DISABILITY OUTLOOK

New York - (AP) - Your chances of being disabled for three months before you're 65 are greater than of dying before that retirement age. A study by Johnson & Higgins, insurance brokers and consultants showed that nearly one-third of all individuals reaching 35 will be disabled for at least three months before they reach 65, and 10 per cent or more of these will be permanently disabled.

The cedar waxwing loves fruit with such passion that the birds sometimes get drunk from stuffing themselves on over-ripe berries.
