DAMAGE SUIT FILED AGAINST BUILDER

The Central Mutual Insurance company has filed suit in circuit court against D. L. Pickell, Medford, to recover $1,843 paid by the insurance company to Stanley and Marie Shafer for fire damage to their home Dec. 14, 1958.

According to the complaint, the insurance company paid the Shafers $1,763 when their home was damaged by fire. Pickell, the complaint states, constructed improvements on the Shafer home. The plaintiff charges the builder with faulty and negligent construction in a range hood containing a fan over the kitchen range.

The complaint states that the fan was improperly and negligently wired in such a way that the bare electric wires were against the metal range hood causing it to short out, thus starting the fire.

The insurance company also seeks $80 they paid the Shafers for rent when they had to vacate the premises following the fire. Attorney for the plaintiff is Joel B. Reeder.

National Foundation Patient Aid Program Outlined at Meeting

Representatives of the Jackson county chapter of the National Foundation met with representatives of seven other southwestern Oregon chapters in Eugene this week to learn about the new patient aid program of the Foundation.

The "beginning" patient aid program in arthritis and birth defects completes a transition that began last July when the March of Dimes organization announced it would broaden its program to include these two diseases as well as polio.

The organization, originally known as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, already has launched research and professional training attacks on arthritis and birth defects.

Under the broadened policy March of Dimes help will be offered to local children under 19 with certain defects of the brain and spinal cord, with juvenile arthritis and with paralytic polio, it was stated. While the Foundation will continue to fulfill basic obligations to polio patients needing assistance, payment for patient care of non-paralytic polio cases will no longer be made, it was pointed out.

The birth defects covered under the new program are known technically as spina bifida (open spine), encephalocele (open skull) and hydrocephalus (water on the brain). These conditions sometimes cause paralysis and crippling. Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis also causes crippling and sometimes deformity in children.

Services for patients with birth defects or arthritis will include limited hospitalization, diagnosis and outpatient treatment, transportation, physical therapy, certain drugs and equipment and other forms of aid, it was explained.

On the advice of medical advisers from all parts of the country it was decided that the National Foundation would not pay doctor bills in birth defects, arthritis or polio if the American system of doctor-patient relationships was to be preserved, the volunteer workers were told.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation, said continuing polio care needs alone would cost more than $15 million in March of Dimes funds this year. Arthritis and rheumatism are estimated to afflict 11 million people today and about a quarter of a million babies are born each year with birth defects, O'Connor pointed out.

"It is our belief and that of our medical advisers that many children afflicted with these diseases need greater assistance to achieve their full potential. We seek to help these youngsters first," O'Connor said.

"Later, given adequate public support, we will raise the age limits for assistance. This is our beginning patient aid program. It will be expanded as rapidly and as widely as possible," he said.

Inquiries concerning eligibility for assistance in birth defects, juvenile rheumatoid arthritis and paralytic polio may be directed to Gerry Gastineau, Fluhrer building, Medford, chapter chairman, or to the Jackson county health department in the courthouse.

Those attending the meeting from the local chapter were Mrs. Harry Chipman, chairman of women's activities, and Barbara Nulton, chairman of the Jackson county Teen Age Program.

During a recent recess, Mrs. H. Bruce Metzger and Miss Joyce Fuller spoke on the Bookmobile which which the Jackson County library board is petitioning the State library board to loan to Jackson county. It was described as a "traveling rural library," carrying 1,000 to 2,000 books of all varieties into areas not served by permanent libraries.

A film in color is available for showing the Bookmobile in action, if any Grange would be interested in using it at any meeting. People interested in having such a library made available to Jackson county are urged to write the state library board.
