RED POSER OFFERED JOB

Undercover Agent for F. B. I. May Become Union Aide

CHICAGO, May 9 (AP)—A man who posed as a Communist for sixteen years to unearth activities in the United Kingdom Workers Union recently had his first job offer in more than two years.

The FBI

committee, meeting in Chicago to investigate Communist activities in the Midwest. I'm probably the only guy in history who was ever overjoyed to get a subpoena.

For 16 years, I'd been unable to talk with my family—really talk with them. Now the time had finally come. I called together my wife and the children who were at home or close enough to come over.

"Tomorrow," I told them, "I'm going to have a chance to clear my name and yours before the whole country."

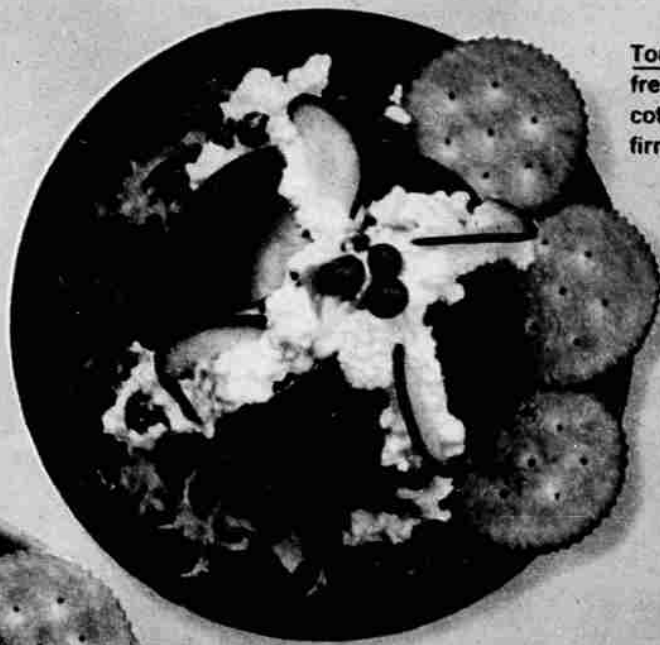

Then I told them the story of my 16 years as a spy for the FBI. I don't remember too well what happened after that because we were so happy.

I remember, though, that we all thanked Almighty God for bringing us through this experience.

The hearing next day was almost an anticlimax to me. I got to the hearing room very early, found the doors locked, and went out for a cup of coffee. While I sat on a restaurant stool, George—who had first brought me into the Communist Party—came in, saw me, and sat down beside me. I knew he had been subpoenaed to appear before the committee; but he wasn't expecting to see me. He looked at me suspiciously and asked me what I was doing downtown. I told him I had some business to attend to, paid my check, and left.

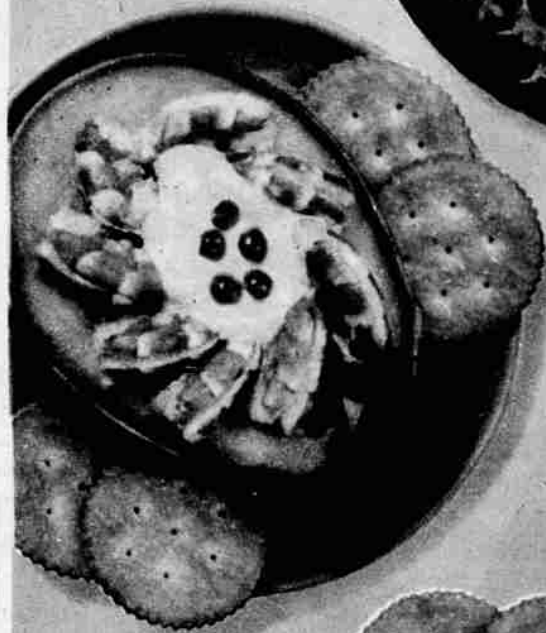

I wandered around for a few minutes, then returned to the courthouse where the hearings were being held and went to the washroom. As I was going out the door, George came in. Our eyes locked, and I saw him suddenly realize why I was there. He
