IGA Stores May Stock Cheese

Portland—(UPD)—Member stores of the Oregon Independent Retail Grocers association Tuesday were told that they have a legal right to continue to stock Tillamook cheese as long as it is available through regular trade channels. The cheese is being boycotted by the Teamsters union.

The association "reluctantly" stepped into the boycotting after Teamster pickets had been posted at Portland stores handling the Tillamook cheese.

A contract dispute involving 17 members of the fluid milk department of the Tillamook Creamery Association touched off the boycott. The firm was struck six weeks ago and has since continued operations with non-union labor.

Most Portland stores removed the cheese from their shelves when the boycott began Monday.
 Teamster union spokesmen have indicated that an attempt would be made to spread the consumer boycott throughout the 11 western states.

Trading Moderate On Rising Market

New York—(UPD)—Steels, autos and specialties led the stock market higher today after three straight sessions of decline. Trading was moderate.

The eternal optimists on Wall Street hoped the corrective phase through which the market has been passing was over and that today's rise marked the start of the long hoped for summer rally.

The economic news was generally favorable, except for strike fears in such key lines as steel, aluminum and copper.
 However, Universal Cyclops at its high was up almost 4 points but backed down under late profit taking. Youngstown Sheet was up more than 3 at its best while U. S. Steel ran ahead better than a point.

Motors were firm with Ford, Chrysler and American Motors all up around a point.
