
POWER OF ADVERTISING—This billboard outside Kankakee, Ill., exercised such drawing power that even the horses in the field felt impelled to sample the product —or what they thought was the product. Whether it was buttermilk, the paper or the paste, the horses thought it was just great and ate all of the sign they could reach.

Queen To Reign Over Jacksonville Jubilee in August

Jacksonville – A queen will reign over the 1959 Gold Rush Jubilee activities held Aug. 1 and 2, according to Ike Dunford and John Crabb, co-chairmen of the event.

The Lions club, sponsors of the Jubilee, have asked that clubs, fraternal organizations and other civic groups to sponsor a contestant for queen.

The girls who are entered must be between 15 and 19 years of age with the sponsoring group paying the entry fee. Queen selection will be based on ticket sales.

The contest will be held from July 1 and end at 6 p.m. July 29. Weekly awards will be presented the girl selling the most tickets during each week of the contest.

Announced at Banquet

The queen will be announced at a banquet and dance July 29. Four girls will comprise the queen's court, it was announced.

For further information contact the Jubilee office at box 1859.

A carnival of rides has been secured for the Jubilee it was announced, which will be located just beyond California st. on Fifth st.

Other entertainment features being planned include a talent search, old-time fiddlers contest, pie eating contest, needle-in-the-haystack, log bucking, ax throwing, gold panning and other contests.

Chuck Young, concessions chairman, announced that applications for concession space at the Jubilee are still being accepted. Interested individuals and groups may contact Young.

Booths for games of skill, handicrafts, novelties, and refreshments are being planned, he explained, but other ideas will be considered.

Hovering Plane Completes Test

Edwards AFB, Calif.– (UPI) – The Doak 16, a new plane capable of hovering, going straight up or flying like a conventional craft, has completed successfully its first flight test, the Army announced today.

The craft, designated the CZ4DA by the Army, was hailed as more adaptable than the helicopter because of its unique barrel-shaped power plants located on the tips of its wings. The power plants, which look like large encased fans, can swivel into positions which make the craft act like a conventional plane or a helicopter.

The Army said the Doak 16 was designed for longer ranges and higher speeds than helicopters and would be used as a liaison plane. It was built by Doak Aircraft, Torrance, Calif.

Casper Residents Welcome Wagons

Casper, Wyo.–(UPI)–This city turned out 10,000 strong to welcome the Oregon Centennial wagon train Saturday. Crowds lined the 2½ miles parade route to watch the covered wagons rumble on to a week end camp site at old Fort Casper.

A unit of the Army Reserve 461st Engineering company led the five-block long parade, the first major out of town event to hit Casper in three years.

Following the Army unit was the 1st Governor's Guard from Cheyenne. Twenty mounted soldiers from Casper flanked the wagons as scouts and guards and the troopers' drum and bugle corps provided cadence to the tune of "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon."

Small Worlds Around Us

Whooping Cranes Are On The Brink Of Extinction

The whooping crane occupies an unenviable position in the world of living creatures. These great, white, beautiful birds are precariously balanced on the very brink of extinction. They can be precipitated over this thin edge by any of many factors, and the very last survivor disappear, leaving not a trace of its ever having occupied a place on this earth.

What few whooping cranes there are left, have spent the winter as usual in the protected sanctuary of the Arkansas refuge in southern Texas, under the watchful eyes of trained wardens. But the coming of spring and the cranes' desire to take once again to the airways on their 2,000 mile migration to their natural nesting sites, poses many dangers, for every mile of the long journey is hazardous.

Saskatchewan Goal

Across the entire breadth of Texas and Oklahoma, into Kansas, over Nebraska through South and North Dakota, the big birds will fly en route to the summer nesting grounds in the northern section of Saskatchewan. In wild, isolated and virtually unknown sections of the far Northwest, the whooping cranes will attempt to raise their families, an average over the past 10 years of about four young a year, for the entire colony.

The birds seem comparatively safe there in those uninhabited regions, but the dangerous time will again approach in the fall when once again the urge to migrate takes possession of them, and they start the 2,000 mile journey back to southern Texas.

This migration coincides with the opening of the wildfowl season, when the swamps, rivers, swales and lakes are over-populated with hunters, some of whom have no respect for game laws, or for birds on the outer edge of extinction. Being particularly conspicuous because of their size, and startling white in color, as well as their deep, trumpet-like voice that can be hard for great distances, they attract much attention to themselves. While in flight they are high in the air but when coming to earth to rest, or feed, they become attractive targets.

Been Shot

Every year, since their established migratory route has been under the scrutiny of interested observers, one or more of the cranes has been shot somewhere en route. The whooping crane stands about 4½ feet in height, with a wingspread of seven feet. The body feathers are white, the head is red; the wings are tipped with black at the tips. The voice is trumpet-like, which gives the name "whooping" to the bird. There are about two dozen of these birds left alive in all the world.

It is doubtful if these graceful birds can long survive. There are too many factors against their continuance; a sudden storm, a disease, or the persistence of illegal shooting could reduce their numbers to the vanishing point.

Jordan-Syria Border Closed

Beirut, LeBanon– (UPI) –The border between the Arab states of Jordan and Syria has been closed to all traffic in the wake of a series of quarrels and at least one frontier clash.

There has been tension between Jordan and Syria, now a part of the United Arab Republic of Egypt, since the spring of 1957 when Jordan's King Hussein charged Syria was backing an attempt to topple his throne.

Jordanian officials said yesterday in Amman that Syria sealed the border. But dispatches from Damascus insisted Jordan blocked the frontier.

Jordan said it has reported the closing to the United Nations representative at Amman, the Jordanian capital.

Saturday Holidays Not on Payable List

Jackson county court members have signed an order declaring county employees will not be paid for holidays falling on Saturday. A number of the employees felt they should be paid for such holidays.

According to the order county employees will be paid for such legal holidays as New Year's, Lincoln's birthday; Washington's birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas–when they fall on other days of the week.

Also, employees with 12 months of service will be allowed 12 days of sick leave with pay and one day sick leave for each additional month of service over 12 months.

The order is effective as of June 1.

Columbia Basin Farms to be Sold

Portland – (UPI) – The department of the interior has announced that 31 full-time farm units totaling 3,223 irrigable acres in Washington state will be sold by the bureau of reclamation in the Columbia Basin project.

Units to be sold are in the South Columbia Basin irrigation district near Mesa, Wash., 30 miles north-west of Pasco. The farms range in size from 78 to 140 irrigable acres.

Veterans will have preference in applying for all units not allotted to exchange applicants under the act of Aug. 13, 1953, the department said.

MONKEYING WITH DIET

Berlin – (UPI) – Visitors are no longer permitted to feed the monkeys at the West Berlin zoo. Officials said the visitors had been providing such tasty snacks that the monkeys were shunning their regular meals, and snubbing the keepers too.
