

Plans Discussed For Memorial for Vets Buried Here

Plans were made at the recent meeting of the Veterans Allied Council of Jackson County to erect a centralized memorial in each of the county's cemeteries by the various veterans organizations.

The memorial would be dedicated to all veterans buried in the cemetery.

Henry C. Herzog, Camp White Domiciliary manager, discussed the history and explanation of domiciliary centers in the nation from both the member and the manager's viewpoint. Slides were shown by Eustace Ash, chief of recreation at the domiciliary.

Pat Graham, of the Disabled American Veterans post, has been asked to attend Medford city council meetings to learn the viewpoints of city officials and others interested in municipal affairs.

The same request was made of Clarence Mathes, of Ashland, Keegan Townsend was asked to represent the Veterans Council at the county court in any matter that needs representation.

Organizations participating in the meeting were VFW Posts 1833, Medford and 3423 Ashland and 6412 Camp White, American Legion Post 15, Medford; Post 14, Ashland; Veterans of World War I Post 540, Medford; Post 1268, Ashland and Post 14, Camp White and Disabled American Veterans chapter Post 8, Medford.

The council coordinates the programs of several veterans organizations and tries to promote the same cooperation with all other civic organizations in matters of civic importance.

'MOTHER KNOWS BEST'

Ithaca, N. Y. — "Mother knows best" — Most adolescent girls buy the theory that "mother knows best." A Cornell University survey of 194 girls in the 9th and 10th grades indicates that they follow their mothers' advice more than just doing what their friends do.

NAMED TO CLUB—Leonard Carlson, 929 Beall lane, salesman for Dick Knight company, has been named a member of DeSoto's exclusive "Master Salesman's" club for outstanding retail selling in 1958. Presenting Carlson with a $500 award is Frank Fisher, left, manager of DeSoto's Portland region. Knight is on the right. The award, made in Portland, was contained in bags stuffed with bills and in a wheelbarrow containing a rake, cultivator and spade for his "down to earth" digging for sales.

Blitz Band Starts Statewide Tour

Portland — The five-piece Blitz Centennial band started its two-month tour of the state last week.

The state-wide tour will include two days in Medford April 28 and 29, the Blitz-Weinhard company said. The band is a non-commercial effort by the company to create additional enthusiasm and participation in the Centennial.

The band will be a regular feature of the 100-day Centennial exposition in Portland starting June 10. During its engagements, the band will feature selections from Stan Freberg's musical comedy on the Oregon Centennial.

The band includes Joe D. Ingram Jr., Portland, who plays the cornet and will lead the group; George Baker, Portland, banjo and guitar; Russ Hackett, Portland, piano and trombone; Archie Thomas, Portland, clarinet and slide trombone; and Carl Butte, tuba and string bass.

Market for Valley Douglas Fir Chips Ends for Two Mills

Ross Lumber company and Kogap Lumber Industries have been notified that they no longer have a market for their Douglas fir pulp chips, company spokesmen said Friday.

Both companies have searched the state for other market outlets but have been unable to find any, it was reported. The two companies did have an agreement with Western Kraft pulp company in Albany to take shipments of fir chips over a six-week period. They have been notified now that the agreement will end April 15.

"This is discouraging to us because we do not now have an opportunity to ship chips out of here," Stuart V. Mc-

Queen, of Kogap, Medford, said. "Apparently we are too far away and the pulp plant is able to get all the chips it needs from close at hand."

Shipments Per Day
Ross Lumber company was shipping two carloads a day and Kogap one carload.

Sixty per cent of the production of both lumber companies is Douglas fir with the remaining 40 per cent white fir. It means the companies will have to burn the material they have been chipping and shipping. Both companies still ship white fir chips to an Oregon City pulp mill.

"We would like to utilize all of our waste materials and not burn any of it," Paul Doe of Ross Lumber company,

Talent Journalism Class Visits Paper

Members of the Talent High school journalism class visited the Mail Tribune Friday. They were Kathleen Mullin, Elizabeth King, Patsy Thompson, Pat Richey, Sharon Walker and Nancy Pettit.

They were accompanied by the instructor, Mrs. Mildred Hart, and John Kuchler, bus driver. The class visited the press and composing rooms, and toured the newsroom.

White City, said. "However, if we don't have a market for it we have to burn it."

Ross Lumber company uses clear material for molding, it was pointed out. The company has also been seeking means to utilize its bark. Ross Lumber sent a man to California to study use of bark in a sawdust mulch for orchardists and flower-growers. However, no such market has been found here, Doe said.

Mexico's population has doubled in three decades to reach more than 30 million.

Somerset Bridge, which joins Somerset Island to the mainland Bermuda, is believed to be the smallest drawbridge in the world. Its draw is only large enough to permit passage of a sailboat mast.
