

TABLE ROCK
Lambs Top

By R. E. NEALON
Table Rock - A truck load of choice spring lambs left the J. L. Nealon stock yard Saturday bound for Portland where they topped the market at Tuesday's auction sale.
The lambs weighed in at close to 100 pounds and were born in January and February. They came from the Ray Vogel and Don Bohnert farms near Central Point, and the owners claim the remarkable growth and grade was brought about by the ration of feed given them. The feed was processed by a local valley mill, with all the ingredients, except minerals, and such grown on the owners farms.

Frank Decker, and son, Billy, from down Applegate way, were here Sunday. Decker was stripping the neighborhood sheep of their winter woolen duds and Billy kept busy tying up the fleeces.

Jim Glenn has accepted a position with a jewelry firm in Yreka, Calif., and is now working there. Other members of the family are moving to the California city this week end. Mrs. Gladys Schulz, who has made her home with the Glens for some time, is moving to Ashland. The Glenn house will be for rent.

Some pears here, it is said, suffered slight damage in some spots and varieties during the long period of nightly frosts.

The first oriole of the season showed up here Monday, and soon got busy with song practice.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Parsons of Escondido, Calif., where they spend the winters, and Madson, Wis., their summer home, were recent visitors with relatives at the Ray Doran home.

A fair sized crowd turned out Friday evening at the schoolhouse for the Sunday School rally. A short program of music and songs was followed by a talk and sleight of hand performances especially for the young folks by Lester S. Libby, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ashland. His unique approach proved to be interesting and entertaining to the young people.

The banner for the largest attendance of members present was won by the local Sunday School, as also was the one for the highest percentage of the average attendance.

Everett Brown, manager of the local irrigation ditch, reports that Rogue river at the ditch intake is already at its usual summer level. From the way the weather is behaving there will be a greater need than usual here. The light showers we have evaporated by the afternoon winds.

Proceeds from what we used to call the farmers gold mine are being trucked each day from the Table Top Ranch feed lots to orchards near Medford.

The Table Rock ladies club will postpone their next meeting for a week, and will meet at Tou Velle park June 17, Wednesday.

Many from here attended the funeral of Mrs. McManama in Medford May 19, who died May 15 at the home of her son, Herschel Harper, after a long illness. She was mostly known here as Mrs. Harper where her former husband, the late Milton Harper and children lived on a farm in the west side of the district.

A former school-teacher, she was keenly interested in school affairs, serving on the local school board as clerk, doing the work in a highly satisfactory manner. A gracious lady whose life was not a bed of roses, she was never one to complain, but took life as it came, getting much happiness and contentment as she journeyed along.

Owing to federal regulations, the irrigation ditch now inside the road right-of-way along the Taylor and Robinson farms will be put into an underground tube, before the proposed road improvement will be commenced through here. The cost of putting in the tile to carry the water will be borne by federal, county and land owners affected, according to reports.

ACTRESS LOSES BABY
Buergenstock, Switzerland - (UPI)—Actor-director Mel Ferrer said Friday night his wife, actress Audrey Hepburn, had lost the baby she was expecting. "I regret it is true; Audrey has been in the hospital and came home last Friday," he said. "She is staying in bed and doctors have ordered her to stay quiet for another two months."
