

Union Favors Said Purchased By Printing Firm

Washington (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee heard testimony Wednesday that a big East Coast printing firm paid out more than $300,000 to union officials to get favors from the teamsters and longshore unions.

Executives of the Neo Gravure Printing Co., Weehauken, N.J., said the money was paid to Harold Gross, ex-convict president of teamsters Local 300 in Miami, and to Cornelius Noonan, head of Local 1730 of the International Longshoremen's Association.

They said $45,750 was paid to the pair during a 1948 teamsters strike to make possible night deliveries of newspaper supplements to the New York Times and Mirror.

The company prints Sunday supplements for a number of East Coast newspapers. Its officials said the Times and Mirror later reimbursed Neo Gravure for the payments to the union officials.

Payments for Peace

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) suggested that officials of the two newspapers be asked whether they deducted the payments as business expenses for tax purposes.

The Neo Gravure executives said Gross was paid $100,000 over a 13-year period to keep peace with the teamsters.

In addition, they said, $28,000 in cash was paid to Gross over seven years so that copies of the American Weekly could be delivered to the New York Journal American without fear of a jurisdictional dispute between the teamsters and the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union.

Sing Sing Graduate

William P. Hillbrant, treasurer, and Charles E. Chenecek, vice president and general manager of Neo Gravure, said the firm paid salaries to Gross totalling $98,459 at the rate of $143 a week plus $460 a month since 1945, when he went on the payroll as a foreman.

Committee staff members said Gross was hired several months after being paroled from Sing Sing prison where he had served about three years of a sentence for extortion.

Earlier, 13 officials of the New York Newspaper Deliverers Union took blanket refuge behind the Fifth Amendment when asked if they received payoffs from newspaper distributors.

Called before the committee in groups of three and four, the witnesses — including nine members of the 10-man union Executive Board — all pleaded possible self incrimination to avoid answering questions.

Thugs Hold Bank Manager Captive

Ontario, Calif. (UPI)—Two bandits held a bank manager prisoner Tuesday night and Bank of America branch Wednesday morning before fleeing with an estimated $60,000 to $70,000, the FBI announced.

The two men went to the home of Manager Frank Colella about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

They forced the manager and his wife and his father into the Colella car and drove them around throughout the night.

When the time lock on the bank vault was due to open, the five people entered the bank at 8:50 a.m. before other employees arrived, took the money from the vault and fled in the manager's car.
