Arthur Godfrey Found To Have Cancer in Lung

New York — (UPI) — Surgeons found a cancer in Arthur Godfrey's left lung today and began to remove the section of the lung affected by it.

Two hours after the TV entertainer underwent an exploratory operation at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center one of his surgeons announced:

"The lesion in Mr. Godfrey's lung has been identified as being a malignant tumor. His condition is excellent." The surgeons said that Godfrey probably would be on the operating table until ground noon.

The announcement indicated that the section of his lung not endangered by the malignancy would not be touched. There was no indication from the announcement that Godfrey would be an invalid as a result of the operation—the thing he said he feared the most. But a long convalescence can be expected as in most lung operations.

Godfrey was placed under mild sedation Wednesday and was reported to have slept soundly through the night. Godfrey, 55, first disclosed two weeks ago that an examination for a pain in his chest had shown he had a tumor. He asked his radio and television audiences to cross their fingers for him in the hope the growth would prove non-malignant.

An aide of Godfrey told a UPI reporter after the news was announced today that he expected a great change in the entertainer's career. The aide said he expected Godfrey to spend more time on his farm and also, after he is able to get around again, to do more shows from foreign countries. The aide indicated he expected Godfrey to attempt living as full a life as possible. The import of what the aide said, presumably drawn from conversations with Godfrey, was that the entertainer would adopt even more of an "enjoy life while I'm here" attitude.
