Market Reaches New Low Since April 1

New York-(UPI)-The stock market declined to a new low since April 1 today. Industrials in their seventh day of decline were at their lowest level in a little more than a month. Rails were down to April 1 levels and utilities at their worst since Dec. 2 in the widest decline since Nov. 25.

The industrial average near the close was down 25.54 points or 4 per cent from the year's high. Rails were down 9.10 points or 5.4 per cent from their high, while utilities showed a loss of 8.71 points or 10.3 per cent.

Selling late in the day hit key issues hard. Procter & Gamble, an outstanding blue chip, was knocked down more than 3 points. Losses of more than 2 points in General Electric, American Tobacco and Goodyear also were factors in driving down the industrial average.
