Man Confesses He Started Pair Of Costly Fires

Tonasket, Wash. (UP) - Firemen early Saturday brought under control a roaring blaze which ripped through a cold-storage annex here causing an estimated $160,000 damage.

A mentally-retarded man was taken into custody in connection with the fire.

Police Chief Lloyd Atchinson said the man was turned over to Okanogan County Prosecutor John Hancock after admitting he set the fire and also the $450,000 fire which destroyed the United Growers warehouse here last month. Atchinson declined to identify the man pending further investigation.

The cold-storage building, which caught fire shortly before 8 p.m. Friday, was an annex to the United Growers warehouse, located across the street.

Firemen from Oroville, Omak and Okanogan aided the fire department here in bringing the blaze under control by 2 a.m. Mop-up operations continued through the morning.

Fire officials said the annex housed the Tonasket Tribune office and contained supplies for installation in a new warehouse. Freezing and air-conditioning equipment was also housed in the annex.

Atchinson said the Tribune office and printing shop were saved due to a fire-wall. He added, however, that water damage was extensive to the newspaper plant. The remainder of the 100-by-80-foot annex burned to the ground.

The officers said the man told them he started the fire by igniting a box full of paper and setting it inside the building. He said he started the fire last month the same way.

Youth Killed As Skiff Flips

Astoria-UP - Donnie McDowell, 18, of Portland, died Saturday when a speeding 14-foot skiff powered by a 30-horsepower outboard motor overturned at the Clatsop Spit near the mouth of the Columbia river.

The victim's companion, Charles Dison, 42, also of Portland, was pulled from the water by crewmembers of a Coast Guard patrol boat and taken to the Fowler clinic here.

Coast Guard officials in Seattle said two patrol boats began chasing the skiff when it was spotted racing toward the turbulent Spit area. The Coast Guard wanted to warn McDowell and Dison to stay out of the rough surf but the small boat overturned before the patrol boats could catch up.

The patrol boats and two helicopters searched the area but were unable to find McDowell's body.

The skiff was dashed against a jetty and smashed.
