Selling Fishworms
Woman's Business

Doylestown, Pa. - (UPI) - Wanna buy a worm? Bucks county farm wife will sell you 2,000 of them for $8.

Six years ago, Mrs. Mabel Brinker had a garbage disposal problem which she decided to solve by obtaining a colony of red worms. She put them in a box in the cellar of her home at Cross Keys, fed them garbage and watched them multiply - three times in three months.

Word that Mrs. Brinker owned several thousand worms got around to nearby youngsters, who asked for some to go fishing. From there, the word spread to several sporting goods stores and Mrs. Brinker was in business. Last year, she sold more than 100,000 of the worms to sports shops.

Counting out the worms for sale isn't much of a problem for Mrs. Brinker. Her 11-year-old grandson, Robert Cosner, does the job for spending money.

Health Center for Healthy Persons

Philadelphia - (UPI) - A unique new health center was opened here recently. It's for healthy persons!

Believed to be the first of its kind in the country, the purpose of the center is to show that senility is not an inevitable result of growing old. It's for healthy persons 60 years old and over.

Dr. John J. Hanlon, director of Public Health Services for the Philadelphia Department of Health, said the center will prove that senility can be prevented through the kind of services it offers.

Included in its program are group discussions, arts and crafts and other forms of recreation geared to the needs of older persons. It also provides services for health rehabilitation and employment for the oldsters.

Hanlon said the staff includes an occupational therapist, recreation leaders, a psychiatrist, psychologist, psychiatric social worker, public health nurse, physician and a clerk.

The $24 for which the Indians supposedly sold Manhattan island in 1626 would now have been equal in value to all the real property on Manhattan if it could have been invested at six per cent compound interest.
