BIG TELESCOPE MIRROR—Officials inspect just-completed 120-inch, magnifying mirror which will now be installed in world's second largest telescope, at Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton, Calif. Note slight distortion of reflected images, caused by mirror's concave surface. Grinding the mirror's surface was started in 1953, and has just been finished.

Senate Committee Votes Orphan Bill; Mrs. Holt 'Thankful'

Washington (UPI)—The Senate judiciary committee Monday favorably reported a one-year extension of the orphan immigration bill, which had been due to expire today. If the committee report is accepted by the full Senate, the extension will mean a continuance of such programs as that of Harry A. Holt of Creswell, Ore., who has brought more than 1,400 homeless Korean children to foster parents in the United States. Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said no changes were made in the present law by the committee. "While I had hoped for a more permanent extension with added safeguards, recent hearings by the judiciary committee have laid the groundwork for a permanent law which I hope can be enacted next year," Neuberger said. Creswell, Ore. — (UPI)—Mrs. Harry A. Holt said today, "we're very thankful" when informed that the Senate judiciary committee had extended the law under which she and her husband have operated a Korean adoption program since 1955. "We have had many, many people praying for this," she said. "Our trust is in the Lord, not in human beings." Holt is in Korea making arrangements for the immigration of another 250 waifs, most of them born of Korean mothers and American servicemen. "We have been spending all our energies getting these children adopted and getting them visas before the law expired," Mrs. Holt said. "I believe all of them now have visas and we have four months to bring them to this country whether congress extends the law or not." She said she believed the first group probably would arrive sometime in July. Boys To Learn Language Two of the eight Korean children the Holts themselves adopted in 1955 are back in Korea with Holt. Mrs. Holt said her husband, took Joe, 7, and Bob, 6½, back to their homeland to learn the Korean language in the hope they eventually may help with the adoption project. Mrs. Holt, three of her own daughters, and seven Korean children including a little visitor to the Holt farm will have their first look at the Centennial Exposition in Portland Wednesday. "We'll all wear Centennial dresses made by my daughters and me," Mrs. Holt said.

Old Television Tube Becomes Aquarium

Burlington, Vt. — (UPI)—Television shop foreman Armand Caggiano has developed what he calls a "tele-fish" set, an aquarium made from an old 24-inch television tube. "Took me six months to figure out how to start," Caggiano said, "but only about four hours to do most of the actual hard work." He said the unusual fish bowl has many advantages: It magnifies the fish, and illuminated by a small electric bulb, it has a "beautiful silvery radiance." Caggiano said he did a lot of research before learning how to cut the tube so it wouldn't fall apart. "I found I could de-vacuum it by letting air in very slowly," he said. "But it could be a dangerous operation and I don't advise any one to try it unless he has expert advice." Bremerton — (UPI)—Gary Miller, 22, Aloha, Ore., was killed Sunday at the Silverdale Speedway near here when his car skidded off the dirt track and crashed into a tree. Vast areas of the Scottish highlands have been turned into cattle ranges, such as found in western U.S.
