BATTLE $100,000 FIRE
Dayton, Ohio - (UPI) - Nine companies of firemen battled a $100,000 fire that swept through seven downtown buildings during rush-hour traffic Monday and threatened to ignite stores of gasoline in a basement. The fire began in a four-story salvage building, one of three structures belonging to the St. Vincent de Paul Society, destroying them and damaging four smaller buildings.

She will be research assistant to Dr. Leo A. Sciuchetti and will receive 12 hours of credit for pharmacy research along with a grant of $528.

The program of research is sponsored by the National Science Foundation to encourage interest among top students in research development and careers.

Edythe has been picked for membership in the national art society at Oregon State college, Kappa Pi, the honor society for outstanding students in art classes. She is a junior in the school of home economics.

Mrs. Aller will be assisted in the program this year by high school students Chuck Baird, Steve Hanby, Pam Cherry and Nanci Hogan. The two girls were members of the beginners class when the summer recreational program was first started in the valley.
