Convention Opens Today For Epsilon Sigma Alpha

Two hundred delegates are expected to arrive in Medford today for the annual convention of Oregon members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha international sorority. Headquarters are at the Medford hotel. Mrs. Willie Fischer and Mrs. Lynn Smith are general co-chairmen.

Honored guest will be Mrs. George Starr, Ponca City, Okla., second vice-president of the sorority's international council. Convention hostesses are the Ashland, Medford and Grants Pass chapters which make up the Southern Oregon ESA council.

Convention activities will begin with a mixer tonight, and Saturday's program calls for business sessions and workshops.

Alpha Kappa chapter, Ashland, will be hostess for a Bard's Feast luncheon in recognition of the Oregon Shakespearean festival. Saturday night Alpha Lambda, Medford, has planned a Golden Era banquet for members, and a Wagon Wheels banquet for the men. Installation of officers, presentation of awards, pin ceremonies and announcement of the outstanding ESA members in Oregon will follow the banquet. A formal dance will close the evening program.

Sunday morning the sorority has planned a non-denominational church service and memorial rites. This will be followed by a Gladtime brunch planned by Alpha Iota and Gamma Rho chapters, Grants Pass. Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority now has chapters in 41 states, and in Oregon, where the first one was established 13 years ago, now has 60

Initiation ceremonies were held for the Misses Sharon Chipman, Catherine Uridel, and Sharon Shriar.

Honored Queen Lynda Knips presided. Escorted were Past Queen Karalee Selby, Grand Bethel Page Sandra Sanner; Mrs. Paul Selby, past Bethel guardian; Mrs. Wendell Spence, past guardian Bethel 14; Mrs. William Suit, grand guide of Oregon, and L. R. Manning, vice grand Associate Guardian of Oregon.

Introduced were John Smith, Deputy Oregon grand master; John Pond, grand standard bearer; John Eddy, senior warden of Medford lodge, and Stanley Jones, royal patron of Roxy Ann court, order of Amaranth.

A surprise money making project was conducted by Senior Princess Barbara Gordon. Each adult present was assessed for the amount of the total of their telephone numbers.

Committees were appointed for the next meeting, April 28, which will be Mother's night.

A report on grand session was given by Miss Sanner.

An invitation was read and plans made to attend Friendship night of Bethel 38, Central Point.

Merit awards were presented by Mrs. William Knips, merit award director, as follows: Gold award, Barbara Gordon; silver award, Lynda Knips, Karalee Selby, and Donna Dell; bronze awards, Marcia Barrell, Jackie Mee, Sandra Sanner, Janet Turner and Charlotte Anne Brown.

Miss Karalee Selby, Al Brown, Frank Little, and Fred Purdin were escorted to the East for the birthday march.

New Sports Car Pastime Needs Driver, Navigator

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York—(AP)—A growing hobby among the U.S. motorist set puts the lady back seat driver up front. The result will be a sharp increase in the divorce rate, humorously predicted on a male hobbyist, who is currently who happily wed.

Sports car rallies, long a pastime in Europe, have spread to America.

For the information of those who have not participated in this sport, a rally is a contest in which the driver and navigator of a sports car pit their skills against a driving course outlined to the second by one of the numerous sports car clubs. The aim of the rallyists: To travel a given distance in prescribed time and at prescribed speed. The reward, in addition to fun, usually is a cup or other trophy.

Short and Long A rally may be as short as four hours on a Sunday afternoon or for as long as 3,000 miles over a four-week period.

But to stay within the prescribed limits on time and distance requires detailed mathematical calculation and this is where the little woman usually comes in, as "navigator."

"Keeping the family budget is much easier," sighed Mrs. John C. Conover, a young New York matron. Her husband, executive director of a trade group, the Corset and Brassiere association, recently acquired a British-made sports car. He promptly joined a sports car club, started on their rallies, and recruited her as assistant.

"I'll admit the driver was much the easier job," said Conover. "I know. As an old Navy man, I have been both pilot and navigator." "I can see it now," he added good-naturedly. "As the rallies get more popular, there will be more lost tempers... separations... divorces."

Although husband and wife, or boy friend and girl friend, may squabble over the way they finished in a rally—the mistakes are always hers of course, they go right on with their pastime.

Imports Growing Alan F. Bethell, former racing car driver and now president of Britain's Standard-Triumph Motor company, estimated that between 80,000 and 90,000 sports cars now are imported yearly.

The British Auto Manufacturers' association of New York said last year's imports of sports cars from the five leading British makers totaled 48,000. The 1937 total was 28,000; for 1936, it was 15,000. The association said British makers account for more than half of all sports cars sold in the United States.

"Rallies are for more than just fun," said Bethell. "They call for precision driving. They're safety contests too. The rallyist who violates any traffic law is disqualified immediately by his club. There are hidden observers all along the route."

"Rallyists come in all ages. We have heard of some in their 70's. But the average couple seems to be in the mid-thirties."

to the East for the birthday march.
