

Concert Announced On Sunday

Asland—The winter concert of the Southern Oregon Little Symphony orchestra is scheduled for presentation at 8 p.m. on Sunday, March 8, in Churchill auditorium on the Southern Oregon college campus. The concert will feature violinists Richard D. Werner and Dennis Hannan and the Asland High school orchestra.

Mr. Werner and Mr. Hannan will be soloists in a presentation of J. S. Bach's "Concerto in D Minor" for two violins and orchestra. The Asland high school orchestra, which is directed by W. Bernard Windt, will join the Little Symphony in a performance of "London Every Day," a suite for orchestra by Eric Coates.

The Little Symphony, which is directed by Dr. Herbert Cecil, will play several selections including "Russian and Ludmilla Overture" by Glinka, a chorale-prelude by Brahms, "O God, Thou Holiest," "Adagio for Strings" by Samuel Barber, and "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss.

There will be no admission charge although an offering will be accepted for the benefit of the orchestra scholarship fund. The public is invited to attend.

Chapter Donates To Festival Fund

A donation of $100 to the building fund of the Oregon Shakespearean festival was voted at the last meeting of Alpha Beta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held at the home of Miss Jean Cardona, Sagnaw drive.

The chapter presented the ritual of jewels ceremony for a group which will become Gamma Xi chapter of Central Point. The new members are Mrs. Gordon McKevold, Mrs. Wilbur Eieker, Mrs. Carroll Adams, Mrs. Ned Starnes, Mrs. Jerome Wing, Mrs. Robert Knight, Mrs. Kay Kelley, Mrs. Darrel Greb, Mrs. Bernard Thumler Jr., and Mrs. Roy S. Madden. A program on art was presented by Mrs. Robert Vincent.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Mitchell, 30 Kenwood avenue, Tuesday, March 10.

First Course
For an extra easy and tasty first course, serve a cream soup—canned or frozen—garnished with cubes of Calavo avocado. Cream of chicken, mushroom, celery or shrimp soup are elegant served this way. For another variation, stir in mashed avocado just before serving. The mellow flavor of the semi-tropical fruit blends well in cream soups, adding a delightful, distinctive touch.

Johnie Johnson, Asland, plays the part of a rascally brother with in the hilarious comedy, "Bell, Book, and Candle," to be presented March 5, 6, and 7 on the Southern Oregon college campus by the SOC Players. "Sophisticated, charming, and delightful," said the drama critics of the "Witch," it ran for 233 performances on Broadway with Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer in the leading roles.

Wilson PTA Plans Meeting

Wilson school Parent-Teacher association will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the school cafeteria, according to Mrs. Everett McGraw, president. A representative of the YMCA will be present to explain their summer activities, and the facilities available at the YMCA throughout the year. Classes will be dismissed at 2 p.m., and parents may visit with teachers in their rooms until the meeting convenes. Mrs. McGraw pointed out. Adult baby-sitting will be provided for pre-school children, and there will be teacher supervision on the playground for students whose parents are attending the meeting.

Toys suitable for pre-school children, but no longer needed by individual families, are needed for the nursery. Mrs. McGraw adds. Anyone wishing to contribute such toys is asked to bring them to the meeting. They will be stored in the "activity room" adjacent to the cafeteria, and used each month while the nursery is in session there.

Refreshments will be served by mothers of children in the first and second grades.

Fish Sauce
If fish dinners rate a little enthusiasm at your house, you can change the situation by serving a good tartar sauce as an accompaniment. Flavor mayonnaise with a little instant minced onion, add chopped pickle, a pinch of curry powder and plenty of meaty ripe olive wedges. Garnish each fish serving with a pickle slice and a whole ripe olive on a pick, and sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

Like many another person, Mayor John Snider wishes that he hadn't been quoted out of context. The mayor has been getting a lot of calls from readers of McCall's Magazine which quoted Mayor Snider as saying that he never misses the television program, "Edge of Night" and that he refuses to let anything disturb him while he's listening and watching. Since the article was written by one of all people—Sir John Gielgud of London, noted British actor, it's no wonder that the citizens of Medford were a little surprised.

Mayor Snider has but one explanation for the incident. When he was in New York City in November, he visited the CBS television studios, was allowed to watch a rehearsal of the program and to talk with the cast. The mayor had watched the program, which at first came on about his lunch time, enjoyed it and of course, politely told the cast he did. Among other things, the mayor was impressed to learn that a couple of the leading characters get paid $60,000 a year just for the one show, which is described as a sort of super-duper soap opera. In the course of the conversation the mayor remarked that he disliked being interrupted in the middle of a television program. (Who doesn't?)

Mayor Snider enjoyed his glimpse back stage in a big television studio very much, spread a little gospel about Oregon's Centennial and left feeling very pleased. But now, the genial mayor is a little depressed. "Somehow or the other," he sighed last night, "I can't help but think the quotation makes me out to be a little stupid."

"What's the show about?" inquired Potpourri, who had never heard of "Edge of Night" until a couple of subscribers called to tell us about the mayor breaking into print in a nationally circulated woman's magazine.

"Darned if I know," said the mayor. "I haven't seen it for a long time. I'm too busy."
Oh, yes, the mayor received a call the other day from a man who said he was going to be quoted in Time, but on another subject.

Potpourri's garden is always full of surprises. If we plant something and watch over it anxiously, it usually dies. On the other hand, flowers come up that we can't remember planting. Last week we discovered a single yellow crocus in the bed of purple violets. The spot where the crocus used to be doesn't have anything growing in it right now, but we can't remember transplanting them. Yesterday we walked out in the front yard and what did we see next to the Italian hyacinths but a little clump of pink violets in full bloom. And now we can't remember who gave us the violets.

Last spring we found a clump of dark red tulips—very beautiful, growing in a spot where we couldn't remember planting any tulips. Sunday we must make a thorough search of every nook and cranny—of which there are many in our confused garden—for some snowdrops. We're absolutely sure someone gave us some snowdrops, but we can't seem to find them.

We love gardening, even in the every-other-weekend-hit-and-miss fashion which is about the best we can do with our schedule. Potpourri also loves this wonderful weather and we can hardly wait for the time when it is really warm and we can quit wearing a coat, eat both breakfast and dinner on the patio and sleep out under the stars. The night sky this week has been gorgeous. Maybe we'll invent an electric sleeping bag. As long as it's used mostly in the back yard in reach of an electric sock, there's absolutely no reason why it wouldn't work. Come to think of it, maybe we can convert the one we have now without too much trouble.

A party given in Asland early last winter is still a topic of conversation. There never was anything like it before—in Asland, at least—and probably never will be again. Invitations to the event were in the form of wires from New York City. The date and place of the party were listed, but no host or hostess. And to this day, no one is sure who did start the whole idea.

With the invitations some of the "guests" were asked to carry on certain duties for the party. They even took their own food. But although the question of who was responsible for the wires and the party was the main topic of conversation, those at the event left with as little information as they had before. "I'm sure he—or she—was at the party, and having a wonderful time, but I haven't the foggiest notion of who it was." This statement just about sums up the verdict—O.S.

Roseburg Girl Award Winner

Oregon's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is Sally Ann Hill of Roseburg High school, Roseburg.

Miss Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hill, received the highest rating in a written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes administered to 4,316 senior girls in 170 schools throughout Oregon. She will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills and becomes a candidate with 47 other state winners and the representative from the District of Columbia for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

On April 4 all state winners and their school advisors will begin an expense-paid tour of Washington, D. C., colonial Williamsburg, Va., and New York City. The tour will end in Minneapolis, Minn., on April 10 where the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced at the American Table Dinner in the Leamington hotel. Score in original test and personal observation on this tour will be the basis for selection of the national winner, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000.

Carol Woods of Dallas High school, Dallas, rated second in Oregon and will receive a $500 scholarship.

A recent guest at the Alvy Bowman home, 3594 Roberts road, was Roscoe Johnson, Keene, Texas.

Small, fringed terry cloth hand towels make good place mats at the children's lunch

To avoid school lunch box monotony, include a salad now and again. A small cottage cheese and canned fruit cocktail salad packed in a covered plastic cup makes good eating along with a sandwich. Another good combination is cole slaw and canned fruit cocktail. Lunches of this kind give extra nourishment for growing boys and girls.
