Word Sought on Persons Missing in Quake Area

Bozeman, Mont. — (UP) — Authorities today sought word on a number of persons missing since earthquakes triggered murderous rock slides in the Yellowstone park area.

The list issued Monday included 95 names but quickly was pared to 41. It was believed the list would be further shortened by reports from across the country, but it was feared there may be more bodies in the shambles created by landslides a week ago.

Ten persons were known dead as the result of a huge landslide that covered camp grounds in Madison river canyon. The side of a mountain collapsed in the area early last Tuesday, just hours after a powerful quake rocked the Pacific Northwest.

Campers in the area were unregistered so there was no sure way of knowing just who was in the valley at the time of the slide. A search for bodies was called off during the week end when the estimated 50 million tons of rock and earth proved too formidable an obstacle.

The list of persons still reported missing in last week's earthquakes included:

B. L. and Inez Boynton, Billings, Mont.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dobbins and their two children, Van Nuys, Calif.

Dr. and Mrs. Merle Edger-ton, Coalinga, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Provost and their two sons, Soledad, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. William Razdoroff and their three children, Pocatello, Ida.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Shulund and their son, Havre, Mont.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Williams and their three children, Idaho Falls, Ida.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Woods, Coalinga, Calif.

Mrs. Marilyn Stowe, Sandy, Utah.

Shipyards Strike Idles About 1,000 In Portland Area

Portland — (UP) — A coastwide tieup of the shipyard industry moved into its second day today with some 1,000 men idled here by pickets of the International Association of Machinists.

Three major shipbuilding and repair yards and several smaller plants here reported pickets Monday as the machinists began a strike against shipyards in Oregon, Washington and California. An estimated 150 machinists were on strike in Portland. Union sources said another 800-900 workers honored the picket lines Monday and did not report for work.

1200 Machinists Idled

All told, only about 1,200 machinists went on strike on the West coast, but an estimated 10,000 workers have been idled by the strike.

Shipyards workers at Bremerton, Wash., Monday continued to work. A union spokesman hinted that a separate agreement was in the making for the Bremerton area local.

In San Francisco, representatives from the union and from the shipyard owners were expected to continue negotiations with Federal Mediator Ralph Patterson today.

Patterson reported the two sides were deadlocked on wage demands. The union said it would not settle for

Scientists Study Pictures of Dust Particles in Sky

Washington — (UP) — Scientists are studying pictures taken of the sky with a "flying coronagraph" in the hope of finding new information on the effects dust and other particles in the atmosphere have on weather.

The pictures were taken Aug. 7 during a nine-hour balloon flight from the stratosphere near Rapid City, S.D.

For the first time in history a coronagraph — a telescope with an "occluding disc" which blots out the sun — was carried aloft to photograph the sky.

Part of Research

The flight was part of the Strato-Lab program of balloon research being conducted by the Office of Naval Research. A Strato-Lab balloon crew in mid-October will attempt to determine whether water vapor exists in the atmosphere of the planet Venus.

The coronagraph used in the Aug. 7 flight was developed by Dr. Gordon Newkirk of the High Altitude observatory of the University of Colorado. It was carried to 38,000 feet in an open basket balloon manned by Robert Cooper of the observatory and Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, described by the Navy as "the world's most experienced balloonist."

Artificial Eclipse

Newkirk told reporters on Monday that the flight proved the feasibility of photographing "the solar aureole," the bright sky around the sun made visible by creating an artificial eclipse, from the vantage of the upper atmosphere.

Ross also will be part of the crew in October which will try to find out if there is any water in the atmosphere of Venus. The answer to this question is vital to the bigger one of whether life could exist on the bright planet.

CHARGE AIR VIOLATION

London — (UP) — Radio Peiping charged Monday that a U. S. naval patrol plane violated Communist Chinese airspace over Kwangtung Province. The broadcast, monitored here, said the alleged incident took place Monday morning.

WRITER DIES?

Chicago — (UP) — Thomas Fansler, 63, a writer and official of the National Safety Council, was dead in his apartment Monday. His wife, Katherine, who was still ill, said she and her husband had taken barbiturate tablets before retiring Sunday night.

Mississippi To Elect Governor

Jackson, Miss. — (UP) — An estimated 415,000 Mississippi voters go to the polls today to elect a new governor in the Democratic runoff primary. Nomination in the primary is tantamount to election in Mississippi where Republicans are only a nominal force.

Voters will choose between Lt. Gov. Carroll Cartin, 47, and Jackson Attorney Ross Barnett, 60.

Gartin and Barnett ousted Charles Sullivan from the race in the first primary three weeks ago when Barnett polled 153,508 votes, Gartin 151,043 and Sullivan 131,729 in the 82 counties.

Gov. J. P. Coleman is generally known to favor Gartin, although Coleman has not openly said so.

Coleman is ineligible to succeed himself, a fact that is one of Barnett's big issues. He has claimed Gartin is conspiring with Coleman and former Gov. Hugh White to set up a political dictatorship.

The second primary campaign fight was described by some observers as one of the bitterest in Mississippi's political history.

Gold Hill Boys Admit Taking Car

Two Gold Hill boys, 12 and 13 years old, are being held by juvenile authorities after taking a stolen car up to Crater Lake National park and back, state police said this morning.

The car, belonging to Theodore R. Klein, Gold Hill, was reported stolen from the Ideal Cement company plant yesterday morning.

The boys were brought to the state police office later in the day by their parents and they admitted they took the car. The pair was lodged overnight in the county juvenile home.
