

Dueling Charge First of Century

San Diego, Calif. (UPI)—The first dueling charge in San Diego county this century was on file today against two men who shot it out with small-caliber pistols in this city's downtown district.

Police said Calvin P. Summers, a sailor stationed aboard the USS Prairie, and Jimmy C. Fuller, of National City, Calif., both 23, exchanged six shots Friday before they stopped firing when both were wounded.

The two men began arguing when Summers allegedly called Fuller, a Negro locker club employee, "some bad racial names."

Police said Summers and a companion went to another club where the sailor got a .25-caliber pistol. Summers and Fuller then met on a downtown street corner and argued again before drawing their guns.

Fuller was shoe in the neck and leg and Summers was hit in the lower abdomen. Both men were taken to San Diego County hospital and each was held in lieu of $10,000 bail pending a preliminary hearing June 8.

Keeton Named to Pacific Post Here

David Keeton has been appointed manager of the Medford Pacific Air Lines station, R. C. Withers, passenger service manager, San Francisco, has announced.

W. L. Hicks, former manager, has been transferred to become manager of Pacific's Eureka-Arcata airport station, Withers said.

Keeton has more than eight years experience, including ticket agent, supervisor ticket counter and operations and as a special representative to the president of a major regional airline.

Medford is at present the most northerly terminal of Pacific Air Lines, which originates two flights daily serving the Sacramento valley and San Francisco with connecting flights to Los Angeles and Las Vegas.

Grange News

Butte Falls Grange
The Girl Scouts and Brownie troops provided an interesting program for the Butte Falls Grange Lecturer's program. The leaders are Mrs. Lee Jolliffe and Mrs. Dean Bogan. Assisting them were Mrs. Virgil Conley and Mrs. George Bray.

Mrs. H. J. Wright is the neighborhood chairman and accompanied the girls for songs. A dance and an original skit completed their program.

Master Earl Deen presided at the regular Grange meeting. Members receiving third and fourth degree obligations were Beulah Abbott and Eugene Fontenot. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Boyd and Dean Bush received first and second degree obligations.

Frieda Moore, member of the community service committee, reported the plumbing in the community hall has been purchased by the Grange and is installed. Grange members have had two work days and will soon be able to use the building. The Grange and Lions and auxiliary are purchasing a piano for the building.

The annual work day at the cemetery was Saturday and a potluck dinner was served at noon.

Lake Creek Grange
Thirteen girls of the G and E 4-H Sewing club of Eagle Point gave a demonstration business meeting at the May Grange session. A roll call on Mother's day was answered by original sayings of the girls.

A musical program was given by the girls. The two leaders of the club are Mrs. Jim Edge and Mrs. Ben Gardner. Mrs. Gertrude Stanley was a guest at the meeting.

During the Grange meeting Camille Gilkey gave a report from a San Diego paper on the raising of onions in southern California. She stated that the onions are shipped by the carload to the East coast. The onions yield 500 crates per acre, but the margin of profit is small on the crop. The onion growing season is from November to April. The onions are planted from seed by a machine. From planting of the seed to the packing shed is from 100 to 110 days.

HEC Chairman Nora Bradshaw announced that a potluck supper will be held before the June meeting which will honor all those having had birthdays in the months of April, May and June.

A square dance party was held at the hall on Saturday. Homemade pies and sandwiches were served by the HEC.

Next Grange meeting will be June 12. We expect to have special pictures shown as the lecture program. Grange opens at 8:30 p.m.

Upper Applegate Grange
Upper Applegate Grange was host to 100 Jackson County Grangers May 8 in observance of Pomona visitation night. All officers responded to roll call, and 56 members of the Grange were present to greet guests.

Visitors conducted to the master's station included County Deputy Roscoe Roberts, and the following subordinate Grange masters: Lloyd Hoadley, Bellview; Karl Christiansen, Live Oak; Herman Kamping, Griffin Creek; R. J. Ritchie, Roxy Ann; and Bob Bitterling, who was welcomed in his dual role of master of Jackson County Pomona Grange and Eagle Point Grange. Recognition and greetings were also extended to Maude Port, charter member of Upper Applegate Grange, who was present from Eugene where she now resides.

Report of the relief committee indicated Aileen McKee had returned home after being hospitalized for complications following an attack of flu. Floyd McKee was improving after hospital treatment. Gail Buffington was convalescing at home following major surgery. Cards of sympathy had been sent to the Glen Smith and James Buckley families.

HEC Chairman Edna Sawyer announced a Mother's day dinner May 10 in the Grange hall was successful with 247 being served.

Ways and means committee chairman, Ethel West, reported a sum of $16.50 on hand from the last square dance, and outlined plans for an old fashioned barbecue which will be open to all Grangers and the public.

Legislative chairman Anna Scott reported some of the highlights of the 116-day session of the Oregon state legislative assembly which adjourned May 7, and expressed regret that Dr. Edwin Durno, senator from Jackson county, was unable to be present to address the Grangers as had been contemplated.

Valoris Haskins, first master of the Upper Applegate Grange, who served in 1935, and his wife, Helen Haskins, were presented with 25-year

News About Books From the Library

More than one-third of the books added to the Jackson County library in a year are books written and purchased expressly for children. Although the titles are not usually listed in this column, they are considered of equal importance with the library's books for older readers, and they are chosen with equal care.

"One is not a child for very long," someone has said; "and if a child's first reading is not strong, rich, and varied enough to stimulate his imagination, then he may never enter the fascinating world that is there for him to explore. If what is real and alive in books becomes obscured by, or even confused in their minds with what is mediocre and dull, many children will miss altogether the discovery that reading is for delight."

"Just as the best books stimulate the child's imagination by Master Kathleen Sovell.

Mothers representing each of the Granges present were escorted to the Chaplain's station and there presented with Mothers day corsages while Nell Ramsay and her daughter, Marybeth, as her accompanist, sang "One Heart to Love Me" by Jeanne Alden Love Met by Jeanne Alden Love of Ashland. Those honored included Metta Buck, Upper Applegate; Lyndall Cameron, Live Oak; H. Gillette, Bellview; Ethel Hocker-smith, Phoenix; Emma Conger, Central Point; Myrtle Carlton, Upper Rogue; Mabel Wertz, Eagle Point; Willie McLean, Gold Hill; Kizzie Edmondson, Butte Falls; Eleanor Mankin, Roxy Ann; and Mabel Buchanan, Griffin Creek.

Following the presentation, a quintet of Upper Applegate Grange members including Stella Offenbacher, Dana Gearhart and Gladys Williams and Bert Harr and Curtis Gearhart sang "My Mother's Bible" with Christine Harr as accompanist.

In response to a special request, Caroline Harding of Upper Rogue Grange related incidents from the recent Grange-sponsored tour of Hawaii in which she participated.

A humorous skit, "Cards and Gossip," was presented by five Upper Applegate members — Barbara Larson, Dillbreth Dunshee, Stella Offenbacher, Glen Saltmarsh, and Marie Louise Nordwick.

As a centennial feature, Christine Harr read a newspaper clipping published in Versailles, Ky., in the year 1849, announcing sale of personal effects and household goods by a man who stated he was leaving to establish residence in Oregon Territory. Included in the detailed list of items to be sold were his six Negro slaves; two men, two women, and two boys, all of whom, it was stipulated, must be purchased by one individual since their owner refused to have them separated.

The program concluded with a piano solo by Marybeth Ramsey who played Mozart's "Tell Me a Story Mama," and for an encore, Rathgeber's "Allegretto."

County Deputy Roberts commended Upper Applegate Grange on its seating drill and the quality of its floor work in general.

Recalling the first meeting of Upper Applegate Grange which he attended in 1926 as Jackson County Pomona Master, C. L. Hockersmith, of Phoenix said he felt a great improvement had been made since those days. At that time the Grange was holding its sessions in the old Beaver Creek schoolhouse. The meeting was so late getting started and lasted so long, he said, that he got home just in time to start his morning milking.

Greetings were brought by the various visiting members, and Pomona Master Bob Bitterling commended the Butte Falls Grange members for having won the traveling agate, awarded in conjunction with the visitation program, three times in success.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee furnished by the host Grange, and cookies provided by the visitors, were served following adjournment.

tion, increase his experience, and influence the development of his character, poorer books may actually have a stultifying effect upon the young reader."

Major Responsibility
Even though school libraries now exist in all Medford schools and in some of the rural schools of Jackson county, service to children is still a major responsibility of the public library. Good library service to children means not only an adequate collection of books and other materials but a librarian interested in and especially educated for this type of work who can guide young readers to the books which will do most for them.

Training in the use of the library is another special service for children offered by the Jackson County library. Miss Julie Keiser, the library's specialist in service to children, devotes two mornings and one or two afternoons each week to this activity.

As many as six classes a week, from both city and county schools visit the library for this training, which will serve them well during their school years and in later life.

The following new titles were added to the adult collection during the past two weeks.

House and Garden: 1959 Garden Ideas, Better Homes and Gardens; 1959 Home Building Ideas, Better Homes and Gardens; House and Garden's Book of Building, Spring-Summer 1959, House and Garden; Houses and Plans, 1959 ed, Home Beautiful.
