Mrs. Frake Returns From California Trip

Mrs. William E. Frake, 22 Richmond ave., has returned to Medford after being in Santa Ana, Calif., to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Mabelle A. King. Mrs. King spent a part of each year in Medford for the past several years.

Funeral services were held last Saturday. Mrs. King, a native of Michigan, lived in Glendale, Calif., for 30 years before moving to Santa Ana. Survivors in addition to Mrs. Frake are another daughter, Mrs. Mabelle Blades, San Gabriel, Calif., a son, James G. King, Santa Ana, and four grandchildren.

Two 4-H Leaders Honored at Meeting

Mrs. John Bohnert and Ernest Lathrop, both of Central Point, were honored as 4-H club leaders and alumni yesterday at the Medford Kiwanis club's noon luncheon at Rogue Valley Country club.

Each spoke on the values of 4-H work. Talks introducing Mrs. Bohnert and Lathrop and praising their work with clubs were made by Marilyn Watson, Medford High school student, and Bill Hubbard, Eagle Point High school student, both junior leaders in 4-H work.

Grange News

Upper Applegate Grange
Residents of the Applegate valley, who have been centennially minded in recent weeks, will have an opportunity to turn their attention from the past to the future on March 27, according to plans being completed by Veva Saltmarsh, lecturer of Upper Applegate Grange.

At that time, the Grange will sponsor an open meeting at which Harlan P. Bosworth Jr., well known Medford business man and an active member of the Medford chapter of the Oregon Association for the United Nations, will discuss "Atoms for Peace or War." He will also present a motion picture "Workshop for Peace" portraying the work of the United Nations. Special invitations are being issued to students and teachers of the Applegate and Ruch schools to be present.

At the last regular session of the Grange Feb. 28, County Deputy Roscoe Roberts, who was escorted to the master's station and welcomed as a guest, discussed insurance problems, community service, and techniques for giving new Grange members. He was accompanied to the meeting by his wife, and Mrs. Millie Walker of Live Oak Mill.

Tentative plans for a public dinner in March were announced by HEC chairman, Edna Sawyer.

The next square dance in the current series will be held on Saturday evening, March 28, it was stated by ways and means committee chairman, Ethel West, this event having been postponed from March 14 to avoid conflict with a special program to be presented by the Ruch PTA. A sum of $32 from square dance lesson sessions and $10 from the Centennial committee for use of the hall for the Applegate Valley Centennial dinner were turned in to the Grange treasury by Mrs. West's committee.

James Winningham, head of the house committee, was given a rising vote of thanks in appreciation for his work in installing the back stage ceiling, a project which is already increasing the efficiency of the heating system in the Grange hall.

Grange Insurance Agent Edward Finley urged that care be used with fire and that members check their flues and chimneys to make sure they are in a safe condition.

The gift of an American flag from Mrs. Marcel LePinec was accepted with appreciation by the worthy master, Kathleen Scovell, and Stella Offenbacher was authorized to convey the thanks of the Grange to the donor.

Use of the Grange hall was granted to personnel of the Rogue River National forest on Wednesday, March 4, for the annual meeting with cattlemen of the area in the Applegate district of the forest.

Members were reminded of the offer of Eagle Point Grange to give 100 trees to any subordinate Grange in Jackson county which can make use of them. Among varieties available are ponderosa pine, Port Orford cedar, incense cedar, black locust, and Chinese elm. Since this offer, made as a community service by Eagle Point Grange, will terminate April 1, members are asked to bring their requests for trees to the next meeting of Upper Applegate Grange March 13.

Names of members and friends who were ill, were announced as follows: Grange Secretary Irene Culy, who entered Sacred Heart hospital March 1 for knee surgery; Hugh Scovell, who returned to his home March 2, after receiving treatment in Rogue Valley hospital; and W. L. Shannon, who is ill at his home.

The lecturers' program for the evening included a sextette singing "Let the Lower Lights be Burning"; a reading from the Wall Street Journal by Florence Lance, presenting the relationship of inflation to so-called prosperity, in which a poultryman, who had hens but no corn, agreed to work for a farmer who had corn but no hens. In the beginning, the man received $2.50 for his work which he immediately paid back to the farmer for 5 bushels of corn to feed his hens. Gradually as the cost of living increased, the man's wages were increased and the price of corn likewise. Each increase was joyfully hailed as "prosperity" by all concerned, and at the end, the man was receiving $10 in wages and the farmer was getting $10 for his corn, but neither the number of hens nor the amount of corn they consumed, which in the beginning had cost $2.50, had increased at all.

A humorous monologue entitled "Setting up the Stove," by Christine Harr; a relay race; a reading, "George Washington, the Man Who Might Have Been King," by Flossie Garner, and community singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," led by Mildred Redhead, completed the program.

Refreshments of coffee and assorted pastries were served following the meeting by Mrs. Cyrena Davis and Mrs. Edna Sawyer and Harry Davis.

Clue To Martin Family Vanishes

Portland (UPI)—A new clue which briefly aroused hopes in the strange disappearance of the Ken Martin family of Portland was wiped off the books today as another false lead.

Collapse of the clue again left authorities without a lead in the three months old mystery. Martin, his wife and three daughters vanished Dec. 7 after leaving home to look for Christmas greens.

An FBI laboratory report revealed Wednesday that chips of red paint found a month ago on a cliff near Bingen, Wash., did not come from the Martin's red and white station wagon.

agents, were also guests at the meeting and Klein also spoke. The program was in observance of National 4-H Club week.
