

Weekly Visitors Pay Homage to Pope John XXIII

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

Vatican City—A wave of sound rolls through the Vatican's Hall of Benedictions.

An American woman's mink cape slips from her shoulders to the floor as she leans far forward for a better view. A nun dabs at her eyes with a handkerchief.

The hand-clapping which had begun far back in the vast hall, now rolls forward, the wave advancing with the gestatorial chair borne by eight sturdy bearers.

Ahead are the noble guards, with glittering gold helmets.

At the side are the palatine guards, gold epaulettes on their uniforms and gold trim on their chamberlains in crimson tail coats and knee breeches.

Near the papal throne, the Swiss pikeman draw stiffly to attention.

Different from Predecessor

This is homage to a portly man of 77 elected to assume the mantle previously worn by Pope Pius XII.

This man is Pope John XXIII, new spiritual leader of the world's 500 million Catholics, as different from his predecessor as his personal bulk contrasts with thin, esthetic Pius XII.

This is a man of seemingly boundless energy, impatient with tradition, possessed of limitless curiosity which already has startled more than one Vatican attendant.

From the papal throne, he welcomes the more than 7,000 Romans and pilgrims jamming the Hall of Benedictions to standing room only.

It is the regular weekly audience.

As he begins his welcome, his hands rest relaxed against the armrest of the throne.

But as he continues, he gestures and finally the gestures are continuous and vigorous. His voice booms through the two microphones before him and he half rises to make his point.

His message in Italian and French is a simple one of faith, but Pope John XXIII pours energy into every act.

Already he has confounded the prophets who had predicted he would be an "interim" pope, content to consolidate rather than to institute new policies such as his predecessors who plunged the church into international diplomacy.

One announcement already portends far-reaching consequences for the Roman Catholic church.

That was his call for an ecumenical congress, one of the highest level of all church councils whose decrees by church law are infallible. It will aim at bringing back to the Roman Catholic church some 50 million Eastern Catholics not now under Vatican jurisdiction.

Benediction of Palms Scheduled for Sunday

In accordance with ancient tradition of the church, the benediction of the palms will take place at the 8 a.m. Holy Eucharist at St. Mark's Episcopal church Sunday.

The palms, especially imported from the Holy Land for the purpose, will adorn the altar, be carried by the choir in procession, and the remainder will be fashioned into small crosses by members of the Altar Guild, and be distributed to worshippers at all Palm Sunday, the first day of Holy Week.

According to traditional practice these crosses are retained until Ash Wednesday of the following year when they are burned at the start of another Lenten season.
