Greensboro, N. C.—(UPI)—Dow Finsterwald, unhappy at his treatment by the gallery, says he may not come back here next year to defend the Greater Greensboro Open golf championship he won in a rain-soaked finish Sunday.

Finsterwald, of Tequesta, Fla., picked up $2,000 as a result of his six-over-par 77 on Sunday's final round which gave him a total of 278 strokes and a two-stroke margin over Masters champion Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa.

The new champion came in saying he thought the gallery had been "impartial to everybody but me."

Snead Ties For Third
"I think maybe I'll give them the go by and not come back to defend next year," he said.

Sam Snead's 70 jumped him from 17th place at 54 holes to a tie for third at 281, while Doug Ford's 70 gave him a tie for eighth at 284. Snead was 10 strokes behind Finsterwald at the beginning of the final round but finished just three strokes back.

Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., who came in with a fourth-day 72, gained a tie with Snead for third at 281. Two strokes back at 283 were Tom Nieporte of Bronville, N. Y., Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, and Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.

Lorin Christean, ex-Medford high footballer and track man, has reported that he will enter Washington State college next fall on an athletic grant-in-aid. Christean, a 1957 grad of Medford, was released at the first of the month from the Marine Corps. He has been stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he was a flame-thrower squad leader and attained the rating of corporal. Christean was starting left half-back for the Marine 7th Regiment grid team last fall until he suffered an ankle injury. He played in seven games. His WSC grant is for football. He will work until he leaves for school.

MILLS, CORDY SHINE
D. C. Mills, Cliff Cordy and Jerry Stubblefield were ex-southern Oregon prep performers whose track and field efforts stood out Saturday for University of Oregon and Oregon State college.

Mills, ex-Medford high, hurled the javelin 243 feet 10 inches for the Oregon varsity against University of Washington to shatter the meet and Hayward field records.

Cordy, ex-Crater, won the mile for OSC against University of Idaho in the time of 4:16.3. This effort, while overshadowed by Dyrrol Burleson's 4:07.6 for the UO Frosh against the OSC Rooks and Jim Grelle's 4:09.9 for Oregon against Washington, was still a fine time, particularly considering the fact that Cordy's previous concentration was on the half-mile.

Stubblefield, ex-Ashland, heaved the discus 162-10 for the Frosh, which was better than the 161-10, by Don Anacker, Washington, in the varsity meet.

BINGHAM HELD MARK
Mills in taking the javelin, shattered the meet record which was set in 1957 by another ex-Medford high athlete, Ed Bingham. The mark by Bingham was 226-9½.

THREE AT OREGON
At University of Oregon, ex-Medford athletes include Mills and Wilcey Winchell on the track squad and Jim Gordon on the tennis team. Oregon's press book lists Winchell as a steady entrant in the half-mile.

HERRMANN AT LINFIELD
Fred Herrmann, ex-Crater high, is a varsity pitcher for Linfield college. He pitched a 17 to 4 win over Willamette on Saturday, collecting three singles to aid his own cause. He gave up eight hits, struck out

KOCH SECOND HIGH
Something we didn't catch when we went through the A-1 prep state basketball tournament record book and haven't mentioned — George Koch of the Medford high crew was second in rebound retrieving in the tourney. His 53 recoveries followed the 74 by Mel Counts of Marshfield. Bob Peterson of Klamath Falls was third with 50 and Steve Pauly of Beaverton fourth with 49. Koch is currently flinging the javelin, high jumping and broad jumping for the Black Tornado track crew.

HOCKEY
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Toronto, Ont.—(UPI)—Toronto Maple Leaf Coach Punch Imlach claims he still can see the Stanley Cup in his crystal ball today, but the Montreal Canadiens are clouding the picture.

The Leafs were outplayed badly in losing, 5-3 and 3-1, in Montreal. The man given most of the credit for that was perennial All-Star defenseman Doug Harvey, who repeatedly broke up scoring threats and also made spectacular rink-length rushes that led to the winning goals in both games.

McKay Optimistic On River Solution

Salem—(UPI)—Former Interior Secretary Douglas McKay, chairman of the U. S. section of the International Joint Commission, said on his arrival in Oregon Saturday for a two-week vacation that he was more optimistic than ever about the United States and Canada coming to terms on methods for computing the costs of and benefits from Columbia river development on both sides of the border.

McKay said the next two meetings of the commission, at Montreal late this month and in June, would deal exclusively with Columbia river development.

The former Oregon governor planned to spend his vacation at his home here and part of it on the coast at Neskon.

Fall Over Cliff Kills Photographer

Big Sur, Calif.—(UPI)—Pfc. Donald S. Brown, 24, Los Angeles, was killed Saturday when he fell 500 feet down the face of a seaside cliff while attempting to photograph a herd of sea lions on the beach below.

Brown's body was found by a friend, Pfc. Patrick H. McQuilliams, also of Los Angeles. The two soldiers were stationed at Ft. Ord.

McQuilliams said Brown climbed out to a precarious position on the cliff to get a better picture of the sea lions and suddenly disappeared. His body was found on a ledge 15 feet above the beach.

Relatives Give Up Attempt To Find Hermit of Griffith Park

Los Angeles—(UPI)—Time and money ran out on Lyle Farrell's effort to fulfill a brotherly obligation to find the Hermit of Griffith Park.

For nearly a week, the 29-year-old street department worker from North Platte, Neb., had lived on the edge of the mountainous, 4,200-acre park hoping to talk to his brother, Dennis, 32.

But Sunday, Lyle came to the end of his resources. He boarded a bus for Nebraska to rejoin his wife and six children, notifying Los Angeles police he would return if his brother deserted his sanctuary.

In an interview with United Press International before leaving, Lyle said, "I don't want to force him (Dennis) to do a damn thing. I just want to talk with him."

"If he thinks no one cares what happens to him, I'm here to show him that it's not true. But I can only stay so long. I have a family and a job."

Wounded War Veteran
Lyle's big brother, a wounded veteran of World War II fighting on Okinawa, disappeared of life five years ago. He took to the vast park to escape an existence which he found as palatable as sawdust.

On April 3, police picked up a ragged, bearded man in the park as a prowler suspect. It was Dennis Farrell—a Nebraska boy, an infantryman and now a hermit within a metropolitan area of more than six million persons.

Dennis told of his decision to reject society:
"I saw no future in anything. I thought I'd just go up there and die. I just didn't see any future."

In his depression, the veteran wanted to die. He tried to starve himself but hunger pangs drove him to the leavings of picknickers and garbage cans of homes bordering the park.

For five years, he lived that way, sometimes sleeping where night found him, sometimes staying in a cave or in a lean-to built out of scraps.

Healthy and Rational
Police officers who questioned the ragged recluse found him healthy and rational. They released him to return to his refuge from life with the comment:
"It's no crime to live alone and avoid society and he appears to be healthy and rational."

Stories of Dennis' hermitage—spread across the nation—brought his uncle, Anee Copley, 775 Queen's Drive, Medford, Ore., and A. R. Copley, Agate rd., Eagle Point, to join the search. The hermit's father and brother came from Nebraska.

They were too late. Dennis had returned to his sanctuary. The task of finding him in the giant park with its own mountain range "seemed impossible."

The uncle left. So did the father, but Lyle stayed on—determined to stick as long as possible in hopes that his brother might hear that his relatives were looking for him.

Morse Would Turn Berlin Over To UN
Salem—(UPI)—Senator Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) advocated turning the entire city of Berlin over to the U.N. in a speech here Saturday night at the windup of a session of Young Democrats of Oregon.

He asked: "At the negotiating level, why should we not propose to put the entire city of Berlin under the United Nations?"

"All the great powers are occupying Berlin under the same agreements. If they no longer agree on the old terms of occupation, why not turn all zones over to the United Nations?"

Morse devoted about half of his address to an attack of the Eisenhower administration. He was introduced to a large audience of both young and old Democrats by Rep. Edith Green (D-Ore.)
