

Giant-Phil Series Has Daffy End

Philadelphia—UPI—The San Francisco Giants rolled in here for a four game series against the Phillies tonight and it was hard to tell if they were coming from Brooklyn or Pittsburgh.

That error packed, daffy contest the Giants played with the Pirates Thursday had all the earmarks of one of those patented Ebbs Field specials.

Pittsburgh committed seven errors and still won the game, 12-9. The Giants made five miscues. It was a screwy wrap-up to one of the wildest series of the year.

Mike McCormick, 3-5, is expected to take the mound tonight for the Giants against former Giant Ruben Gomez, 1-3, who was defeated by his old teammates earlier this season.

Lead Thrown Away Thursday's loss to the Pirates evened the Giants' road mark at 6-6. San Francisco got off to a 5-0 lead in the second inning but it managed to lose that. Jack Sanford, the starting Giant hurler left the game in the second inning when he was clipped on the right hand by a pitch by Bob Friend. There were no broken bones. Five other Giant pitchers followed.

Willie Kirkland smashed two homers for the Giants and Willie Mays came in as a pinch hitter in the eighth and gave the San Franciscans an 8-7 lead with a three-run homer. That lead that lasted only minutes. The Pirates jumped on Stu Miller in the bottom of the eighth for five runs and that was it.

But there was plenty of excitement. Of the 12 errors, five were muffed pop flies. Two boots by shortstop Andre Rodgers proved costly to the Giants. His first paved the way for two Pirate runs in the seventh and his second sided the five run Pittsburgh rally in the eighth.

Rocky Colavito, still going strong after his four homers Wednesday night, doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning Thursday night to boost Cleveland into second place with a 2-1 triumph over Baltimore. The Athletics dumped the Yankees back into second division with a 9-5 licking and the Tigers ripped the Red Sox, 8-1, in other American league games.

Milwaukee widened its National league lead to two games with an 8-0 victory over St. Louis; Pittsburgh beat San Francisco, 12-9; Los Angeles crushed Philadelphia, 11-0, and Cincinnati mauled Chicago, 8-0.

Colavito connected for his game winning two-bagger off Milt Pappas after Woodie Held opened the eighth inning with a walk. Winner Don Ferrarese held the Orioles to seven hits and enabled the Indians to move a half-game ahead of Baltimore, which dropped to third place.

Hadley Got Homer Kansas City raked an old nemesis, Bob Turley, for seven runs and 10 hits in four innings to beat the Yankees. Kent Hadley's two-run homer highlighted a five-run fifth inning rally by the A's, who beat Turley for only the third time in his career against 16 losses to him. Ned Garver posted his fifth victory although he gave up homers to Norm Siebern, Marv Throneberry and Mickey Mantle, and finally yielded to Russ Meyer in the ninth.

Ray Narleski limited the Red Sox to five hits in helping the Tigers climb to within a half-game of third place. The only run Narleski permitted was Ted Williams' second homer of the season in the sixth. Al Kaline, Larry

Pierce Robbed of No-Hitter, But Pascual Hard Luck Hurler

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press International

That's two no-hitters Washington now has loused up for Billy Pierce but if you think he's pitching in tough luck, get a load of poor Camilo Pascual.

Pierce, at least, wound up with a one-hitter as the first-place White Sox beat the Senators, 3-1, Thursday night.

Pascual, his mound opponent, wound up talking to himself after losing his third straight game with two out in the ninth inning.

One look at the log of Pascual's last three losses is enough to convince anyone the Washington right-hander is the No. 1 candidate for the hard-luck pitcher of the year.

He had the Yankees shut out with two out in the ninth on May 31 when Bill Skowron beat him with a three-run homer.

Last week, the Tigers also beat him with two out in the ninth, and Thursday night Jim Landis beat him with two out in the ninth by hitting a two-run double.

So Pierce really has no complaints. The White Sox lefty had a perfect game against the Senators with two out in the ninth last June 27 when pinch hitter Ed Fitzgerald, now with Cleveland, broke up the no-hitter with a double.

Samford Was The Culprit Ron Samford was the culprit Thursday night. His third inning double was the only hit Pierce allowed en route to his seventh victory. Pierce retired the next two batters, then walked three in a row to force in Washington's only run.

Rocky Colavito, still going strong after his four homers Wednesday night, doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning Thursday night to boost Cleveland into second place with a 2-1 triumph over Baltimore. The Athletics dumped the Yankees back into second division with a 9-5 licking and the Tigers ripped the Red Sox, 8-1, in other American league games.

Ray Narleski limited the Red Sox to five hits in helping the Tigers climb to within a half-game of third place. The only run Narleski permitted was Ted Williams' second homer of the season in the sixth. Al Kaline, Larry Osborne and Red Wilson hit homers in Detroit's 15-hit attack.

The Braves snapped the Cardinals' three-game winning streak with a 12-hit offensive that included home runs by Casey Wise and Del Crandall. Bob Buhl hurled a five-hitter and struck out eight in winning his sixth game. Wilmer Mizell, the loser, won 7-3.

Face Wins Ninth The Pittsburgh-San Francisco game was a comedy of errors with a total of 12 miscues. Pittsburgh committed seven and San Francisco five, but the two that hurt most were the ones made by Giant Shortstop Andre Rodgers. His first error paved the way for two unearned runs in the seventh and his second helped the Pirates to two more in the eighth when they scored five runs to go ahead.

Reliever Roy Face won his ninth straight game without a loss and his 14th in a row dating back to last year even though he was tagged for a three-run homer by pinch hitter Willie Mays.

Southpaw Johnny Podres of the Dodgers held the Phillies to two hits in winning his seventh game of the season and fifth straight. Podres struck out seven, walked three and never permitted a runner to get as far as second. He also contributed three of the Dodgers' 19 hits.

Don Demeter drove in five runs with a pair of homers and two singles. Robin Roberts was the loser. Roy McMillan clouted a three-run homer to help Don Newcombe and the Reds to their victory over the Cubs. The victory was Newcombe's sixth and Cincinnati made it easy for him by getting to loser Moe Drabowsky for five runs by the end of the third inning.

FLORIST CATCHER—Bev Wadsworth, above, is catcher for the Evr Lind Florist who oppose the Rogue Valley Dairy Maids in 8 p.m. games on Sunday and Monday in the Northwest Women's Major Softball league.

She is considered a team sparkplug with her ability to catch pitches and direct plays. A softball player since 1945, she joined the Florists in 1953 and gain All-American recognition that year in the National Softball congress world tournament. Bev taught school in Salem seven years and in Portland one year. She has been appointed to a position at Portland State college for the 1959-1960 school year.

Dairy Maids Tussle Florists on Sunday

Camp White—Rogue Valley Dairy Maids take on one of the nation's outstanding women's softball aggregations when they oppose the Evr Lind Florists at Memorial stadium here on Sunday and Monday evenings, June 14 and 15, in Northwest Major league contention.

The Canadian team will meet American Linen 6-4 at Portland Saturday and Sunday. The Florists go against Eugene Saturday and then meet Rogue Valley, 4-6, Sunday and Monday at Camp White. Eugene hasn't yet won a game.

Seattle to Salem Seattle travels to Salem for a pair. The Seattle team is 2-4 and Salem is 1-5. Marg Grant of American Linen leads the hitters with a .481 mark with Shirley Topley of Vancouver next at .455 and Betty Mantyla of Salem third at .435.

Ev Bonneville of Vancouver has a 4-0 pitching record while Louise Mazzuca of the Lind Florists has a 3-0 mark and also the distinction of not yet having given up a hit. She has pitched three straight no-hitters.

RV League Leaders Vie This Sunday

Current frontrunners in the semi-pro Rogue Valley Baseball league provide the top bill-of-fare this Sunday.

Riddle will be host to Ashland in the feature fracas. Each is 2-0 in the circuit. Grants Pass, undefeated in its only tussle, in the loop will be host to Medford Bowling lanes. Camp White will go to Glendale and Butte Falls has a bye.

Ashland and Riddle will match both strong pitching and hitting power. Riddle has the hurling of Mickey Coen, ex-Sacramento Solon player and Ashland has Dave D'Olivo, Oregon Collegiate conference all-star for Southern Oregon college.

Team averages show the batting power of the clubs. Ashland tops the loop with a .311 mark and Riddle follows with .304.

Individual batting statistics prepared by Harry Chipman, league president show 11 players hitting at a .500 average or better for one or two games. Among those with official times at bat, Phil Sword, Ashland, is the only one with a perfect 1.000 mark. He hit four for four in one game. Doug Watson, Riddle, is next with .667 and Jack Turk, Camp White, and Bunky Peterson, Grants Pass, each are .600.

Coen has two league pitching victories and D'Olivo and Tom Speelman, Ashland, Don Jacobson, Grants Pass, and Turk each one.

INDIVIDUAL BATTING: Sword, A, .500; Watson, R, .500; Turk, CW, .500; Peterson, GP, .500; Coen, R, .500; L. House Votes Curb On Wheat Surplus

Washington—UPI—The House overrode administration opposition today and passed by an 11-vote margin a price-boosting Democratic bill to curb the nation's mounting wheat surplus.

The roll call vote was 188-177. Democratic farm leaders just managed to stop a revolt by city Democrats who threatened to scuttle the legislation.

President Eisenhower had challenged the Democratic-controlled Congress to do something to curb mounting wheat surplus. Passage of the Democratic bill was regarded as an important political victory for the Democrats and another stinging rebuff for Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

7 Rivals For Orbit In Belmont Stakes

By RAY AYRES United Press International New York—UPI—Royal Orbit, the hero of the Preakness stables, was expected to draw seven rivals when entries were accepted today for the 91st and richest running of the Belmont Stakes Saturday at Belmont Park.

Regarded as other probable starters for the grueling mile and one-half "test of the champion" were Sword Dancer, Black Hills, Bagdad, Manassa Mauler, Dunce, Scotland and Fort Erie.

Although he turned in a smashing four-length triumph in the Preakness, Royal Orbit is not expected to cakewalk to victory in the Belmont. In fact, he may not even wind up as the favorite. Sword Dancer, the Preakness runner-up, will draw strong support along with Black Hills.

Sword Dancer, who also finished second in the Kentucky Derby behind Tomcy Lee, won the Metropolitan Mile against older horses in his last start. Black Hills missed both the Derby and Preakness but earned considerable backing when he led home Bagdad and Royal Orbit in last week's Peter Pan Handicap, a prep for the Belmont.

Eddie Arcaro, who has a record six Belmont winners to his credit, will ride Black Hills. Willie Shoemaker was due in from California today to pilot Sword Dancer while Willie Harmatz, another west coast journeyman, will ride Royal Orbit.

With eight starters the race would carry a gross purse of $144,500 and a net of $93,925 to the winner.

PROTECTION PLUS Chicago—UPI—Three boys were home again today after an unsuccessful 19-hour journey in search of a haunted house. The boys explained why they had carried so much with them on the trip: The candles were to light the haunted house; cap pistols, to frighten ghosts; rubbing alcohol, for any ghost-inflicted wounds; swimming trunks, in case they were thrown into a secret river; a Bible—if all else failed.
