United Press International Minneapolis, Minn. (UPI)—Bridesmaid Bev Hanson finally became the bride by winning the American Women's Open golf championship here Monday in a sudden death play-off with Louise Suggs. The girl voted North Dakota's greatest woman athlete

Canadian Open Tees Off Thursday

St. Dorothee, Que. (UPI)—Canada's premier golf event, the Canadian Open tournament, tees off for its 50th renewal Thursday at picturesque Illesmere Golf and Country club. On hand will be most of the touring pros from the U.S. golf trail, the best of Canada's professionals, plus a score or more of amateurs from both sides of the border. The field will number about 150. At stake in the June 18-21, 72-hole tournament will be $27,000 in prize money plus

Vancouver Topped By Salt Lake

United Press International Salt Lake City broke Vancouver's winning string at six straight Monday night when R. C. Stevens singled home Sam Miley in the eighth inning to break a 1-1 deadlock and give the Bees a 2-1 decision. The loss left the Mounties in third place in the Pacific Coast league standings, 2 1/2 games behind league-leading Sacramento. Relief pitcher Ed Bauta held Vancouver scoreless over the last 3 1/3 innings to gain his second win. Bauta and starter George Perez combined to stop the Canadians on nine hits. George Bamberger went the route for Vancouver, giving up only eight safeties, and was charged with his second setback. Salt Lake opened the scoring in the fifth when Perez tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Miley. Vancouver knotted the count in the sixth when Barry Shetrone walked, went to second on a sacrifice and scored off a single by Jim Dyck. A crowd of 6,240, the largest of the season in Vancouver, attended the contest. It was the only PCL game of the night.

Finalists Will Tangle In RV Golf

C. A. Meyer and Paul Moore will play Jack Featherston and Virgil Swanson probably sometime this week for the men's two-ball golf partnership championship of Rogue Valley Country club. In the semi-final round Meyer and Moore defeated Curt Butterfield and Dr. N. J. Wilson and Featherston and Swanson subdued Duane Lubbers and Bill Catey. Gain Robinson and Clayton Lewis will go against Dr. Russell Barnes and Frank Perl for the first flight laurels. Robinson and Lewis won from Dr. Robert DeLorme and E. W. Peterson in the semis and Barnes and Perl were victors over Dr. Orval Eaton and Bill Clark.

Olmeda Favorite In Tournament

London (UPI)—U. S. Davis Cup star Alex Olmeda remained the title favorite in the London Grass Courts Tennis tournament today despite the surprise loss of a set to Australia's 10-ranked player. HEMUS ON INACTIVE LIST St. Louis (UPI)—St. Louis Cardinal Manager Holly Hemus went on the inactive list on Monday, making room for bonus rookie outfielder Jim O'Rourke in the lineup for tonight's two-night doubleheader against the Philadelphia Philies.

Cuban Welters On Ring Cards

New York (UPI)—Unbeaten young Cuban welterweights, displaying their prowess on Wednesday and Friday, will command the most attention on this week's boxing schedule. Luis Rodriguez, Camaguey, Cuba, meets former world champion Virgil Akins in a 10-rounder at the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall, Wednesday night. At Madison Square Garden Friday night, Florentino Fernandez of Cuba seeks his 20th straight professional victory in a 10-rounder with Stefan Redl of Passaic, N.J. It will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC. Fernandez scored 17 knockouts—14 in his last 14 bouts. The week's boxing schedule also includes: Tuesday—Milwaukee—Mike DeJohn vs. Willie Besmanoff, St. Paul, Minn.; Joey Giardello vs. Del Flanagan, Stockton, Calif.; Tommy Ursua vs. Nacho Escalante, Sacramento, Calif.; Joey Lopes vs. Lauro Salas.

Drysdale Shuts Out Braves 4-0

Los Angeles (UPI)—Friend and foe alike were in agreement today that Don Drysdale pitched one of the best games of his career Monday night when he shut out the Milwaukee Braves 4-0 for the Los Angeles Dodgers. The critical series continues tonight with Johnny Podres, 7-2 opposing the Braves' Lew Burdette, 9-5, in what could be another pitching duel the equal of Monday night's. Drysdale struck out 12 men for his best mark in that phase of the game and he gave up only four hits to register his sixth victory against five losses. The scoreless pitching duel with Bob Buhl broke open in the seventh inning when a homer by Jim Gilliam and a double by Wally Moon over the right field fence with two men aboard accounted for all the runs. Three of the four runs, however, were unearned. After Don Zimmer braved catcher Del Crandall on a bunt sacrifice and was charged with an error on the play. "I didn't feel so good when I started throwing," Drysdale confessed. "I hadn't slept well but I was real loose on the mound and my control was good."

Haney Quit? Just Moody McHale Says

Milwaukee (UPI)—General Manager John McHale of the Milwaukee Braves said today he felt Manager Fred Haney was in a "nostalgic mood" when he talked of retiring at the end of this season. "I hope he doesn't. He's a fine manager and a fine fellow," McHale said, "and he hasn't reached the retirement age. I think Fred was just in that kind of a mood. He had just seen his mother, 92, and his grandchildren and possibly felt blue and nostalgic." Haney made the retirement comment Monday at a luncheon in Los Angeles, which was held in his honor to announce his appointment as vice president of the Studio City bank of San Fernando valley. "If at the end of this season I feel the same as I do now, this may be my last season," Haney said. He indicated he would like to settle down in Los Angeles, his home town, but added he hadn't consulted with the Braves' management. He said he would not consider any other baseball attachment. "If I want to stay in baseball I'll stay where I am," Haney said. "Milwaukee is a wonderful town and I've been very happy there." His statements left little doubt that he was tired of the long road trips and the many months away from home.

Van, Francis In Grid Duel

Portland — Tickets for the professional football game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Green Bay Packers are now available by mail, it was announced today by Oregon Sports attractions. To be played here at Multnomah Stadium Saturday night, August 29, the game will feature several "firsts" for local fans. It will be the first appearance for either team and the first local effort for the head coaches, Buck Shaw of the Eagles, and Vince Lombardi of the Packers. The two players who make the game a "natural" however, are quite familiar. The opposing quarterbacks will be Norm Van Brocklin of Oregon, the "old pro" of the Eagles and Joe Francis, the Oregon State great who made good in his rookie season with the Packers. Orders should be sent to Oregon Sports Attractions at Multnomah Stadium.

Giants Open Up 14-Game Stand

San Francisco (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants open a 14-game home stand against Cincinnati tonight with first place in the National league still a game away despite a prolonged Milwaukee slump. Mike McCormick 4-5 is scheduled to open on the hill for San Francisco against either Bob Purkey or Giant-killer Don Newcombe of the Reds. The Giants gained an 8-8 standoff on their recent road trip, not counting a 3-1 loss to Minneapolis of the American association Monday night. The Eastern swing was costly for the Giants in more ways than one. They failed to gain much ground on Milwaukee, although the Braves have now dropped eight of their last 12 starts; and pitcher Jack Sanford suffered a smashed hand that may keep him out of action until next week. Milwaukee dropped a 4-0 decision to Los Angeles Monday night, enabling the Giants to pick up half a game. A leaky defense against Philadelphia Sunday cost the Giants a pair of games and an excellent chance to overtake the faltering Braves.

Arcaro Thankful

New York (UPI)—Eddie Arcaro leaves Philadelphia hospital today, thankful for the helmet that probably saved his life in a spill during Saturday's running of the Belmont Stakes. Arcaro, 43-year-old veteran of the turf, suffered a slight concussion, a sprained neck and a confusion of the shoulder blade when his mount, Black Hills, broke a shin bone and fell at the five-sixteenths pole. Culmone Wins Four Oceanport, N.J.—UPI—Jockey Joe Culmone booted home four winners at Monmouth Park Monday, including Minsing, a $52.80 victor in the featured seventh race.
