Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE 1912 BULL MOOSE convention's official program featured photographs of Teddy Roosevelt and his running mate, Gov. Hiram Johnson, on the front cover. A couple of million programs had come off the presses when the publisher suddenly discovered he had not secured permission from the copyright owner to use the photos in question. Faced with the possibility of a costly damage suit, he grimly wired the owner: "Considering use of your photographs on covers of three million convention programs. Publicity break of a lifetime! What will you pay for this?"

The owner of the pictures wired back: "Will pay five hundred dollars and not a cent more." The relieved publisher answered, "Your offer ridiculously low, but being pressed for time, we accept."

One thing of which you may be sure: he who laughs last doesn't work for the fellow who told the story!

Business Reports Keep Market Even

New York—UPI—Glowing reports on business progress offset tightening money influences and kept the stock market on an even keel today.

A small rise in rails just about offset an equally small decline in industrials and utilities.

Motors, steels, and metals ruled higher. Chemicals firmed after early irregularity. The main deterrent to the industrial sector was a sharp drop in American Tobacco which at its low was off 3 1/2 points. There was slight irregularity in the oils and electrical equipments.
