

Old-Fashioned Box Social Given by Reames Chapter

An old-fashioned box social given recently by Reames chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was a benefit for the Estarl fund. Estarl is "Eastern Star Training for Religious Leadership."

Centennial clothing was worn by many of those attending the party. Prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Randolph and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Root for the most colorful costumes. Mrs. Root's dress, more than 50 years old, belonged to Mrs. John Dickson Sr. Mr. Root wore his 52-year old wedding suit.

Mrs. Carl Oestreich wore a white dress, about 50 years old, belonging to Mrs. Frank Lambo, Klamath Falls. Mrs. Foss Kramer, Alpha chapter, Ashland, was dressed in a 70-year-old black gown which had belonged to her grandmother, and Miss Pauline Champlin wore an unusual 60-year-old dress first worn by an aunt. Mrs. Lloyd Caton's costume, 70 years old had belonged to Mrs. John Dickson Sr.

Mrs. Kate Trowbridge wore 70-year-old high shoes and a brown shawl first worn by an aunt. Mrs. John Smith's dress was covered by a 50-year-old apron.

A beaded black cape more than 60 years old and high laced shoes were worn by Mrs. Frank Roberts, and Mrs. Hazel Dickson's costume included a large old-fashioned hat.

Tacy and Carolyn, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Lynch, wore 60-year-old dresses.

The regional showing will be held March 22 through 27 at a place to be announced. Paintings may be taken during store hours to Purucker's Piano House, 111 North Central avenue, during the week of March 16.

A committee appointed by the Centennial commission will make the selection for paintings that will be shown in the Portland exhibit.

Chicken Remains Popular Sunday Dinner in Nation

By GAY PAULEY
New York—UPI—The American scene changes so rapidly most of us can't keep track.

But it's happy news that in an era of sports cars, stereophonic sound and satellites, one great tradition remains. We are a "chicken every Sunday" nation.

Gay Pauley
Our favorite dining spot also is the kitchen, we are a land of dessert eaters, and not so many of us are dieting as the propagandists would have you think.

These are some of the findings from a study of our eating habits, made by Market Research Corporation, at a cost of $750,000.

Market Research said this is the first such comprehensive study ever made—"we've collected enough facts to keep us busy sorting for the next five years," said Edward Walzer, director of communications. "I think we will know just about everything there is to know about eating."

Statistically, the study is staggering—some 30 million facts, gathered from 4,000 families with 14,000 members. The families, part of the organization's standard consumer panel, recorded their daily dining mores in diaries for a one-year period. They represented all income groups and all parts of the country.

Six big food companies (General Foods, General Mills, Pillsbury, Campbell Soup, Quaker Oats and R. T. French) footed the bill. They will use the study in developing new products and marketing the old.

One of the questions concerned Sunday dining and answers showed that poultry made up 32 per cent of the menu; casseroles, 11 per cent; foreign dishes, nine; soup, nine; fish, seven; stews, seven; and hash, five. The study also will indicate the percentage of meat in the Sunday menu, as soon as electronic computers can sort the answers.

Almost three-fourths of all family meals are eaten in the kitchen, the study showed. "But give us a dining room and we'll use it," commented one housewife in protest to modern home architecture.

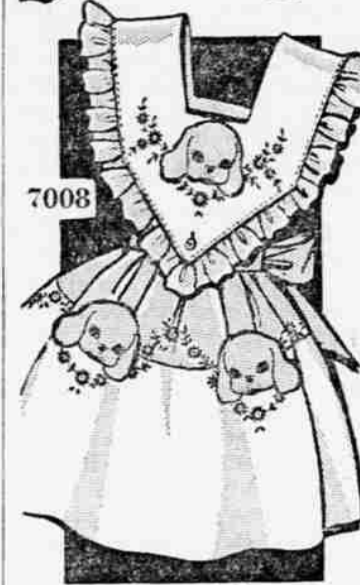

Breakfast, in terms of number of meals served, also is a bigger meal than either lunch or dinner. It also is the one most regularly eaten at home.

"We found no lag in dessert eating," said Walzer. "Desserts are featured almost as frequently for week-days as Sunday, but in less complex form. Apple pie and cheese are not the all-American dessert; apple pie and ice cream are more popular."

Only 10 per cent of the women and six per cent of the men were on reducing diets.

'Housekeeping Bills' Continue To Keep Legislators Occupied

By EVELYN NYE
Representative from Jackson County

We continue to wade through many so-called "housekeeping bills," which means bills that are needed to straighten out an inconsistency, or to bring previous legislation up to date, and we are also passing some of the smaller budgets which have been approved by the Ways and Means committee, but the bigger budget items and the more controversial bills are still in the hopper."

This doesn't mean that anyone is marking time—to the contrary, the committees are working night and day in their efforts to get all the information necessary to make sound decisions and to bring to the floor for a vote only those bills which have real merit and for which there is a demonstrated need.

The biggest struggle, the tax program, is being effectively aired in the press, and at this point it appears that the traditional philosophies of the two major parties on the issue are pretty well confused.

Area Education Bill
The Education committee held a hearing on Senate bill 260 on Tuesday night. This is the area education bill which would provide for post high school education, both academic and vocational, to be offered in specified areas of the state, if there is a demand evidenced by petition on the part of the residents of the area.

Such area education programs would be financed by federal, state and local support, plus tuition fees, and achievement would be limited to less than a baccalaureate degree.

It would make possible a much broader field of educational opportunity for those students who cannot go to college and those who want training in vocational fields; would make possible greater use of present school buildings and relieve pressure on institutions of higher education by offering lower division courses in local areas. Obviously it will take time to initiate such programs, but it would seem that the plan has long-range potentialities and could be carried out at relatively low cost.

On Reorganization
The House Education committee also held a hearing Wednesday afternoon on House bill 40 which amends the school reorganization law. Each of the many witnesses suggested a provision which would take care of the specific problems being encountered in his particular county or district, and while most agreed that the law is good and that reorganization is progressing under it, they hoped that the committee would see fit to include their locally requested concession.

The committee is trying hard to make the law as fair and as flexible as possible, but it will be impossible to draft it to the complete satisfaction of every school district in the state.

Following the program refreshments will be served. Hostesses are to be Mrs. Houston Pitts, chairman, Mrs. William Warren, Mrs. Clifford Wolff and Mrs. E. B. Hogan.

Election Announced For Eastwood Women

Women of Eastwood Baptist church Tuesday, March 10, will begin a White Cross work day at 10:15 a.m. under the direction of White Cross chairman, Mrs. Lyle Heidemann. The meeting will be held at the church.

Election of officers and a business meeting will be held prior to the work session.

Officers will meet for a board meeting at 9:30 a.m. Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. Robert Balk and Mrs. Ellis Chartier. Roll call verse for March is "giving."

lished on it. The bill as it now reads will allow for a control of the river for the purpose of developing a and protecting fish, wild-life and recreation, which are not now included in the regulations for use of the waters of the Rogue.
