

Feeding the Family

Slew Chickens for Salads, Main Dishes

At this season when so many chickens are going into chicken salads and chicken casseroles, we refresh your memory on how to stew a chicken; suggest that you do two or more at a time if you've a freezer handy.

Stewing chickens are bargain priced, easy to cook, require long, slow simmering and that means 2 1/2 to 4 hours. Never underestimate the time it takes to stew a chicken.

Place a whole or cut-up chicken in a kettle with a tight lid. Add one-half cup water and one-half to three-quarter teaspoon salt for each pound. Quantity of water depends on the amount of broth desired. Simmer until thickest pieces are fork-tender which will be 2 1/2 to 4 hours. Remove chicken. Cool both chicken and broth promptly.

We add a few mixed pickling spices to the water in which chicken is stewed; others favor three or four peppercorns, one small carrot, a celery stick and a small onion for additional chicken and broth flavor.

Barbecued Lamburgers More west coasters like lamb than people of any other part of the country. Lamburgers, already-made in many markets, are bargains in good eating. They're fine simply broiled and seasoned—or try them more highly seasoned like this:

- 1 pound ground lamb (or 6 lamburgers)
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 tablespoon garlic salt
- Shape ground lamb with seasons into six patties.
- Broil three to four inches from heat for five minutes. Turn patties. Meanwhile, combine one-quarter cup mayonnaise, two tablespoons chopped onion, one-quarter cup chopped green pepper, two tablespoons French dressing and one teaspoon lemon juice. Arrange this mixture over lamburgers; broil another five minutes.
- Six servings for three or four persons.

Peach Crumble With luscious fresh free-stone peaches in plentiful supply, treat the family to this quickly made crumble peach pie. Use a pie crust mix or your favorite recipe for a nine-inch fluted partry shell.

Filling. In a bowl, combine four cups peeled, sliced fresh peaches, one cup beet sugar, one-half cup all-purpose flour, two tablespoons lemon juice, and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Turn into unbaked pastry shell.

Topping. Cream one-quarter cup or margarine with one-half cup sugar and three-quarters cup sifted all-purpose flour (result will be crumbly); spread over filling.

Bake in 450 degree oven 10 minutes, then in 350 degree oven 30 minutes more. Serve warm plain or with cream, whipped or sour cream.

Peach Chutney Fourteen medium size free-stone peaches and five of those just arrived Gravenstein apples go into this spicy, pungent relish which is superlative with all meat entrees.

- 14 medium-size peaches (about 3 1/2 pounds)
- 5 medium-size cooking apples
- 2 medium-size onions
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 8 cups beet or cane sugar
- 3 cups cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper

Cut peeled, pitted peaches into small pieces. Put peeled, cored apples and peeled onions through food chopper, using coarse knife.

Place all ingredients in large preserving kettle. Boil slowly until thick, about 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Ladle into hot sterilized jars; seal at once. Makes three to four pints. If family is small, put up in half-pint jars.

Plentiful Poultry, Pork; Try Shellfish in Menu

So many fresh, highly seasonal good things in the markets that it is difficult to tell where to begin. But we'll be they offer infinite variety in good eating; broiled, fried, barbecued, stewed, roasted, and in salads and casserole dishes galore.

There's more pork than is usually on the market this time of year; good news to those who like barbecued spareribs and other pork treats on dinner table, bacon and ham on the breakfast table. Ham, too, for broiling, baking, sandwich making.

Good beef buys for the looking. Hamburgers, frankfurters, cold cuts, canned luncheon meats offer menu variety at very modest cost.

Peaches and plums lead the fruit parade. Of good quality for eating out of hand, making desserts; it is also time to gin with poultry as usual, because chickens of all kinds and turkeys continue low in cost; but in the menu often, do something about jamming, preserving, canning and freezing if you're a putter-upper.

Other fruits. There are nectarines, a few Bing, Lambert and Royal Ann cherries but going fast. Calimyrna, Kadota and Mission figs along with Muscat and Thompson seedless grapes are increasing in supply. Gravenstein apples are getting under way for superlative eating, saucing, green apple pie baking. Plenty of bush berries, but strawberry supplies are declining rapidly. Apricots are going, going, will soon be gone. Bartlett pears arriving.

Fish and shellfish offer amazing menu variety at reasonable cost; might well appear on our tables far more often. Currently plentiful fresh fish include salmon, the king of fish, fresh and flavorful for broiling and baking; halibut for baking, frying, broiling. There are shrimp, lobster and crab for distinctive hot dishes and for welcome chilled salads. Canned standbys include tuna, salmon, California sardines, Main sardines; all of which are good on cold plates as well as in other ways.

Vegetable delights include beans, carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, soft squash, salad greens piled high, tomatoes, and corn, corn, corn.
