

Foods Plentiful For Outdoor Cooking Fans

Washington — (UPI) — Outdoor cooking fans will find plentiful supplies of broilers-fryers, small turkeys, fresh corn, onions, and potatoes in their food stores this week end.

Other vegetables in plentiful supply nationwide, include beans, cabbage, peppers, squash, and sweet potatoes. Six fruit-share the spotlight for abundant supply and economical price: Apples, grapes, pears, watermelons, and cantaloupes.

Along with small turkeys and broilers-fryers, many cuts of pork are also in ample supply at reasonable prices. Smoked ham is a special value this week end. Eggs continue to offer a plentiful supply of economical protein food.

Best values at the fish counter include fish sticks and portions, shrimp, and canned tuna.

Here is the food picture in the Far West:

Plentiful and lower priced fresh fruits and vegetables will provide consumers with excellent buys this week. Lower priced plentiful include apples, Bartlett pears, melons, grapes, peaches, corn, squash, tomatoes, artichokes, beans, peppers, potatoes and sweet potatoes.

Red meats are mostly unchanged in price from a week ago. Supplies of beef are moderate in northwest markets, and fairly plentiful in California markets. Pork is in ample supply in all markets, while supplies of lamb, and calf and veal are ample for the demand.

Supplies of eggs continue ample in most markets, with the medium and small sizes slightly higher this week in California. Ready-to-cook fryer chickens and light turkey hens are slightly lower in price in California markets, and supplies are ample.

Fish buyers will find good values in halibut, flounder, salmon and rock fish.

Garden Club Plans Meet

Prospect — All members of the Prospect Garden club are to attend a meeting Friday, August 14 at 1 p.m. at the Prospect Community club.

At the meeting last details will be worked out concerning the flower show "Centennial Symphony," to be held August 21. "Centennial Symphony" is to be a competitive flower show, with entries from members of other garden clubs, members of the community and club entries. Awards of ribbons, with a purple rosette, will be given to the person who wins the most blue ribbons in each of the divisions, horticulture and arrangements.

There will be a division for junior gardeners, open to any youngster to the age of 14.

In addition to the judged divisions, there will be exhibits by the United States forest service of rare plants of Oregon; a commercial exhibit by Elton's Farm Store, Medford; and the theme exhibit, "Heirlooms and Antiques."

The special exhibit will feature Oregon treasures of early days, loaned by resident of Prospect and Trail, and any one interested in loaning items for this exhibit may contact Mrs. Halvor Garden or Mrs. Sydney Morse of Prospect.

Specialist Appointed at State College

Specialist Appointed at State College

Corvallis — Miss Bernice Strawn, former equipment editor for a national magazine, has been named home management and equipment specialist with Oregon State college extension service.

In her new position, Miss Strawn will help Oregon families with projects in selection and use of household equipment, planning and use of storage space in the home, planning arrangement of work areas, work simplification, and household care.

She will work directly with some groups and indirectly with others through county extension agents and a corps of trained homemakers. Miss Strawn will also help develop project materials for Oregon's 31,000 4-H club members, and help train 4-H leaders.

For nearly 10 years, Miss Strawn was home equipment editor of Woman's Home Companion which ceased publication last year. She was formerly director of home economics for Sears Roebuck and Company, and home economist for the Rural Electrification Administration.

The new OSC specialist received both her bachelor and master of science degrees from Iowa State college. She has taken additional training in communications and education at several midwestern schools and New York university.

Eagle Point Behind In Development of Sanitary Sewer Plan

Eagle Point Behind In Development of Sanitary Sewer Plan

Eagle Point — The community of Eagle Point is about 20 years behind on its sewer project, T. M. Gerow, state sanitary engineer, told a public hearing recently at the Eagle Point school gymnasium.

Approximately 250 persons attended the meeting, which was called by Mayor Ed Putman and the city council to explain the proposed municipal sewer installation for Eagle Point.

A vote on a bond issue to finance the project is expected this fall.

Gerow referred to the 1938 pollution prevention bill which he said was passed to clean up contamination of streams and waters in Oregon. He said he had been in contact with the Eagle Point city council for several years and that the area was late in improving its sewage disposal.

Estimated Cost

The sanitary engineer, who is with the Oregon state sanitary authority, said the estimated cost of a municipal sewage disposal system for Eagle Point had more than doubled since it was first proposed in 1941. Voters turned down the project at that time.

Ernest Gregg, chairman of the project committee, quoted "rough estimations" of the cost of the proposed system. He said over-all cost is estimated at $176,000, plus $11,000 for the proposed site of a disposal plant.

The site under consideration by the council is 53 acres between Antelope and Little Butte creeks near property formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jenks on Crater Lake highway.

Question Asked

The question "What type of city do we want?" was asked the audience by John Pletsch of the Jackson County Federal Savings and Loan association of Medford.

Pletsch asked if Eagle Point wants increased population, new industry, a new and better shopping center and new and improved homes.

All depend on development of the city and community, he declared. Important development issues for a city were listed as zoning, subdivision ordinances, modern utilities and good streets. Pletsch said the city "should be attractive and inviting enough to have new businesses and residents want to come into it."

Another hearing on the proposed sewer system will be held later, with a possible vote on the proposal in September. Supporters predict that meeting the state sanitation ordinance will increase the number of residents and business who will help finance the project.

Film Shown

Gerow showed a film "On to the Sea" which depicted pollution of streams and waters in the Willamette valley.

B. Kent Blackhurst, Eagle Point city attorney, and Edward Jaros, representative of John W. Cunningham and Associates, consulting engineers, Portland, attended the hearing to answer questions.

Gregg said complete facts on construction and financing of the city's sewage system will be sent before the bond election to all persons affected.

Union St. Park Project Tonight

Union St. Park Project Tonight

"Fun for Funds" is planned tonight at Medford's west-side Union St. park.

The project is being sponsored by the neighborhood Union St. Park Improvement group to raise funds for playground equipment.

The public-all ages-is invited to the event, which is to include games, cake walks and "surprises and prizes." A hot dog, potato chips and soft drink can be bought for 25 cents—since these have been donated, the sum represents a clear 100 per cent profit, sponsors report.

City firemen are going to serve the meals. The American Legion's 40 at 8 avenue will be on hand to give rides to children.

The event is the latest step in determined and so far successful efforts to turn a vacant lot into an attractive park. The undertaking is the work of neighborhood volunteers.

Mrs. Edith Eden of Medford's parks and recreation commission reported last night that Kogon Lumber Industries has donated a new sawdust product for the park's walkways to keep them from becoming too dusty. She said that rest room facilities were becoming necessary as children came from further and further away to enjoy the park. Plans for these facilities were being drawn up, she reported.

The park is situated between Hamilton and Plum sts. at 13th st.

Liz Denies Rumor Baby Expected

Liz Denies Rumor Baby Expected

Sagaro, Spain — (UPI) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor said today rumors she and Eddie Fisher are expecting their first child are "ridiculous."

Miss Taylor said there was no truth to the rumors which started in Paris Wednesday after she boarded a plane for Barcelona wearing a brown, sack-like dress often worn in France by expectant mothers. "It is completely ridiculous," she said. "I'm not expecting. I'm here to do a picture."

Key Figures Miss Steel Negotiations

Key Figures Miss Steel Negotiations

New York — (UPI) — Joint steel talks were resumed in a perfunctory manner today with prospects for settling the national-wide steel strike at a low ebb.

Key figures in the negotiations were absent from the bargaining table when the session started.

Chief Federal Mediator Joseph E. Finnegan had flown to Washington Wednesday night, but was due to return to New York tonight. David J. McDonald, president of the Union Steelworkers Union and R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, were also absent.

McDonald is visiting the picket lines in the steel mill centers and is not expected back in New York before early next week. It was said that Cooper might show up at today's session before it is adjourned.
