The Medical Roundup

by Walter C. Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic

Acute Leukemia in Children

One of the most awful diseases known is acute leukemia. It is especially bad when it attacks a child. Up until a few years ago, one might see a child running around, apparently healthy, and a few weeks later he might be dead. Now, such a child can often be kept alive for a year or more. I was just reading a report of Dr. Sidney Farber, director of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation in Boston. Out of the 900 leukemic children his group have treated in the last several years, half have survived for 14 months or more, and an additional 10 per cent have survived for nearly three years.

Dr. Alvarez

A number of these children are still alive. Two have survived for five years. Evidently, then, there is some hope on the horizon. Dr. Farber said that the two best drugs they have found are methotrexate and 6-mercaptopurine. He urges all physicians, when they find a child who is anemic, to have studies made to rule out a beginning leukemia. Many mothers are now asking me anxiously if their child who played with a child with leukemia will get the disease. Or they ask if when a child gets leukemia, will other children in the family get it. Fortunately, I can answer "No" to both questions. The disease does not seem to be contagious, and one very rarely sees two cases in a family.

Extensive Research On Stuttering

Highly intelligent parents of stuttering children will be interested in a fine study just published by Professor Wendell Johnson and his associates (University of Minnesota Press, Minneapolis). The researchers studied 246 children who were stuttering and 246 children who were non-stutterers. The parents of both of these groups of children were also studied. There were four times as many stutterers among the relatives of stutterers than in the relatives of the non-stutters. Unfortunately modern taboos against even looking at heredity- being what they are, the research workers apparently did not ask if there was mental disease of any kind in the families of the stutterers. Also, there doesn't seem to have been enough study made of the general nervous and muscular makeup of the stuttering children. Left-handedness did not appear to be a factor.

The observers felt that a big factor in causing a child to keep stuttering is the overanxiety and distress of his parents. If they become very anxious or critical, or if they get much annoyed or angry, the child will be much more likely to keep stuttering than he would be if the parents had at first paid little attention to his "er"-ing or "uh"-ing.

Professor Johnson has always maintained that most parents of stutterers are remiss in failing to remember how many of us adults, for all of our life, tend while talking to hesitate and repeat. It is only a rare man who can talk as rapidly and as unhesitatingly as does a master of ceremonies at a television show.

CAMOUFLAGE

New York—(UPI)—The ginger ale business got its start in the early days of Prohibition when the public demanded "a mixer, or vehicle to mask the unsavory taste of the various unlawful concoctions frequently offered to consumers," according to industry sources. The $1 billion soft drink industry is believed to have originated in Europe in the 1700s out of efforts to duplicate the sparkling waters of natural springs.

Here's how Amazing ORTHO weed killer controls lawn weeds without harming hardy grasses! It's a brush killer, too!

Weeds killed with IMPROVED WEED-B-GON don't grow back. Hormone ingredients in WEED-B-GON—2,4-D and 2,4,5-T—force weeds to grow old and die from the roots up. Tough weeds may take two applications but you don't bend over once. This amazing ORTHO weed killer "seeks out" broadleaf lawn weeds — kills them before they plague your entire lawn. Makes short work of many varieties of weeds, Poison Oak and Poison Ivy.
