Moscow-Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, speaking to Vice President Richard M. Nixon while the two posed for photographers outside Khrushchev's concrete mansion overlooking the Moscow river: "Keep smiling. Otherwise they'll say we just had a quarrel."

Washington-Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) discussing Vice President Nixon's public debate with Soviet Premier Khrushchev at the opening of the U. S. exhibit in Moscow: "It was exactly what a lot of ordinary Americans have been itching to tell Khrushchev."

Havana-Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos Torrados, telling a crowd of 500,000 cheering peasants that Fidel Castro was withdrawing his resignation: "At this moment of maximum emotion, I am able to announce to you that Fidel Castro, in the face of your mandate, has agreed to return to the task of prime minister."

Havana-Frank Mauro, owner of the Havana Sugar Kings baseball team, trying to prevent the Rochester Red Wings from walking out of a doubleheader after shortstop Frank Verdi was wounded by a bullet fired by celebrating rebels: "One of our players was nicked by a stray bullet in the previous inning, and we didn't complain."

Interest in Stronger UN Charter Is Noted

Washington-Widespread interest in House and Senate concurrent resolutions calling for a strengthening of the United Nations Charter has been reported by Representative Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.)

Porter was initial sponsor of the resolution in the House of Representatives. Senator Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) introduced the Senate resolution. Porter said he had received many letters from men and women from most parts of the United States expressing approval of the proposed resolution which would strengthen the United Nations through the rule of law in the limited field of war prevention.

The Oregon congressman said, "I believe avoiding all out nuclear war is item number one on any person's agenda today." He said, "It is easy to avoid the responsibility and find false security in the thought that everything will take care of itself." Porter said such thinking wouldn't solve the existing dilemma which he described as the greatest our world has ever known. Approximately 25 representatives and 20 senators have introduced the charter review resolution.

The legislation will be introduced in all legislatures in the free world and in other nations, if possible, Porter said. He added that more than a fourth of the members of the British Parliament support the resolution. Arrangements have been made to have the legislation filed in the legislative bodies of Italy, France, the Netherlands and West Germany.

Search Starts for Two in Canyon

Grand Canyon, Ariz. - UPI - Searchers transported by helicopters scoured a remote area of the Grand Canyon floor today for a Roman Catholic priest and his hiking companion. A third member of the hiking group was found dead.

The body of Walter J. Mahany, 16, was located Sunday in the rugged heat-scorched canyon, the apparent victim of heat prostration and exposure, rangers reported.

A message scrawled in the sand beside his body said one of the three hikers had fallen, Ranger Vincent Hefli, who helped find the body, said. He said it made no mention which of the three hikers had fallen.

Tracks were found leading away from the body and believed those of Father Gavigan and Manson Ownes, 16, Hefli said. The victim and two other hikers were believed from Savannah, Ga.

The hikers were tentatively identified from a diary. He reported by radio that he and his two companions were camping in the canyon and would begin following the tracks today. About seven more men were flown into the canyon to aid in the search. Temperatures have been reaching up to 115 on the canyon floor.

Rangers said they believed the three hikers entered the mile-deep canyon Friday. They failed to tell anyone their plans, however. The search started Sunday after hikers reported hearing cries for help. Rangers found the hikers' car parked along the rim.

Planes Fly Lower Over Nudists Camp

Devore, Calif. - UPI - Nudists celebrating the 30th anniversary of the nudist movement in the United States say it's mighty strange how airplanes suddenly seem to lose altitude while flying over their camp.

But the nudists add they take it in stride. Any show of indignation would be a show of inhibition and that's pretty hard to imagine about nudists, said Mr. Hocker, manager of the nudist's Oakdale ranch.

"If we were upset," he explained, "it would mean we're inhibited and if we are inhibited we wouldn't be nudists, get it?"

Hocker said that five military planes from nearby Edwards Air Force base flew over the camp Saturday and one forestry plane.

Hocker said about 800 nudists took part in the three-day convention ended Sunday. It's an annual affair of the We term Sunbathing association.

His parting thought for the day was this: Nudists believe that most people who sleep without bed clothes are potential nudists.
