

Election Ends Convention Of Carpenters' Auxiliary

Mrs. Donald Fraser, Portland, was elected president of the Oregon State Council of Carpenters' auxiliaries during closing sessions of the group's 1959 convention held last week in Portland. Mrs. Fraser succeeds Mrs. Joseph O'Neal, Coos Bay, who has headed the auxiliary the past year. The group is a comparatively new one, and but six auxiliaries were represented for this session, the fourth convention held by the group.

The sessions were held jointly with the Oregon State Council of Carpenters, and were at Carpenters' hall. Serving with Mrs. Fraser this year will be Mrs. Charles Anderson, Ontario, vice-president; Mrs. George Potuck, Medford, who remains as secretary, and Mrs. William George, Eugene, retained as treasurer.

Retiring officers are Mrs. Joseph O'Neal, Coos Bay, president and Mrs. Samuel Magee, Eugene, vice-president.

Appointed as officers for the sessions here were: Mrs. Herbert Sharp and Mrs. Anderson, flag bearers; Mrs. Lloyd Fischer, Medford, conductor; Mrs. Dan Fraser, wardens; Mrs. Perry Smith, Medford, chaplain and Mrs. Fred Meadows, Medford, musician.

Trustees appointed were Mrs. Ruth Larsen, Portland, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Richard Hargrove, Ashland, president of the Medford auxiliary, hostess group.

Mrs. George served as chairman of the constitution resolutions and legislative committees and Mrs. Magee, chairman of hospitality, publicity and rules of order committees.

A group of local members conducted a memorial service during the convention, first ever held by the state auxiliary. Participating were Mrs. George Watson, Mrs. Duane Bever and Mrs. Cleve C. Ferris. Singing were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Fischer and Mrs. Potuck, with Mrs. Meadows as accompanist.

Speakers for the convention were Mrs. F. L. Whitely, National City, Calif., president of the California State Council of Carpenters' auxiliary, and Mrs. Wayne Hansen, Santa Ana, Calif., a district board member. Another guest was Mrs. Paul Rudd, Tacoma, wife of the president of the Washington State Council of Carpenters.

Also addressing the auxiliary were J. D. McDonald, Portland, AFL-CIO representative; and W. Jones, a repre-

Seminar Planned by Methodists

New York—About 140 Methodist women from all parts of the United States will gather in Greensboro, N.C., July 21-31 for a National Seminar on Christian Social Relations. Sponsored by the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions, the seminar is held every four years to give Methodist women "an opportunity to consider intensively some aspect of Christian social relations." The theme for the 1959 quadrennial seminar will be "The Family in a World of Rapid Social Change."

In speeches, panels and discussion groups, the effect of fast-moving social and technological changes on families around the world will be considered by the women. They will discuss the implications of the theme for the program of two Methodist women's groups, the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Three interlocking aspects of the seminar theme will be considered by the delegates: Culture and Social Change, Technology and Economic Issues, and "Eternal Values" in the Context of Our Christian Faith. A speaker will keynote each subject and set the stage for small-group discussions. The place for the seminar will be the campus of Bennett College, a women's college supported by the Woman's Division of Christian Science.

Two special resource leaders will be Mrs. Jonah Chitombo of Southern Rhodesia, and Mrs. Ang Kim of Singapore. Both of these Methodist women have been brought to the United States by the Woman's Division to participate in the seminar and to meet with Methodist women throughout the United States during the fall, winter and spring of 1959-60.

Representing the Oregon conference of the WSCS will be Miss Geneva McDonald, Oregon City, secretary of Christian social relations for the conference.

Dr. Clara Bartling, missionary on furlough from Africa, will be a special guest and will speak to the group Monday night. Monday is to be day night.

Attending from the Medford area will be Mrs. Mary Lewis, Mrs. L. G. Weaver, Mrs. I. B. Pierce, Mrs. Eugene Ray, Mrs. George Lawless and Miss Marsha Minshall.

Special guests of the week will be 16 high school girls chosen from throughout the state. Mrs. Orville Couvatt, Cottage Grove, is dean of the girls and will supervise the special programs planned for them. Among these girls is Miss Minshall.

First Course
A refreshing first course gets dinner off to a good start in warm weather. Turn syrup from a can of fruit cocktail into a refrigerator tray, add a squeeze of lemon juice and a drop of almond extract. Freeze until icy, stirring occasionally with a fork, meanwhile chilling the fruit cocktail thoroughly. Mix fruit lightly with the icy syrup, and serve at once in chilled glasses.

The page on Mon Desir features an attractive sketch of the restaurant's exterior, done by Kina Armstrong, the author's wife, and a recipe for Julie Tummers' Rollini di Vitella.

The author, who is an honorary member of the Chefs de Cuisine Society of Oregon, has nearly 50 Oregon restaurants in the book. Each restaurant is given a page, with write-up, sketch, recipe for specialty of the house, plus an informative capsule summary of all pertinent information on the restaurant, location, phone number, price range, hours and days open, name of chef, name of maitre de and type of liquor service, if available.

The book is on sale at restaurants featured in the book, and at department stores, book stores and gift shops.

Miss Betsy Beck (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beck, and Miss Sharon Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Huffman, both Medford, are among the 12 contestants who are competing for the title of queen of the Gold Rush Jubilee to be held in Jacksonville August 1 and 2. Miss Beck, a junior at Medford High school, is sponsored by Beck's Bakery in the contest. Her hobbies include water sports and riding, and her ambition is to be a secretary. Moose lodge of Medford is sponsoring Miss Huffman in the contest, which concludes July 28. Miss Huffman is a junior at Medford High school and her ambition is to be an air line hostess following her graduation. The queen and her court will be honored at a banquet Thursday, July 29, Jacksonville Community hall. Contestants are competing for more than $600 in prizes and awards including a top prize of a $300 wardrobe of their choice.

Life Humming at Camp Says Low Echo Reporter

By LINDA LOCKWOOD
Low Echo—Once again, things are humming at Low Echo, Girl Scout camp on beautiful Lake of the Woods. The official Low Echo camping season opened June 27, with a week of pre-camp training for the counselors. This program consisted of two training sessions a day, plus actual camping experience such as cook-outs and hikes.

Group Enrolled At Magruder; 16 Girls Guests

The Oregon Conference, Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church opened its annual school of missions and Christian service at Camp Magruder near Rockaway, Ore., Sunday, July 19. It will continue through Friday, July 24. The annual Wesleyan Service guild week end will follow July 24 through 26.

Mrs. Josephine Hunkapillar, Beaverton, is dean of the school and Mrs. Pascal Peek, Eugene, is the registrar. Mrs. C. R. Adamson, Medford, is in charge of plans for the Guild week end.

One purpose of the school is to prepare teachers for the study courses to be used throughout the nation during the coming year. Two of these courses are of interdenominational scope: "Africa" is the foreign mission study and will be taught by Miss Laura Heist, Portland, returned missionary to India; "The Churches Mission in Town and Country" is the home mission study and Mrs. George Fallis, Portland, will be the teacher.

"The Gospel of Luke" will be taught by Dr. Gertrude Boyd Crane, professor of religion and chaplain at Forest Grove Pacific University. Mrs. W. W. Geiger of Portland will teach "The Role of the United Nations in World Affairs."

Dr. Clara Bartling, missionary on furlough from Africa, will be a special guest and will speak to the group Monday night. Monday is to be day night.

Attending from the Medford area will be Mrs. Mary Lewis, Mrs. L. G. Weaver, Mrs. I. B. Pierce, Mrs. Eugene Ray, Mrs. George Lawless and Miss Marsha Minshall.

Special guests of the week will be 16 high school girls chosen from throughout the state. Mrs. Orville Couvatt, Cottage Grove, is dean of the girls and will supervise the special programs planned for them. Among these girls is Miss Minshall.

With this fine staff and beautiful camp, we expect a wonderful summer of camping here at Low Echo.

Girl Scouts Return Home After Colorado Roundup

Miss Carolyn Finch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Finch, 223 Bradford Way, and Miss Diane Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, 2133 East Jackson street, two of the four senior Girl Scouts selected to attend the Girl Scout Roundup from the Rogue Valley council, returned to the valley Wednesday.

The two were among the 10,000 Girl Scouts from throughout the world who attended the event in Colorado Springs, Colo., July 3 through 12.

The Roundup closed Sunday night at a campfire ceremony during which International Scouts and Guides help build the fire by placing "wishes for peace" on the flames.

The final gathering of the delegates also featured folk dances and group singing by hundreds of patrols.

While at the Roundup Miss Finch wrote home of various events which occurred ranging from scheduled activities to sudden windstorms.

"One evening we had a sudden windstorm with gusts up to 65 miles per hour. You should have seen the tents go down. The tent pole in one of our brand new tents broke, so down it went. Some tents ripped up the side and went down. The aluminum pole in our kitchen fly snapped in two, so down came our kitchen fly on our charcoal stoves. Ten minutes later the only tent in our patrol left standing was Diane's and mine. It sounds like there was something we could have done, but really there wasn't.

"One minute I was trying to get the fires going and the very next minute I was trying to keep my feet on the ground. They gave us a new tent with our tent repair kit, but our kitchen fly is still down and we're doing most of our cooking with New Jersey.

"After 10 minutes it was still and the rest of the night was clear and warm. It was a different experience, but don't think we got the worst of it. One girl was hit on the head with a tent pole, one girl fractured her wrist trying to hold on to a tent pole, and the tents up on the hill all went down!

"For a moment we were all ready to come home, but of course, as soon as we got our tents back up we were busy joking about it.

"As for my mattress, we all tried for 15 minutes to find a leak, but we can't. I blow it up every night and in the morning it is all deflated. I didn't sleep well last night because of the wind, but every other night it has been wonderful with a good eight hours a night.

"We had a big Colorado Centennial program that was actually a bore because it was so long. We had one solid hour of Indian dances by the Sohanes, a group of Eagle Boy Scouts that tour the country every year with their famous dances. And then we had another hour of rope twirling and horse riding."

In another letter Carolyn mentioned that one evening a Negro troop from Alabama sang Negro spirituals to another patrol.

She also mentioned the various exhibits, the Indian Village and the geology exhibit, which Carolyn described as "fabulous."

Party Sandwiches

New York—Roll-up sandwiches have a party look. Combine one three-ounce package of softened cream cheese with one 2 1/4-ounce can of deviled ham and one tablespoon of chopped chives. Mix well and spread on eight slices of whole wheat bread with the crusts removed. Cut a dill pickle into eight sticks and roll each sandwich around a pickle stick in jelly roll style. Fasten with toothpicks if necessary.

Visitors were invited to vote for the paintings which they enjoyed the most. An oil by Mrs. Cora (L.C.) McMahan, Medford, entitled "Lonesome Tepee" received first place for that type of media, and for watercolors the show visitors chose Mrs. Blanche (George) Johnson's "Siskiyou Stage."

Of particular interest at the show were paintings by the late Laura May Phipps and Atlanta Naffziger. Both women were members of early-day families of Oregon, and their works were shown in recognition of Oregon's Centennial celebration.

Twenty members of the society exhibited their works. A guest exhibitor was Eugene Bennett, Medford artist and teacher.

Mrs. Gean (W.L.) Neece, Gold Hill, and Mrs. Genevieve (R.S.) Ashenbner, Medford, were show chairmen. Each visitor was presented a brochure prepared by Mrs. Ada

Greenwich Village Show Held Saturday in Medford

(Leonard) Andrews, president of the society, and Mrs. Ethyl (Ralph W.) Hixson, Central Point.

Music for the show was provided by Purucker's Music house, with Edward Westra playing an electric organ. Also playing was Victor Wrigglesworth, a past president of the group.

Reports of the show will be heard at the monthly meeting of the society to be held Wednesday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Girls Community club.

Miss Marion Ady of the Southern Oregon college art department will select pictures for the quarterly exhibit.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Fred Rankin, Mrs. Vera Hausmann and Mrs. Tom Staley, Eagle Point.
