuesday, according to city police.

Taken from a site at 2824 Country Club dr. were a 1/2-inch electric drill and a belt sander while a vibrator sander and a keyed lock were taken from 2425 Nieto Way. Reporting the thefts was Robert Haymond Myers, 1101 Woodrow lane.

Portland — (UPI) — George E. Berry of Beaverton is low of 12 bidders at $135,754 for miscellaneous alterations and repairs at The Dalles Dam.

condemn the conduct of a 70-year-old woman.

Carefree, admired, stimulated by success, Mrs. M. F. goes off every day to enjoy herself, leaving behind a lot of bored shallow, cantankerous females. Probably Lydia and her friends are disgusted by the narrowness of their own horizons and project their resentment on the only female they happen to know who is not like them.

The fact that Lydia has no recognition of her own good fortune in having an elderly mother who is healthy, happy, resourceful and independent indicates that she does not allow the smallest beam of common sense to enter the small, dark chamber of her mind. Because of this, her sour disposition will undoubtedly gain fuller and fuller sway over her as time goes on. We hate to imagine her at 70.

Mrs. M.F. should realize, however, that her present gambling success cannot go on indefinitely. Lydia is right to caution her on that score. In the long run the gambler can't possibly win and we would suggest that Mrs. M.F. set herself a very small allowance for the purpose of having an afternoon of fun — not for the purpose of making extra money.

Puzzle Leak Said Located in Canada

New York — (UPI) — Andre F. l'Eveque, president of Superior Features Syndicate, said Wednesday a leak that enabled tipsters to fix a Portland, Ore., newspaper puzzle contest originated in Canada.

l'Eveque said the FBI and Canadian authorities were following up his leads in the case involving a puzzle his syndicate had supplied to the Oregon Journal and were expected to make an announcement soon.

The leak was found "in a small Canadian town," l'Eveque said. He added that he is not at liberty to disclose the name of the town.

"On our list was a client in small Canadian town who bought our contest..." l'Eveque said.

The pickup that carries much more, cost far less to operate.
