Corvallis (UP)—Eugene blanked Mt. Angel 4-0 Monday night and Hal Wehmeier pitched a no-hitter for Corvallis in the Oregon State softball tournament here. Eugene's victory put it into the finals. Wehmeier's no-hitter gave Corvallis a 1-0 win over Springfield and eliminated the latter club. Salem got two-hit pitching from Norv Hilflicker and defeated Grants Pass 2-0. Today's schedule had Corvallis meeting Salem at 7 p.m. with the winner playing Mt. Angel at 8:30 p.m.

Meager Crowd Sees Phoenix Lose; Vees Beat Portland 7-1

The Phoenix Giants of the Pacific Coast league came up with a pair of firsts Monday night—recording their smallest crowd of the season and first shutout at home since June, 1958. Salt Lake City's Jim Baumer and Ernie Francis were responsible for the latter development. Baumer belted a pair of home runs—one a bases-loaded shot—and Francis twirled a five-hitter while leading the Bees to a 12-0 victory. The recent announcement of the transfer of the Giants' franchise to Tacoma—and the continued apathy of Phoenix baseball fans—must take the blame for the meager turnout of 305. It was the smallest attendance at Phoenix since the club entered the PCL in the spring of 1958.

Dodgers Move Up, Giants Get Blanked

United Press International Gil Hodges is bashing that ball again, and this is one "nice guy" who could make the Los Angeles finish first. With husky Hodges out of the regular lineup from July 23 to Aug. 23 with a severe ankle sprain, the Dodgers dropped from 1 1/2 games back of league-leading San Francisco to 4 1/2 games behind. But the one-time hero of Brooklyn is back now, and the Dodgers are starting to move upward. Hodges stole the show even from strikeout pitcher Sandy Koufax Monday night when he drove in five runs to lead the Dodgers to an 8-2 win over the Philadelphia Phils.

It was a mighty big win for the Bums, because it snapped a three-game losing streak that had imperilled their pennant hopes, it boosted them into second place ahead of the Milwaukee Braves, and it moved them within 3 1/2 games of the Giants. Friend Blanks Giants: The stage was set for Los Angeles to move up when Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the Giants, 6-0, on 12 hits and young Bob Anderson of the Chicago Cubs blanked the Braves, 3-0, on six hits in the only other games played in the National League Monday.

In the only American league games, the Chicago White Sox boosted their league lead over idle Cleveland to two games by beating the New York Yankees, 4-2, and the Baltimore Orioles crushed Detroit, 11-0. Hodges started the Dodgers on the road to victory when his bases-loaded single highlighted a four-run rally in the first inning against rookie Ed Keegan. He clinched the game in the second when he clouted a three-run homer, his 20th, also off Keegan.

Lefty Koufax fanned 13 Phillies in gaining the win. Eleven Dodgers also whiffed and that tied another record—the major league mark of 24 strikeouts by two teams in a nine-inning game. Outduels Burdette: Friend fanned eight batters in beating the Giants—nailing "phee-nom" Willie McCovey three times, once with the bases loaded in the ninth. Rocky Nelson slammed two homers and a single to lead the Pirates' 13-hit attack, with starter Sam Jones of the Giants suffering the loss.

Anderson outdueled Lew Burdette to beat the Braves. George Altman scored the Cubs' first run in the first on Johnny Logan's error, Tony Taylor homered in the third, and Altman drove in the final run in the eighth with a single. Jim Landis led the White Sox to victory with three singles, driving in two runs and scoring a third. The win, credited to starter Ray Moore, gave the Sox a season edge over the Yankees for the first time in 34 years. Turk Lown pitched shutout relief for 3 1/2 innings to save the win.

In the Portland-Vancouver contest, Erv Palica scattered six hits while picking up his 11th win of the season. The Mounties collected nine hits off a trio of Portland hurlers, icing the game with a three-run burst in the first. Jim Greengrass belted his 23rd home run of the season to score the only Portland tally. The loss was the slumping Beavers' fifth in a row, dropping them four games off the pace.

New York (UP)—Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer, the two young bulls who battle for the middleweight title at San Francisco Friday night, have much in common. —Both started boxing at the tender age of eight. —Each have similar slugging styles. —Each won and lost right back to Ray Robinson the now vacated title.

—Both are happily married "home folks" who dote on their children. —Each is an ardent hunter and fisherman. —Both are breeders. But there the similarity ends. For while Fullmer raises mink, Basilio breeds hunting dogs.

It is, in a way, the story of the fight. Because come Friday the feeling in this corner is that it's going to be a bad night for the mink market and Fullmer well may feel like a future lady's furpiece harried by Basilio's beagle pack. Friendly Enemies: Basilio and Fullmer are friendly "enemies." Each is highly complimentary of the other's courage and rough-house ability. And this mutual admiration may be the reason why, although each lost the last duke to Robinson, both men voice the belief that this will be their toughest fight.

"I made just one mistake against Robinson the second time," Fullmer said today by telephone from San Francisco. "I let him hit me on the chin. It was the biggest error I ever made because anybody can knock you out with one shot if it lands just right."

Basilio, Fullmer contended, is not a one-punch stopper. "But he'll be rougher than Robinson because he fights three minutes of every round while you have to chase Robinson for two and one-half minutes of every round," he claimed. The 28-year-old Mormon mauler from West Jordan, Utah.

Fullmer, who was named after Gene Tunney and idolizes Jack Dempsey, began boxing at eight while watching amateurs train in an old garage. At that age he stood on a table to punch the bag and shortly thereafter was boxing at "smokers."

Football Too Rough: "I played basketball and football in high school," he said, "but they were too rough." So he devoted full time to boxing and won a number of amateur titles before turning professional. He had won 17 straight before entering the Army and serving 12 months of a two-year hitch in Korea. Basilio's story is much the same. Built along the same rugged lines, Carmen also came up through the amateurs, enlisted in the Marines at 17 and spent 24 months on Guam and at Pearl Harbor.

Basilio has an edge in professional experience, at 32 having had 74 bouts of which he won 54, and lost 13 and kayped 27. Fullmer in 53 bouts has won 49, lost four and flattened 21 rivals. But the odds-makers have made Carmen an 8 to 5 choice in this one and from here it sounds like a solid numerical proposition. The little onion farmer can take a tremendous amount of punishment and you have to go with a beagle against a mink any day and twice on Friday.

Basilio 8-5 Choice In Fullmer Scuffle

New York (UP)—Carmen Basilio is favored at 8-5 to beat Gene Fullmer in Friday night's middleweight title fight, which features this week's boxing. The two ex-champions are fighting in the San Francisco Cow Palace for the vacant National Boxing Association version of the 160-pound crown. The NBA had vacated Sugar Ray Robinson's title on May 4 because of his failure to defend in more than a year.

Basilio of Chittenango, N.Y., is favored to recapture the championship because of his sharper hitting. Fullmer, West Jordan, Utah, is a persistent mauler who lacks explosiveness. Each won and lost in title fights with Robinson. Co-promoters Norman Rothchild and Benny Ford have scaled the Cow Palace for 18,000 spectators and $305,000. The scheduled 15-rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC at 7 p.m. p.d.t.

Basilio 8-5 Choice In Fullmer Scuffle

New York (UP)—Carmen Basilio is favored at 8-5 to beat Gene Fullmer in Friday night's middleweight title fight, which features this week's boxing. The two ex-champions are fighting in the San Francisco Cow Palace for the vacant National Boxing Association version of the 160-pound crown. The NBA had vacated Sugar Ray Robinson's title on May 4 because of his failure to defend in more than a year.

Basilio of Chittenango, N.Y., is favored to recapture the championship because of his sharper hitting. Fullmer, West Jordan, Utah, is a persistent mauler who lacks explosiveness. Each won and lost in title fights with Robinson. Co-promoters Norman Rothchild and Benny Ford have scaled the Cow Palace for 18,000 spectators and $305,000. The scheduled 15-rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC at 7 p.m. p.d.t.

Wednesday night's fight at Louisville, Ky., brings together welterweight contenders Rudell Stich, Louisville, and Luis Rodriguez, Havana, for a 10-rounder. Stich is favored at 7-5 because of his aggressiveness and dangerous right hand. The week's boxing schedule includes: Tuesday—Houston, Tex.—Roy Harris vs. Joe Bygraves, Fresno, Calif.—Bobo Olson vs. George Karalian, Ft. Erie, Ont.—Rocky Fumelle vs. Frankie Van Pittsfield, Mass.—Arthur Persley vs. Curley Monroe, Juarez, Mex.—Ike Chestnut vs. Claudio Adams.
