

LOCATED—Rescue parties are attempting to reach George Kallenmeyer of the California Highway Patrol, who went off the highway near Orinda, Calif., on his motorcycle and fell into a deep ravine. Kallenmeyer was missing for about a day before he was found.

Sergeant Develops Non-Skid Glasses

Washington—UPI—A sergeant at Walter Reed Army Medical Center has invented a way to fit eyeglass frames to the individual. He guarantees that whether the wearer hops, skips or jumps, the specs will stay firmly in place.

Staff Sgt. Cecil T. Butler has been making artificial dentures for 15 years at Walter Reed's Central Dental Lab. All these years he's been thinking about the problem of slipping glasses. So he perfected non-skid specs.

Butler has a patent pending on his invention, for, like the man who invented a better mousetrap, he finds such interested parties as optical firms beating a path to his door.

The sergeant reasoned that if individual fittings can do wonders for dentures, the same thing could be accomplished with eyeglasses. He makes snug, smooth-fitting ear pieces by a custom-tailored mold from a plaster cast impression of the area behind a glass-wearer's ear. The special fitting takes only about one hour and the expense is very little since the cost of materials is negligible.

Butler reports that he has gone swimming wearing his snug-fitting glasses and did not even have to readjust them after diving.

Rejected Author Prints Own Works

Springfield, Ill.—UPI—Halle H. Holt didn't get discouraged when publishers rejected his manuscripts. He learned the printing trade and published his books himself.

Holt says that printing has now become as much a part of his life as writing and that his books are finally being bought and read.

The elderly printer-writer published his first book in 1955. It was entitled "Young Pioneers," a story about hunting and camping aimed at Boy Scouts. Holt printed 300 copies and sold 250 of them at $2.50 apiece.

Two years later, he published a 16-page booklet about Abraham Lincoln which still is being sold by souvenir shops near the Lincoln home here.

He turned out his latest book, "The Mysteries of Existence," several months ago. In 113 pages, he explains his ideas on life, death and life after death.

Thefts from Homes Reported to Police

Thefts from two homes on Fair Oaks dr. were reported to city police Tuesday. The thefts are believed to have occurred between 8 p.m. Saturday and 2 a.m. Sunday, while a street dance, attended by approximately 800 persons, was in progress.

Approximately $30 worth of assorted liquor was reported taken from the residence of Robert Dean Littrell, 34 Fair Oaks dr., while William Kirk McLaren, 70 Fair Oak dr., reported the theft of a red plastic billfold containing $65 from his residence.

City police reported that both residences were unlocked during the event and the house lights were out.

199 KINDS OF ICE CREAM. New York—UPI—Ice cream now comes in 199 different flavors, according to the people who make Dixie Cups, including confetti, fandangos, peppermint, chocolate swirl, apple strudel, cranberry, licorice, mint julep, pumpkin—and vanilla.
