

In the Day's News
By FRANK JENKINS

It isn't hard to decide what to talk about today. We'll talk about CHURCHILL. Sir Winston Churchill, if you choose to be formal. Or just plain Winnie, if you prefer informality. He's that kind of person.

HE arrives in Washington for a three-day visit with Ike. As he descends from the plane, Ike meets him at the foot of the ramp. The greetings go something like this: Ike: "Well, my friend, you're back again."

Winnie: "I always love coming to America. But I shall not—as most people who are traveling around the world nowadays seem to—SAY EVERYTHING I THINK." (That was a swipe at Lord Monty, who opened his mouth too wide the other day.)

Ike (turning to the crowd and grinning): "He's one of my old wartime friends."

WHAT a man!

In his long life (he's 84, worse luck) he has been in on every flaming issue that has stirred the British Empire. He has been ag'in the government. At times, he has been THE GOVERNMENT ITSELF. He has been a soldier. He has been a correspondent. He has been a statesman. Politically, he has been a Liberal. He has been a Conservative.

But, through it all, he has BEEN HIMSELF.

HIS life is well described by Shakespeare in Hamlet (Act I, Scene III) in which Polonius advises his son Laertes:

"This above all: to thine own self be true.
"And it must follow, as the night day,
"Thou canst not then be false to any man."

SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL is an aristocrat of the bluest possible blood. His remote, but direct, ancestor was John Churchill, the first Duke of Marlborough, who led the allied armies of England, Germany and The Netherlands at Elenheim, one of the 15 decisive battles of the world. At Elenheim, John Churchill defeated the French army of Louis XIV (this 14th Louis was the absolute despot who puffed out his chest and said: "L'Etat? L'Etat? C'EST MOI!" (meaning: the state? I AM THE STATE!))

The victory at Elenheim cooked the 14th Louis' goose and stopped his scheme to control Europe through the uniting of France and Spain. It laid the foundations of England's greatness. A grateful people gave to this John Churchill the fabulous palace of Elenheim. It should be added here that he got in the doghouse with the Queen of England, when Churchill's wife offended, and was stripped of his honors, but later was exonerated.

This being on all sides seems to run in the Churchill blood.

GETTING back to Winnie, he saw early the menace of Russia. When Hitler marched into Russia, Churchill privately favored standing to one side and letting the despots bleed each other white. He was out-voted.

At Yalta he saw the dangers of giving Russia all of Eastern Europe, clear up to the Elbe river, and including West Berlin, which now is a dangerous sore spot. Again he was out-voted. But his instinct was right.

Sir Winston—
We LOVE you. May your remaining days be long and happy.
Come and see us often.

Bodies of Two Climbers Found

Bishop, Calif. —(UPI)—The bodies of two mountain climbers missing since Friday have been found 40 feet from the snow-whipped top of 13,000-foot Boundary peak in the White mountains.

Francis Foley, La Crescenta, Calif., and Burl Parkinson, South Pasadena, Calif., both about 50, became the objects of a search after they failed to return to their homes from what was to be a week end climbing expedition.

Both were experienced climbers. They apparently lost their footing on the rugged, snow-covered mountain near the California-Nevada border and plunged into a crevice where they apparently froze to death.

Undersheriff Jack Gardner of Mono county said two feet of fresh snow had recently fallen at the peak and that no effort would be made to remove their bodies until Friday.
