Landing Gear Inspection of 707s Ordered

Washington—UPI—The Federal Aviation Agency has ordered minute inspection of landing gears on all Boeing 707 jet-liners in a move to halt the faulty gear incidents that have plagued the giant planes recently.

FAA also told the four airlines operating the big jets—American, Trans World, Pan-American and Continental—to install new hydraulic fluid pumps or modify the hydraulic systems on certain earlier models of the 707.

The latter order included the three 707s delivered to the Air Force for use by White House and other top government officials. Vice President Richard M. Nixon used one of these planes on his trip to Moscow.

The inspection order affects all 707s. FAA told the airlines to carry out the inspection "as soon as possible." The inspection must be completed before each aircraft completes another 10 hours of flight.

If inspection shows impact dents on the landing gear truck beam exceeding 0.005ths of an inch, FAA said, the beams must be replaced. The directive also requires continued inspection of landing gear components after every 60 hours of service.

Installation of new hydraulic pumps or modification of the present system on the earlier 707s must be completed by Aug. 21, the FAA order said.

Reynolds Vetoes USW Wage Plan

New York—UPI—The Reynolds Metals Company has joined the other two big aluminum producers in rejecting a United Steelworkers Union wage increase proposal.

The Aluminum Company of America, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., and Reynolds are in negotiations with the union on a new contract to replace the one which expires July 31.

Alcoa and Kaiser rejected the steelworkers proposal for a 15-cent an hour wage package increase Wednesday.

With the strike deadline only a week away, the aluminum companies were presenting a solid front and there was no sign of a break.

The steel union, at its conference with Alcoa this morning, presented an economic report giving figures and data to support its contention that Alcoa could afford a wage increase. The company made no immediate reply to this report, according to the union.
