They'll Do It Every Time

You and Your Pet

(Prepared under the auspices of the Southern Oregon Humane Society)

We must learn to sympathize with the animals about us.

One of the most beautiful and valuable features of the kindergarten education, which comes nearer true education than any we have yet seen, is the constantly recurring love, sympathy, kindness, and care for the animal world. All fellowships thus fostered, and the humane sentiments thus inculcated, will return to soften and enrich the child's and later the man's or the woman's life, a thousand or a million fold; for we must always bear in mind that every kindness shown, every service done, to either a fellow human being or a so-called dumb creature, does us more good than the one for whom or that for which we do it.

It is impossible to overestimate the benefits resulting from judicious, humane instruction. The child who has been taught nothing of mercy, nothing of humanity, who has never been brought to realize the claims that animals have upon him for protection and kindness, will grow up to be thoughtless and cruel toward them. And if he is cruel to them, that same heart, untouched by kindness and mercy, will prompt him to be cruel to his family, to his fellow - men. On the other hand, the child who has been taught to realize the claims that God's lower creatures have upon him, whose heart has been touched by lessons of kindness and mercy, under their sweet influence will grow to be a large-hearted, tender-hearted manly man.

Then let the children be trained, their hands, their intellects, and above all their hearts. Let them be taught to have pity for the animals that are at our mercy, that cannot protect themselves, that cannot explain their weakness, their pain, or their suffering, and soon this will bring to their recognition that higher law, the moral obligation of man as a superior being to protect and care for the weak and defenseless. Nor will it stop here, for this in turn will lead them to that highest law – man's duty to man.

No animal ever tortures for the sake of torturing but man, and this constitutes the devilish character in him which is far worse than the merely animal. Instinct does not deceive here, for only man hunts prey which is neither useful to him or injures him. Cruelty to the weak and defenseless of all species, sinking to its lowest, most degrading level, is our brutal exploitation of animals. The frenzied little fur-bearing animal struggling, dying in the jaws of the steel trap. The terrified thirst-maddened cattle driven to gory slaughter. The panting trembling deer felled by deadly bullets – for sport.

To end the merciless, relentless aggression against wildlife might well hasten the day when nation will cease to fight nation.

Humane Joe.

8-STORY GATE

East Lansing, Mich. – (UPI) – How do you keep a gate as tall as an eight-story building from twisting while it's in operation? The question has been answered by a Michigan State University professor of civil engineering, Dr. Carl L. Shermer. The gates in question will be used on the Robinson Bay and Grass River locks–two of the largest on the St. Lawrence Seaway. Twisting will be controlled by precisely tensioned diagonal braces across the steel girder framework.
