

Service League Presents Annual Fashion Reviews

Cued to the fact that the fashion world—Paris, New York, Dallas and San Francisco—has abandoned its efforts to obscure the female figure and emphasize it instead, Junior Service League held its annual fashion reviews as a theme for the annual spring fashion shows. The first review, a luncheon event Friday, was attended by almost 200 women and the dinner presentation Saturday attracted more than 150 persons. Funds earned by the two shows will go to support of the league's kindergarten for deaf children.

Sprung flowers decorated the luncheon and dinner tables, and lengths of printed dress materials were arranged in the well frames. League members and their daughters served as models, and Mrs. Philip Lowry was commentator of both shows.

Interested in the shows was heightened by the addition of two interludes during which models demonstrated how a basic dress might be transformed with accessories and worn for different occasions.

Mrs. Eugene V. Meydering gave the first demonstration. Her basic ensemble was a black and white checked frock with bolero from Rath's store. Mrs. Meydering entered the room wearing black accessories with the dress, making it suitable for afternoon wear. On stage she removed the jacket, replaced her black pumps with others of tangerine colored straw cloth and added jewelry of black, silver and tangerine and a tangerine-colored handbag. Mrs. Meydering was then suitably gowned for dinner and dancing.

The second transformation was staged by Mrs. David Fortmiller, league member from Ashland. Her basic ensemble was a black wool suit consisting of a fringe-trimmed dress and jacket with extravaganza stand-away revers—now very fashionable, from Burelson's store. She discarded the jacket, replaced her black patent leather pumps and bag with matching rose print ones, and her pearls for "rosy pink" jewelry. She pinned to her hair an enormous multi-layered flower of pink fluff, draped a gray fur stole around her shoulders and was ready for a cocktail-time party.

Both women were assisted during the demonstrations by another league member, Mrs. Jack Lynch, dressed in a white blouse, abbreviated black pleated skirt and tiny white apron in her pose as a French maid. The exuberant applause which these scenes evoked from the men in the audience was as much for the pert "maid" as for the attractive models.

The teenage models, Vickie and Tanya Enders, Pat Ellis, Sue Graf, Barbara Whalin, Sue Baker, Tracy Blackstone and Diane Lewis, opened the show. They modeled sports, day-time and formal gowns. Diane Lewis aroused comments when she modeled a bathing suit and beach coat and being barefoot, adorned her two big toes with flowers.

Other league members who modeled were Mrs. Robert Cunningham, Mrs. W. B. Barnum, Mrs. Peter Trim, Mrs. L. Scott Ellis, Mrs. Hugh Pitts, Mrs. Floyd Hart Jr., Mrs. Arlon Skinner, Mrs. Ralph Hibbs, Mrs. Carl E. Wimberly Jr., and Mrs. Johnathan Middleton.

One of the more dramatic dresses modeled was a black polished cotton patio froth with one-strap bodice worn by Mrs. Skinner. The dress was accented with a Spanish-type straw hat with black band and scarf.

Mrs. Peter Trim made an effective model for furs worn over classic black, and Mrs. Barnum brought the show to a dashing close wearing a coat of brilliant white with flowing sleeves cuffed in matching white fox. The coat was worn over a gown of American beauty Arnel Jersey said to be washable and wrinkle-resistant. This interesting dress was hemless and milady was instructed to just snip the skirt off to the desired length.

Upper Rogue Club Announces Events
Coming events were announced at the last meeting of Upper Rogue Grange Home Economics club, held March 12 at the home of Mrs. Paul Torrance. Luncheon was served, with Mrs. Ray Gillespie as co-hostess.

Saturday night one outfit of dress and accessories donated by Medford merchants was given away. Merchants who provided clothing for the shows were Leon's, Hadley's, Jean Hart, Mann's Raths, Pick's, Town and Country, Frances Dallaire and Burelson's.

Republicans Discuss Aims, Goals

Jackson County Republican Women had an impromptu program yesterday devised by the president, Mrs. Murray Gardiner, since the scheduled speaker could not appear. It had been planned to have either Dr. Edwin R. Durno, state senator from Jackson county, or Mrs. Evelyn Nye, representative, speak to the group but both had important committee hearings which kept them in Salem.

Mrs. Gardiner appeared at the meeting with a set of questions which she distributed among members and which promoted discussion of the club's aims and goals for the coming year. It was brought out that members are still interested in speakers who will bring information of timeliness and importance, but believe that workshops planned by the Oregon Federation of Women's Republican clubs, with which the local club is now affiliated, should also be conducted from time to time.

Discussing goals of the club, women present expressed the opinions that education and information of the membership should be the primary aim of the organization. Asked to make plans for raising money, the group voted to raise dues to $2 a year, and to hold an early fall rummage sale. Some reluctance was expressed over holding of the sale, but it was pointed out that in spite of the almost continuous holding of these sales, they still remain one of the easiest ways for a group to raise a sizeable sum of money.

Material was read in opposition to House Bill 138 which would recognize the right of state employees to bargain collectively, and members were urged to study the bill and write legislators.

Mrs. Gardiner announced the annual convention of the Oregon Federation of Women's Republican clubs, to be held Thursday, March 26, and asked members able to attend to volunteer. The Jackson county club is entitled to five delegates. One of these will be Mrs. Gardiner.

The club voted a contribution to help send an Oregon Republican girl to the national convention of the party. For yesterday's meeting, held in the Red Cross building, members brought their own sandwiches; coffee and dessert were provided for a charge. A nursery was in operation. There was discussion of further meeting plans and the sandwich luncheon plan may be used again. The club is making an effort to interest young women in attending the sessions.

Adult Bible Class To Hold Meeting
Friendship Adult Bible class of First Christian church will meet Thursday, March 19, at 12 noon at the church. A covered dish luncheon will be served.

Closets will be easier to clean if you plan storage space so that nothing sits on the floors. Use pull-out trays or shelves for underwear, sweaters and other clothing that should lie flat.

"Where do you think we should hang this one?" seems to be the question as Mrs. Alice French Willits, '07, and Mrs. Anna Beeson Carter, '06, look through some of the 34 early-day photographs of Ashland, the Old Academy, and the Southern Oregon State Normal school, which have been presented to the college by the Southern Oregon College Alumni association. Permanently protected by glass, the pictures have been enlarged, framed in black hardwood, beautifully matted, and are being placed in Carpenter Conference room of the Britt Student center. Mrs. Carter, right, Medford, historian for the Old Timers branch of the association, was in charge of the project, and Mrs. Willits, Ashland, Old Timers secretary, acted as her assistant.

Japan's Empress-To-Be Has Poise, Intelligence

(This is the first of three dispatches about the next Empress of Japan, Michiko Shoda, the first "commoner" in 26 centuries to share the Japanese throne.)

By RONALD P. KRISS
United Press International
Tokyo (UPI)—The next Empress of Japan will be a girl who never could have hoped to be—except for a change in an ancient tradition.

She is Michiko Shoda, a commoner, and for 26 centuries no commoner ever has shared the ultra-exclusive throne of Japan.

Who is this girl whose poise, intelligence and good looks prompted the Crown Prince Akihito to upset 2,618 years of tradition?

Michiko Shoda was born in Tokyo university hospital, Oct. 20, 1934; she is only 10 months younger than her future husband.

Her childhood was spent in an atmosphere of wealth and ease. There were summers in the mountains of Karuzawa or on the beaches of Hayama, and winters in Tokyo.

Her well-to-do parents, Hidesaburo and Fumi Shoda, were an accomplished, widely traveled couple. They traced their ancestry to successful rice merchants and scholars.

The financial brain of the family was Michiko's grandfather, Teichiro Shoda, now at 88 patriarch of the clan. He started in business with a soy sauce factory and wound up with the multi-million dollar Nissin flour mill, which he eventually turned over to Michiko's father.

Comedy Opening Tonight

"The Tender Trap," first 1959 production of the Footlighters, opens tonight and will run for five days in the little pine-paneled theater behind the Medford Armory.

The play is a comedy, written by Max Shulman and Robert Paul Smith, for the purpose of proving that getting caught in a trap really can be fun. The Footlighters production is directed by Frank Buchter, who also directed the popular "Solid Gold Cadillac" last fall.

The play promises something new and unusual in scenery for the Footlighters stage, a lush New York apartment being the main scene of action. Bernard Roberts, Herbert Seitz, and Tom Esslinger designed the set and combed southern Oregon to find props befitting the home of a well-to-do bachelor with numerous girls friends.

The Footlighters also promise something new in the way of comfort for their patrons, at least those who arrive early. The first several rows of wooden seats in the theater have been torn out and replaced by comfortably padded seats.

"The Tender Trap" cast includes Charles Tucker, Robbie Robbins, Audrey Reiss, Shirley Budreau, Shirley Tucker, Shirlee Butterfield, and Dave Havlick. Promptress is Grace Shaw.

Performances start at 8:30 p.m. each evening. Tickets may be bought at the door, at Purucker's and Swem's in Medford, or from any member of the Medford Lions club.

Demonstration Given For Rogue-Elk Group

Elk Creek — Mrs. Kenneth Lacy and Mrs. Oscar Hanson gave a demonstration on "Care and Pruning of Shrubs" at the last meeting of Rogue-Elk Extension unit. It was held at the home of Mrs. Oscar Hanson, Elk Creek.

Mrs. J. F. Corliss, Central Point, was a visitor. Luncheon was served by the hosts, Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Morris Bush.

Prince nudged a companion and pointing to Michiko, said — "Look at the pretty girl over there."

By this time, Michiko was five feet, three and 1/2 inches tall, weighed 114 pounds and had a 32-23-36 figure.

But formal meeting with her future husband wasn't until a year later, in 1957 when she and a young American boy trounced the Crown Prince in a mixed doubles tennis match.

Social Night

Gold Hill Troop Display Wins Girl Scout Award

Gold Hill—Gold Hill Brownie Troop 180 won the sweepstakes award for their window display entitled "Home Front Panorama," for the north Medford district of the Rogue Valley Girl Scout council, the exhibit was displayed at Lester's Food Market in Gold Hill in conjunction with National Girl Scout week, Mar. 8 through Mar. 14. The overall theme was "our home frontier."

Judges were several Medford women who are affiliated with the Rogue Valley Girl Scout council.

The display depicted various scenes of three eras, 1859, 1959 and 1970. Mrs. W. F. Ganong is leader of the Gold Hill Brownie Troop and Mrs. Ray Neilson is her assistant. Mrs. Ganong, who is also neighborhood chairman, said that a great deal of credit is due Mrs. Pat O'Brian, Gold Hill, who assisted the leaders and the Scouts with artistic ideas.

Mrs. Ganong also stated that she wished to express appreciation on behalf of the troop to all of the various industries and groups that cooperated by furnishing authentic material, which enabled the Brownies to build the winning display. The troop has 32 second, third and fourth grade girls registered in the local group at this time.

Gold Hill Girl Scout Troop 121, under the leadership of Mrs. Walter Dye and the assistant, Mrs. Edward Shoemaker, entered an exhibit entitled "Old Oregon Trail," which they displayed all of last week in another location on Second avenue, in Gold Hill. This group received a participation ribbon in the window display contest.
