Redmond as toastmistress introduced the cast: Sally Scoop, Mrs. Harry Marshall; Ellen News, Mrs. James VanderSteen; Gloria Gadabout, Mrs. Thomas Ball; Linda Scatterbrain, Mrs. Clarence Bolls; and Anna Wright, Miss Anna Streed. ### Artist in Nova Scotia Makes Hooked Portraits

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York—(UPI)—Some women hook rugs. Elizabeth LeFort of Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, hooks portraits of famous people.

This dyed-in-the-wool artist, a shy farm girl from the rugged land of the Acadians immortalized in Longfellow's "Evangeline", has made hooked paintings of President Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth II, Arthur Godfrey and his horse, and the late Pope Pius XII.

The portrait of "Ike" copied in home-dyed wools from a color photograph which the Republican National Committee sent her, hangs in the White House. It prompted a complimentary letter from the President, no mean artist himself.

Gold Hill—Gold Hill artists exhibited paintings recently in conjunction with the Gold Hill Parent-Teacher association variety show. Mrs. Leonard (Ada) Andrews was in charge of the exhibit, held in the Hanby school building.

A public voting selected as first place winner "Woods at Diamond Lake," one of several paintings displayed by Hal Bishop. Mrs. Roy (Dorothy) Eskew's "Sunny Slopes," placed second. Three paintings tying for third place were "A Portrait" by Hal Bishop; "Eagle Rock," by Mrs. Earl (Viola) Moore; and "Desert Justice," by Mrs. Viola Tolman.

Other local artists participating were Mrs. John (Edna) Cogswell, Mrs. Ray (Helen) Davis, Mrs. Ralph (Ethyl) Hixson, Mrs. Pete (Margaret) Munday, and Mrs. Wallace (Gean) Neece.

H. D. Force, president of the PTA, welcomed those attending the recent variety show sponsored by the unit to raise funds for the budget. Mrs. Leonard McMahan, ways and means chairman, was in charge of all arrangements for the successful performance, which included western, modern and classical numbers.

Entertainers were from many sections of the county. Appearing during the evening were a clarinet quartet led by Miss Joyce Dye, all students of the Hanby school band; Dr. Stanley A. Brown, pianist; Miss Cathy Classick, Rogue River, and Louie Thurston and Lanny Taylor, both of Medford, presenting tap and calypso dance routines; and the Gold Hill Community church trio, including Mrs. Norman Gail, Mrs. Roy Eskew and Mrs. Paul Molloy.

Other entertainers were Mrs. Adeline Wheldon, Medford, and her trained pomeranian; Mrs. Sam Jones and children, Billy and Marie; and the FFA Rogue Ramblers of Crater High school; and the Shadows, vocal group from St. Mary's High school.

Women Visit From Palo Alto

Mrs. Evelyn Koehler and daughter, Mrs. Roy Moore, Palo Alto, Calif., visited friends here Friday. They are former Medford residents.

To keep fish moist while baking or broiling, brush it with melted butter, mixed with a little Tabasco and lemon juice.

At the moment, Miss LeFort is branching out from people as subjects and doing the "Mayflower II" from a color photograph. She has just completed her most ambitious project—a copy of Leonardo Da Vinci's "The Last Supper".

This intricate painting measures eight feet in width and four and one-half feet in height. Miss LeFort estimates she used three and one-half miles of yarn and 800 thousand stitches—169 inches make one square inch.

"The Last Supper" took 154 colors, all of them dyed in regular pots and pans on her kitchen stove. The wool comes from her neighbor's sheep and is sent to Prince Edward Isle for processing into yarn.

I met this unique artist, a small dark-haired woman of 44, when she came to Manhattan for an exhibit of her work. She had held winter exhibits in Laguna Beach, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz. She was heading to Toronto for an exhibit this week and then on home to tiny Point Cross, Cape Breton Island.

Her sponsors, accompanying her, are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hansford, who summer in Nova Scotia, where they run a restaurant, a photo and arts and crafts shop along the Cabot trail, a big tourist attraction.

Come winter, the Hansfords usually head for Phoenix—"we get 100 mile winds and temperatures 25 below on Cape Breton," said Hansford. "It's too rugged for me."

Discovered on Farm
Hansford said he discovered Miss LeFort just by combing the farm area in search of arts and crafts. Rug hooking is an old skill with the Acadians. Miss LeFort learned from her mother, but it was her own idea to go into portraits and landscapes.

She sketches her designs in ink on burlap first, then fills in with the wool yarns. "In all, I guess I've done close to 50 pictures in the last 15 years," she said, in careful English. Her native tongue is French. "I must work in spare time. There are lots of chores on a farm."

The artist, daughter of a fisherman, lives with her brother and his wife. She remains a modest soul, although those who have seen her work praise them highly. Some paintings have sold for $300 to $500 but a few dealers have talked of "The Last Supper" in terms of a $10,000 price tag, she said.

Fresh Oyster Casserole

Drain a pint of fresh oysters, roll in seasoned flour and saute with fresh mushrooms in butter over a medium gas flame. Precook a package of macaroni as for macaroni and cheese and place a layer of cooked macaroni on the bottom of a greased shallow casserole. Add the oysters and mushrooms and sprinkle with garlic salt. Finish with another layer of macaroni. Add a can of diluted cream of mushroom soup, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and bake in a gas oven set at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

With Pork
The Swedes like spiced prunes or apricots with pork dishes. The Chinese make a sweet and sour sauce using pineapple chunks and green peppers with pieces of pork. The French like an herb seasoned stuffing and a sprightly light wine. Margaret Spader, home service editor for the Gas Appliance Manufacturers association suggests you vary garnishes and accompaniments when serving pork. Avoid starchy, fat dishes. Serve low-calorie vegetables such as broccoli, spinach, sauerkraut, brussel sprouts and celery with pork dinners.

Peppery Corn Relish
Here's a tangy flavor treat to serve with fried chicken or fish—combine 2 tablespoons finely minced onion, 1/2 cup vinegar, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon mustard seed and 1/4 teaspoon each of celery seed, salt and dry mustard in a saucepan and cook over a medium gas flame for five minutes. Stir in a can of whole kernel corn mixed with chopped red and green peppers. Remove from the flame. Cool and store in the refrigerator.
