Morse Backs Bill For Forest Work

Washington – (UPI) – Twenty senators proposed legislation today designed to accelerate the development of roads and trails in national forests.

Sens. James E. Murray (D-Mont.) and Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) are the chief sponsors of the bill, which would implement part of a long range national forest program proposed recently by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

The Benson program calls for an investment of more than $2,200,000,000 in forests over the next 12 years.

Under the Murray-Morse bill expenditures for the program would be put on an escalator basis: $40,000,000 in 1962; $50,000,000 in 1963, and $60,000,000 in subsequent years. The present annual authorization for the program is $30,000,000.

Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic

"Slipped" or Ruptured Disc

Dr. Alvarez

As I have said several times in this column, the diagnosis of a "slipped," or more properly speaking, a ruptured disc, is often difficult. Sometimes it is easy. It is highly important that the diagnosis be made as correctly as possible, because the operation is a serious one and the patient does not want to go to all the trouble and expense if he is going to be no better. And in the best of hands, there can be 15 per cent of poor results, with a return of the pain. Typical sometimes of a ruptured disc is the sudden onset of terrible pain, perhaps in the lower back and often in the sciatic nerve, on the back of one thigh. The patient may say that, on a few occasions, while he was bending over to pick up something, he got a terrible crick in his back with such pain in one leg that for a while he could hardly straighten up or move. After this, for a while, he may have limped around, listed over to one side, and used a cane. Perhaps, after the passage of months, he got over his trouble. In many cases the great difficulty is to know if the pain is due to an arthritis.

General Examination

If I had what looked like a slipped disc, with a great deal of disability in my back and leg, I would like to go to a large clinic where, in the same office building, I could get consultations with a number of experts in this field. First, I would want a general examination, with a good x-ray study of the back. Ordinary films usually show nothing, but an x-ray study while air is being injected into the spinal canal may show a disc projecting back and pressing on nerves. Examination of the spinal fluid should then show signs of inflammation and irritation. I would want to be seen by an expert in arthritis, and also by an expert orthopedist who would check my back for strains and signs of tense muscles. Then, I would want to be checked by an expert neurologist who might show definite signs of injury to nerves running down to one leg.

Finally, I'd like to consult with a surgeon who has operated on hundreds of ruptured discs. After some years of this he will have a sixth sense which will tell him which patients he should operate on and which he had better leave alone. But, as I said, even with all this careful examination, an operation might not help me. Because of this possibility, I would probably try first a lot of physiotherapy and perhaps a strong belt.
