Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

Those who talk about rain having a dampening effect on the spirits of people aren't talking about the kind of rain we've been experiencing this week. With forest fires popping out in smoke every day and with irrigation waters becoming critical as to whether or not they will last the season, this rain is as welcome as a paid vacation to Alaska. It also may bring some more summer steelhead up the river to buttress the colony of hardy pioneers that made the trek through the hot water. This is the kind of rain that brings a smile to the face of the valley.

NOT ACCEPTABLE

It is hoped that the people of the valley will accept the facts brought out in the hearing held in Grants Pass last week. Between the Army engineers and the fish and wildlife service it became quite evident that the Rogue basin study was not complete and as such was not acceptable. The major reason for this was the lack of fish benefits in the Lost creek dam part of the project. If this seems a small point to some, may I remind them that the valley presented a study to the state water resources board a couple of years ago on the uses of water in the valley and one of the results of the study was that the fishery is considered one of the major resources of the valley. It is doubtful if the SWRB would accept the engineers study without benefits to the fishery on the main stem of the river.

NO WATER FOR FISH

This point became even more important when it was brought out in the hearing that the engineers would release no water for the fishery from Lost creek dam and that the flow during the summer would be no greater and even less, in some cases, than the regular flow. It means that in the years of low water, such as this year, the river would be the same or even lower than it is now. If you remember the 83 degrees that marked the hottest water in the lower canyon this summer you can realize what the F&W service meant when it said that Lost creek could eventually wipe out the migratory fish runs in the Rogue.

A 1 OR 2 YEAR DELAY

Because of recent research in temperature-flow relationships the F&W service thinks it can work out a schedule of temperature flow requirements which, if met by the engineers in the operation of Lost creek dam, would benefit the fishery to the extent that a main stem dam might prove to be acceptable. They require one or two years in which to collect the data necessary to work out the needs of the fishery and are asking the engineers to delay the completion of their study until this is accomplished.

WHY DELAY NOW?

One very pertinent question which deserves answering is why is the F&W service doing this research now instead of when the engineers were making their study? The answer is that there was no work done or no information available before now. Another answer lies in the law passed by Congress last year which allows wildlife and recreation benefits to be applied in the cost-benefit ratio of flood control projects. In other words the F&W service was stopped by law and by a lack of basic research in finding out how a dam on the main stem of the river would help the fishery.

WE NEED A DAM!

At the present time it is the opinion of many conservationists that more water of proper quality and quantity is needed for the fishery. The only way to get it is by tributary and upstream storage. More water is needed for irrigation and municipal use and by storage of flood waters these needs can be met. By use of a basin project of storage dams the job can be done, but if one need is neglected because of haste and poor planning, the whole project may never get off paper. If this happens we can blame none but ourselves.

MORE DEAD DEER

The tally now stands at about 50 deer drowned and about 20 saved at the Howard Prairie delivery canal. Three more ramps have been installed and a constant patrol of the ditch has been the means whereby several fawns have escaped drowning. Charlie Shepard, game commission field agent, thinks we may be over the hump as to rate of deer lost because most of the deer using the habitat around the canal have been killed. This is small consolation in that there will be a heavy kill of those deer that frequent the area of the canal every year. This bad situation should be remedied before the bureau of reclamation finishes the project and leaves us with an annual kill of many valuable game animals. Stoppag measures are fine for now but they should come up with a permanent solution to a problem created by their extreme shortsightedness.

THE ANGLER'S LOG

Now that the heat's off, we can expect the fish to get a bit hungrier at times and more easily tempted by our expensive offerings. With natural production of food on the wane and cooler water temperatures prevailing, the next two months of lake fishing should provide tastier, harder-fighting fish for the lucky angler.

Diamond Lake - Is picking up. The water is clearing and more fish are hitting flies that are drifted or trolled slowly. Flatfish are paying off and there has been some luck with the larger sizes.

Fish Lake - Is still hot. Water is still about 25 feet deep in the channels and clear. The fish run from 8 to 12 inches and are hitting just about anything with a hook on it.

Lake of the Woods - Is getting better. Still fishing the deep spots with medium colored single eggs is the best bet. About 85 per cent of the fish are over a foot long.

Squaw Lakes - Has been pretty good lately. Lots of fish are hitting trolled flatfish.

Willow Creek - Has improved with FF&W and flatfish doing the business. Frog and yellow with red spots are the favorite colors. Joe Fossier of Medford and Chancy Byfield of Ashland have taken

Jury Hears Rosensohn Testimony

New York - (UPI) - Bill Rosensohn, who promoted the first Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson bout but has since lost control of his own company, was scheduled to testify before the "boxing grand jury" today about the fight's odd promotional set-up.

Rosensohn was grilled for nearly eight hours in the office of Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan, repeating his earlier story of how he was "forced" to take in two promotional partners in order to stage the June 26 bout.

At almost the same time, Frankie Carbo, reputed underworld boss of boxing, was being questioned in the office of the State Attorney General Louis J. Kefauver, who also is investigating the odd goings-on surrounding the bout in which Johansson knocked out Patterson to win the heavyweight crown.

It was the first appearance in the case for the dapper, smiling Carbo, who has plenty of other legal troubles to keep him busy.

Earlier in the day Carbo, who is awaiting trial on charges of being an undercover and therefore unlicensed manager of fighters, was the target of a tax warrant filed in state supreme court. The warrant charges that Carbo owes the state approximately $240,000 in back income taxes.

Jack Calls Off Sweden Jaunt

New York - (UPI) - Ex-heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, the new promotional director of Rosensohn Enterprises Inc., today called off plans for a trip to Sweden for a "man to man consultation" on fight plans with champion Ingemar Johansson.

Dempsey had planned to leave by plane tonight for Goteborg, Sweden, where he hoped to reach agreement with Johansson on a return bout against Floyd Patterson. But Dempsey received news today that Johansson, who apparently had not received word of Dempsey's plans, was traveling by plane today to England where he is to make an appearance at a "light festival" in the city of Morecambe.

Roseburg Legion Host

Roseburg - (UPI) - The 1959 Northwest regional American Legion baseball tournament with five state champions entered opens here Saturday night.

The five entries in the tourney are Billings, Fairbanks, Boise, Seattle, and Roseburg.

Tournament favorite is Billings, which has compiled a 39-8 record this season. The Billings nine last season finished fourth in the nation.

Oregon's state champion Roseburg squad will meet Boise Saturday night at 9:05.

The regional champion will be crowned Wednesday night. The winner of the regional tournament will advance to the Legion sectionals to be held at Bend.

home fish over 18 inches. Flies are taking limits in the evening.

THE OPTIMIST'S CORNER

Fish lake has survived the year without any of those little headaches called roach showing up. If the lake is clean of these scrap fish we can expect it to get better each year until it again becomes one of the hottest spots for big, hard-hitting fish. Anyone acquainted with its past history remembers how it gave up 24 inch fish fairly often and a few over 10 pounds.

Busy Week-End Of Exhibitions In Pro Football

United Press International

The champion Baltimore Colts meet the runner-up New York Giants and the Washington Redskins play the Los Angeles Rams tonight in the start of a busy week end of exhibition action in the National Football league.

Except for tonight's Redskins-Rams game at Los Angeles and Sunday's meeting between the Forty Niners and Green Bay Packers at San Francisco, all the action this week end will be at "neutral" sites, stops such as Dallas, Akron, Ohio, Lynn, Mass., and Austin, Tex.

The Colts-Giants game is expected to draw anywhere from 50,000 to 60,000 fans to the Cotton Bowl in what will be their first meeting since they played for the NFL title last year. Baltimore beat the Giants in that one, 23-17, in overtime at Yankee Stadium.

Three games are scheduled for Saturday. The Cleveland Browns, who were whipped by the Pittsburgh Steelers 34-20, last week, meet the Detroit Lions (1-1) at Akron; the Chicago Bears, 19-16 winners over the Packers in their only start, play the Eagles (1-0) at Lynn, and the Chicago Cards (2-0) travel to Austin to play the Steelers (1-0) in a nationally televised game.

Maddox Double Inflicts Damage

United Press International

The latest team to be heard from in the Northwest league is the Salem Senators.

Salem, winner of the first half, moved into a tie for first place with idle Wenatchee Thursday night with a 4-2 victory over Yakima.

Carl Hutzler drove in two runs and scored another for the winners and Chuck Lybeck went the distance to register his 11th victory of the year.

In the other game, Hal Johnson tossed a five-hitter as Eugene blanked Tri-City 3-0. Johnston fanned nine and walked four.

Eugene got one in the third when Dick Pawlow's double drove in Mel Krause.

The other two Emerald runs crossed in the eighth. Terry Maddox did the damage with a two-run double.

A scheduled Wenatchee-Lewiston game was called off because of rain.

Lead Assumed By Patty Berg

Spokane, Wash. - (UPI) - Patty Berg held a one stroke lead over the field today as she took the course in the second round of the $7,500 Spokane Women's Open in an attempt to repeat a victory of 13 years ago.

Miss Berg shot a two-under-par 70 on the Esmeralda Course Thursday despite wind and rain. She won the first Women's National Open here in 1946.

Betsy Rawls, the women's top money winner with $21,050 this year, was in second place with a 71.

Madison Picks Pair of Coaches

Portland - (UPI) - Two ex-Washington high coaches have been named to coaching positions at Portland's Madison high school. Named as head baseball coach succeeding Don White is Warren Bolin. Balin originally was named as head track mentor when Don Pickens resigned. Roger Mockford will guide the Madison track fortunes next year.

LA Rams, Redskins Vie

Los Angeles - (UPI) - Upwards of 80,000 fans are expected to turn out tonight to watch the Los Angeles Rams—and their two new attractions—against the Washington Redskins in the annual Times-sponsored charity exhibition game.

The Rams, thanks largely to their new additions—back Ollie Matson and defender Gene Brito—are nine point favorites to whip the Redskins.

Matson, former University of San Francisco great who was obtained from the Chicago Cardinals, and Brito, ex-Loyola of Los Angeles stand-out, are making their home debut in Ram uniforms.

Tied Detroit

The Rams fought to a tie with the Detroit Lions two weeks ago in their only exhibition, while the Redskins-transplanted Californians during San Francisco last week.

Even though tonight's game is an exhibition, both Redskin coach Mike Nixon and Sid Gillman of the Rams promised to go all out for the game—a traditional affair with the proceeds going to charity.

The touted Ram offensive backfield will have Billy Wade at quarterback, Jon Arnett—despite a hurt hand—and Tom Wilson at the halves and Matson at fullback.

LeBaron will lead a backfield of Dick James and Jim Podoley at the halves and Johnny Olszewski, a former Chicago teammate of Matson's, at fullback.

Ford Defeats Stacey in PNG

Karen Ford, Bellview, Wash., defeated Pam Stacey 1 up on the 20th hole in Wednesday quarter-finals to eliminate the Medford entry from the Pacific Northwest Golf association's junior girls' tournament at Yakima, Wash.
