

Redskins Nick Rams In Pro Tilt

Los Angeles - UPI - Some 85,888 fans shook their heads about the long and short of the Redskins, little Eddie LeBaron and big Johnny Oliszewski, after they led Washington to a 23-21 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams in the annual charity exhibition game.

The fans, who turned out to watch the Rams, and their two heralded additions, back Ollie Matson and Defender Gene Brito, in their season debut had little to cheer about in the Coliseum last night. Despite the score, the Redskins dominated the ball and controlled the game most of the way.

It was two by land, with Oliszewski carrying the ball, and one by the air. LeBaron, who chalked up another sensational night from the firing line, passed for the other Redskin touchdown.

The diminutive field general passed 23 times, hitting his receivers 15 times, good for 223 yards and the one score, a six-yard lob to half-back Dick James.

The Washington offense bottled up Matson, the hard-charging fullback obtained from the Chicago Cardinals by the Rams in a move to aid their chances for a Western division title.

Brito, himself a former Redskin, found the Washington offense to be shifty and tough to cope with effectively from his position as linebacker.

The difference in score came when Ralph Felton tackled Jon Arnett in the end zone for a safety. That set the pattern for a ragged Rams offense and an ineffective defense.

After Shofner caught a 42-yard scoring pass from Wade late in the first period, Oliszewski scored for Washington.

Wade scored the final Rams TD when he sneaked across from the one yard line and Dick James' score ended it for Washington.

Bob Ricks Keeps Record Intact

Colts Drub NY Giants

Dallas, Tex. (UPI) - There wasn't much doubt about who were national pro football champs here Friday night after the Baltimore Colts demonstrated their ability for the New York Giants for the second time and came up winner again, 28-3.

Cotton Bowl fans attending the charity game re-match, were almost sleepy-eyed until Colt passing ace Johnny Unitas broke loose in the third quarter.

He hurled three touchdown passes to take the starring position in the game. A veteran from Louisville, he pin-pointed nine out of 15 tries for a total of 115 yards for the evening.

Lenny Moore scooped 44 yards for another Colt tally. The Giants' small score addition to the game came in the middle of the second. Pat Summerall kicked a 19-yard field goal as the Giants faded out at the end of their only sustained drive of the exhibition evening.

Covington Lost To Milwaukee

Milwaukee Braves' hopes of catching up in the National League pennant race were dealt a serious blow with the loss of Wes Covington due to a torn ligament in his right ankle.

Covington's ankle, at first thought to be only sprained, was put into a cast Friday. The Braves' regular left fielder turned the ankle sliding into second base on a force play, during Thursday night's game with San Francisco.

"This is a serious blow," said General Manager John McHale, whose defending champion Braves have been unable to climb back into first place after falling to third.

"Covington is a fierce kind of hitter who can get hot and carry your whole club along."

Although hitting only .279 and having trouble at the plate, Covington was just beginning to show signs of coming out of it when he was hurt.

The injury had a two-fold effect, in that it cut the Braves to 24 men because the team's disabled roster is filled. After Sept. 1 when the 25-man player limit is lifted, the Braves will be able to call up another outfielder from the minors, McHale said.

SF Scuffles Green Bay

Coach Red Hickey said he would give John Brodie the starting call at quarterback for 'San Francisco. He said the former Stanford ace, a third year man, would go the route, barring a mishap. Veteran Y. A. Tittle went the distance against the Redskins last Sunday.

Explorer VI One of Most Complex To Be Launched by U.S.

Washington (Science Service) - Explorer VI, one of the earth's newest satellites, is also the most complex launched by the U. S.

The 142-pound satellite orbits the earth from 150 miles at its lowest point to some 25,000 miles at its farthest, completing one revolution in 12.5 hours. This highly elliptical flight path means that the satellite's instruments will cover a larger volume of space near earth for a longer time than any previous satellite.

The injury had a two-fold effect, in that it cut the Braves to 24 men because the team's disabled roster is filled. After Sept. 1 when the 25-man player limit is lifted, the Braves will be able to call up another outfielder from the minors, McHale said.

Maps Radiation Belt. Scientifically, probably the most interesting information to be radioed back from space during its predicted lifetime of at least one year will come from the three devices contained in the satellite to map the radiation belt ringing the earth. Each of these instruments concentrates on recording a specific radiation energy level. From their telemetered readings scientists should be able to determine exactly how dangerous the earth's natural radiation belts will be for future space travelers.

For space probes and trips to the moon and planets, performance of some of the technical equipment included for the first time in a satellite will also be of great interest. Of particular importance is the efficient operation of the 8,000 solar cells carried on its "paddle wheels" to convert the sun's energy into electricity for recharging the satellite's chemical batteries in flight. The electronic gear in the satellite run by the batteries, besides the scientific equipment, includes three transmitters and two receivers.

Data Easier To Handle. Another new technological development being tested for the first time is the use of digital telemetry. The space data thus transmitted earthward are much easier to handle and much more rapidly available than when the information is sent in analogue form.

One light-weight device in the satellite measures its velocity in orbit. This will allow scientists, for the first time, to determine if a change in course is necessary. The satellite has at its center a five-pound, solid propellant "kick" rocket that can be used to lengthen its lifetime by lifting its perigee point if necessary.

Peeping out one side of the payload is a small open lens that it is hoped will give the first TV-like picture of the earth from space.

Other experiments include a micrometeorite detector to gauge the size and speed of meteoric particles hitting the satellite, two types of magnetometers to map the earth's magnetic field, and four methods for studying the behavior of radio waves.
