APPLEGATE VALLEY Families Take Trips

By MAUDE ZIEGLER

Applegate Valley - Spring vacation in the schools has been the incentive for a number of local people to take trips.

Mrs. Elizabeth Vessell and son, Henry, are visiting relatives at Tillamook, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Krouse and daughter, Beth, and Mrs. Dora Krouse are spending the vacation with relatives at San Luis Obispo. Mr. and Mrs. George Redhead are spending the week at Livermore, Calif., as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Redhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shannon went to Portland, where they will visit their son, Bill, and Mrs. Shannon will attend the Oregon Teachers' conference. Other teachers from Ruch attending are Boyd Gibson and Mrs. Lucille McKemie. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wallato of Star Ranger station have left for Michigan for a month's leave.

Mrs. Lawrence Richardson of Provolet has accepted a position as clerk-dispatcher at Star Ranger station, succeeding Byron Peffley, who left in January to attend Southern Oregon college. Mrs. Richardson has just completed a course at Robertson's school of business in Medford and she and Mr. Richardson are residing at the station.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Twiss have returned after spending the winter in southern California. Twiss is a fireman at the ranger station.

"Happy," a four-year-old McNab Shepherd dog belonging to Glenn Saltmarsh is gaining a reputation in the Little Applegate area for the bobcats he has treed, having brought his third one to bay in the last few weeks.

Saltmarsh killed two of the animals, but the first one escaped while he went for his gun, consequently "Happy" is having a few lessons in holding the cats in the tree. He has treed a number of porcupines, but Saltmarsh says that for the bobcats he has a different "bark."

The Little Applegate sewing club will cancel their March meeting in view of the fact that their annual family dinner will be held at Upper Applegate Grange hall Saturday, April 4.

Misses Sharon and Donna Wilson, students at Southern Oregon college and Oregon State college, are spending the spring vacation here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wilson of Upper Applegate store.

Mrs. Montella Freeland, Medford greenhouse owner, was a guest speaker at the Applegate valley garden club meeting at the home of Mrs. Armin Richter Wednesday. She spoke on propagation and cutting of plants.

She was accompanied by Mrs. Audrey Stout, and, before the meeting, the ladies were luncheon guests of Mrs. Raymond Lomas here.

New officers in the garden club are Mrs. Lance Offenbacher, president; Mrs. Francis Krouse, vice president; and Mrs. Jess Janssen, secretary-treasurer. The next work project of the garden club will be mulching of rose bushes with saw dust at the Log Town cemetery. The yellow Log Town rose slips, 60 in all, were planted in December as a Centennial project.

Young people of the Ruch and Provolet community churches held swimming parties at Twin Plunges in Ashland this week.

Mrs. Vern Taylor and son, David, of Lakeview, Ore., are spending the school vacation period at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sorber.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Saltmarsh spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kleinhammer, in Ashland. Mrs. Kleinhammer is recovering from a recent illness.

John Pernoll has returned to Fairbanks, Alaska, after spending three months here with his mother, Mrs. Lora Pernoll.

Mrs. Curtis Gearhardt will be hostess to ladies of lower Applegate extension unit on Tuesday. Pruning of shrubbery will be the project demonstrated and members are expected to wear old fashioned dresses.

Mrs. Ethel Haugard underwent surgery at Sacred Heart hospital Thursday. Mrs. Louie Hanson of Milton-Freewater, is spending several weeks here as a guest of Mrs. Haugard.

A storage shed, containing a deep freeze, tools and other items, was destroyed by fire at the Clarence Roloff residence recently. It is thought the fire was caused from a stove in the shed.

Rural reflections: Considering the recent publicity on "Sunday drives," an old timer has said that he likes to go back a bit further than car rides with glass curtains enclosed, and think of the old horse-and-buggy ride.

He relates that one of the best remembered drives one Sunday afternoon was the trip up Sterling way when wild flowers were blooming. It was an impromptu family trip and the items on hand for the picnic lunch were bacon sandwiches and radishes from the garden. Sight of a coyote was the only excitement, but who has time now to see a coyote, he asks?

Other well-remembered buggy trips, he said, are the shopping trips to Medford with noon dinner of boiled beef and potatoes at Mrs. Kent's restaurant now the Osteopathic clinic. The horse had his feed at the Jacksonville livery stable. Another choice trip was to the Blue Lodge mine. The importance of this trip merited borrowing the neighbor's surrey with fringe and making it a large family affair.

OSC Professor Held In Child's Death

Corvallis - (UPI) - David C. England, 37, assistant professor of animal husbandry at Oregon State college, was arrested Monday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter involving the death last month of an adopted son.

England was alleged to have struck 12-year-old Charles Edwin England on the jaw inflicting an injury which caused the boy to die the following day, Feb. 8.

The father gave himself up voluntarily today when District Attorney John B. Fenner asked him to come to the courthouse. A grand jury issued the secret indictment late Friday.

England posted a $10,000 property bond.

CITY PAYROLLS UP

Washington - (UPI) - City government payrolls almost doubled during the past 10 years to hit a monthly rate of more than half a billion dollars. The Census Bureau said the big jump - from a monthly average of $266 million in October, 1948, to $1.1 billion in October, 1958 - came in the face of an increase of only 25 per cent in the number of city employees.

Congress Making Progress on Legislation for Union Reform

Washington - (UPI) - Congress is making faster progress this year on union reform legislation than it did last session but months of controversy will precede passage of any new law.

The Senate's machinery is already grinding out a bill designed to cope with corruption revealed by its rackets investigation committee.

In the House, hearings have started on proposals to curb racketeering and insure union democracy. That's a 100 per cent improvement over the last session when no such hearings were held.

Delay and conflict seem inevitable, however. Congress is considering major labor legislation for the first time since President Eisenhower asked for Taft-Hartley revisions in 1953.

A standoff could result from the determined drives of business lobbyists and the AFL-CIO to get the best possible deal from Congress in any new labor law. But progress in 2 1/2 months is considerable.

Kennedy Bill Passage Seen Under the leadership of chairman John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), the Senate Labor Subcommittee is far ahead of its 1958 timetable. Last year the Kennedy-Ives bill hit the Senate floor in June. It later died in the House during the closing days of the session.

This year the feeling in Washington is that Kennedy's 1959 model will be passed by the Senate before the end of May.

Nobody pretends to know how 436 House members will divide when Kennedy's bill or any other piece of labor reform legislation comes to the voting stage a few months later.

Capitol Hill veterans predict Speaker Sam Rayburn will schedule a vote before Congress adjourns this summer.

The faction-ridden House Labor Committee appears to be one of the major bottlenecks. This year's addition of five liberal Democrats appears likely to deepen the split between its pro-labor and conservative members.

Committee chairman Graham A. Barden (D-N.C.), who has blocked action before by refusing to call meetings of group, is crusading for his own bill. Labor spokesmen denounce it.

One new development in the House is the apparent switch by some Congressmen from coal-producing states on outright opposition of any union reform bill to a grudging acceptance of the Kennedy plan. Last year, influenced by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis, most of them voted to kill the similar Kennedy-Ives measure.

Three Groups Battle

The basic tug-of-war involves three major blocs - labor - liberals, administration - Republicans and Southern conservatives.

The three groups are basically in accord on the need to place union operations in a "goldfish bowl" open to public view. But they split on whether to place new restrictions on union picketing and boycott activity.

The labor-liberals are fighting boycott-picket curbs because they feel it's an effort to weaken unions' bargaining strength in the guise of reform.

The other two groups either feel gangsters can ride to power by misuse of labor's traditional weapons or openly argue for reductions in labor's strength.

Another difference arises in ways proposed to enforce the reporting requirements.

Kennedy would provide criminal penalties for union officials concealing or distorting the reports. The administration advocates a wide range of penalties from court injunctions to denial of tax exemp-

Third IS IMPORTANT Madison, Wis. - (UPI) - Three buildings were dedicated at the University of Wisconsin over the weekend - a dormitory for 254 women, a dormitory for 256 men, and a commons building.

AFL-CIO leaders are going all-out for passage of the Kennedy version. They are hoping labor reform will be taken care of this year so Congressional decks will be cleared for a bigger battle over major Taft-Hartley changes starting next January.
