

Redstone Missile Put Through Paces

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (UPI)—An Army Redstone missile went through its paces Tuesday night at the missile range here.

The veteran 250-mile range Redstone, a pioneer in the U. S. missile program, rose from its pad with a roar and was visible nearly three minutes as it ascended into the clear night sky.

The launching was the first Redstone fired here since last November when the missile was graduated from experimental status to become "fully operational." The reliable missile has been in the hands of troops in this country and abroad for more than a year.

Informed sources said the latest shot was part of an evaluation program for a new production batch of Redstones.

The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic

children who (sadly) need dental care." To keep the total bill for health down, the Government has been driven from expedient to expedient. It has raised the tax. It has vetoed pay increases for certain health service workers, and now it is charging patients small fees. But still, the health service needs more money, and it needs it soon. According to the Economist's report, "the facts indicate that the British 'free' medicine is not very good, and that its problems are growing."

I know that because I write this I will get a number of letters from English people who will tell me what is true, that today many very poor people who formerly could get no medicine at all, now get some medicine, and are very grateful for it. These people tell me also what is true, that quite a few of the specialists are satisfied with things as they now are, and the people who are running hospitals are fairly well satisfied with things as they are. It is the general practitioner who has to work rapidly for long hours to make a living who is anything but happy.

Of the 17 injuries, two were hospitalized.

Two Penguins Die At Portland Zoo

Portland—(UPI)—Portland Zoo officials said Monday that two penguins of the penguin colony died of unknown causes. The colony has 28 remaining birds.

Officials said that aspergillosis, a lung infection which killed many penguins en route to Portland last year, is not a problem here any longer.

The rest of the birds seemed happy in the warm weather which ranged some 150 degrees higher than their native Antarctica.
