Let's hope—but let's face facts!

Let's hope that when your bright young son reaches 18 he'll be admitted to the college of his choice.

But let's face the fact that there may be no room for him—in any college.

Applications alone will double by 1967. Colleges simply will not be able to accept additional thousands of capable youngsters... unless something is done, quickly and decisively, to remedy this situation.

Help the college of your choice now!

To know the present crisis affecting you and your children, write for "The Closing College Door," HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Sq. Sta., New York 36, N.Y.

Bell Battle! Jane McHenry

Here's an ice-breaker game that's different. Make a necklace for each guest from a piece of ribbon with a little dime-store bell hanging on it. Put one around the neck of each arrival and warn them that during the party, if they answer anyone with a no, or use the word know, they must hand over their ribbon to that person. Eventually, one or two people seem to collect all the ribbons! You can either call off the game and award them the prizes, or permit the losers to try to get back their bells by catching the winners with a no, or a know in conversation.

Teen-agers, and even grownups, can enjoy this!

WHAT ANIMAL IS IT? Ruth Dixon

Look at the way this gay friendly animal spreads out his legs when he starts to leap down from high tree branches to those lower! He draws out the loose skin between his front and back legs and forms a sort of parachute or sail. With this he "goes through the air with the greatest of ease" and can cover from 50 to 100 feet in a single leap! What is his name?

These small furry animals are rodents and can gnaw. Some live in Asia and Europe but there are two kinds in the United States. With their three or four children they build a leafy nest in a hollow tree, storing their Winter pantry with pine cones, nuts, and grain. They like to eat leaf buds, too, and sometimes, sorry to say, they eat birds' eggs and baby birds.

All have bushy tails about as long as their slender bodies, which they whisk about as they chatter noisily. Many are quite easy to tame.
