

Hatfield Pledges State Effort in Pacific Routes

Salem—Gov. Mark Hatfield has pledged maximum effort from the state in the pending investigation of Trans-Pacific air routes by the Civil Aeronautics Board. He instructed the Public Utility Commissioner, the State Board of Aeronautics and the Department of Planning and Development to make their staffs and technical assistance available to cooperate with the Port of Portland and other Oregon civic groups to protect Northwest interests.

The governor named Loton Tatum, Portland, attorney for the Port of Portland, as "mobilizer" to coordinate the effort of all Oregon groups wishing to intervene in the proceedings.

Highest Priority
The CAB, by Presidential directive, has placed "highest priority" on the case, which involves virtually all American flag airlines.

They are asking for certificates of authority to operate between the United States and Hawaii, Alaska, the Far East, the Southwest Pacific, Australia-New Zealand, Indonesia, India and Southeast Asia.

The three state agencies along with the Port of Portland and others will foot the bill in hiring experts to further Northwest interests.

The trans-Pacific case is the largest investigation ever made by the CAB. It is expected the ultimate decision will effect air routes in the entire Pacific, direct or polar routings, for many years.

Many Obstacles Fail To Stop Mercy Flight of Serum

Portland, Maine—A tiny vial of serum sped to Portland from Denver, Colo., Saturday on a mercy flight during which nearly everything went wrong. But it may have saved the life of a critically ill child.

Train-Car Crash Takes Two Lives

Nampa, Idaho—A Nampa mother of seven and her 21-year-old son were fatally injured Saturday in a train-car accident just outside the city limits.

The Canyon county sheriff's office identified the victims as Mrs. Rose Jameson, 47, and her son Billy Joe, of Nampa. Mrs. Jameson died instantly and her son was dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Both persons were thrown from the auto. Their deaths raised the Idaho traffic toll to 87 for the year, compared to 101 last year at this time.

Stephen Harriman. They said it would take 24 hours to determine the serum's effectiveness.

Red Blotches on Skin
The youngster was hospitalized here last Wednesday with a temperature of 104 degrees and an outbreak of red blotches on his skin. Doctors diagnosed his ailment as eczema vaccinatum, a children's disease that is almost always fatal.

The boys' physician, Dr. Ralph Helfetz, remembering a similar case in which a Providence, R. I., infant was saved by serum developed by the University of Colorado Medical Center, hurriedly arranged for a shipment.

A vial of serum was shipped by plane from Denver and was supposed to go to Boston. But, by mistake, it was sent to Washington, D. C.

get the serum on a Northeast Airlines plane bound for Boston. They also arranged for flight of the serum by another Northeast plane to Portland's Maine Medical Center.

Flight Delayed
But, at the last minute, the Boston-to-Portland flight was delayed, and authorities called in the state police of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and a Mine to speed the serum on its way.

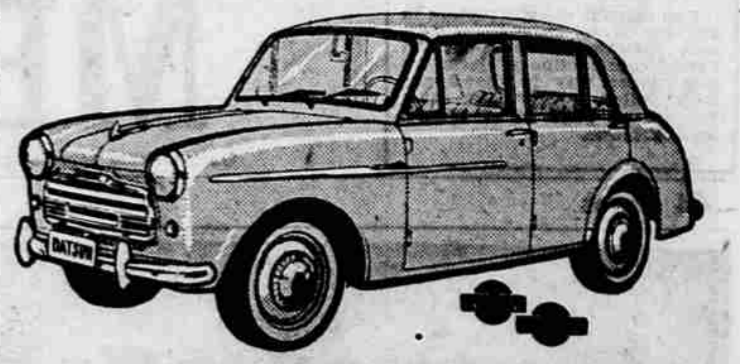

Massachusetts state police picked up the serum at Logan airport at 2:10 p.m. (e.d.t.) and, less than an hour later, handed it over to a New Hampshire trooper at Smithtown, N. H.

The New Hampshire trooper pulled out all the stops and delivered the serum to a Maine state policeman less than 15 minutes later at Kittery, Maine.

The serum arrived at the hospital here at 3:45 p.m. (e.d.t.). Police made the 111 miles in one hour and 25 minutes.

Dr. Helfetz said, "Too long a delay in injecting the serum could result in the boy's death

TROWBRIDGE & FLYNN is now conducting a light fixture SALE.

It is undoubtedly the biggest fixture SALE this part of the territory has witnessed. Call it what you may; a Centennial SALE, (Oregon may be 100 years old, but we only admit to 40), a Month-End SALE, (really would be misleading as we have several fixtures that are celebrating their 40th anniversary with us.) The simple truth is we have fixtures growing old waiting for a chance to be displayed in our over-crowded display area.

PLEASE!

Won't you stop by 214 West Main St. (that's our address) and take advantage of our Mistakes. There are over 100 models (of fixtures) to choose from. We are so EMBARRASSED by the LOW prices we would rather you see for yourself.

P. S. The SALE only lasts one week. It will probably be another 40 years before we dare repeat such an outlandish escapade
