

Plans for Cut In Hillcrest Funds Heard by Board

Salem—UPI—The State Board of Control heard Tuesday the State Public Welfare Commission plans to reduce funds for foster care of girls at Hillcrest school here from $25,000 to $10,000 a year.

Representatives of the State Finance Department said that if the cut is made, other plans will have to be made to take care of girls ready for foster homes. Twelve girls are now in the program and the school hopes to increase this number to 32 if funds are made available.

The board said it would look for representatives of both union and industry to form an advisory board on meatcutting and baking at the new intermediate correctional institution.

The board felt such an advisory group would be useful in finding jobs for young first offenders when they are released from the institution.

Out-of-state travel was approved for state officials to attend the Western State Council on Higher Education meeting in Seattle and also to send representatives to gatherings of the American Psychological Association and the American Psychiatric Association.

Dogs May Need Hay Fever Shot

Chicago—(Science Service)—If Fido gets the sniffles within the next week or so, hustle him to the vet for a hay fever shot.

Dogs appear to be as sensitive to ragweed pollen as humans, and require the same treatment for the allergy. For instance, a two-year-old fox terrier in southern Michigan developed a runny nose, itching and inflamed eyes during the hay fever season from August through October of 1957.

The dog was given antihistamine which relieved his symptoms until the season ended in October. Dr. Roy Patterson, University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor, reports in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association. (Aug. 1).

Autos Bothered Pony Express Rider

Sacramento, Calif. — (UPI) — Pony Express riders had it easy. They may have had to watch out for Indians, but they had no trouble with heavy traffic.

You can take that from rodeo rider Verne Boyd who retraced the route of the Pony Express from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento in order to prove that men and horses are as good today as they were in the old Wild West days.

"I've been kidded a lot about Indian trouble," Boyd said, "and back in the pioneer times I guess there was some, but I don't believe the Indians worried Kit Carson half as much as the automobiles worried me."

The ride took an even 80 days for the 36-year-old Boyd, who made the trip aboard a seven-year-old mare named Pet.

Home Help Is Called A 'National Phenomenon'

America's parents appear to be showing more eagerness than ever before to be teachers' helpers: flash cards, formerly used principally for school drill, and games, keyed to implanting knowledge of the three R's, recently have become best sellers in retail stores.

This new homefront interest in improving youngsters' performance in math, reading, spelling and social studies is a national phenomenon, reports Dr. Mary Moffit, professor of child development at Queens college and advisor to Toy Guidance council.

Many basic school teaching aids have been revised for use at home by children alone or with parents or older children in the teacher role.

The admission to statehood of Alaska and Hawaii has sparked new interest in the "Game of States" which bases competition on trading leading products of each of the 50 states.

Preparing children for school gets special attention in an integrated "steps to learning" kit which teaches basics such as recognition of shapes and forms, the identification of colors, and telling time.

Man Buried in Upright Position

Washington, Ga. — (UPI) — Capt. Abraham Simons, a wealthy Georgian who fought in the Revolutionary war, was buried six miles east of this town in a standing position with his rifle beside him "to fight the Devil."

Although Simons fought valiantly during the War of Independence, he also played another, quieter role in the history of Georgia.

Shortly after his death, his widow was married to the Rev. Jesse Mercer, who used Simons' large estate to found Mercer university in Macon.

Western Auto Plans Grand Opening of New Store Friday

Gifts, prizes and free soft drinks will be given away at the grand opening of the new Western Auto Supply company store at 25 South Riverside ave., beginning Friday and continuing through next week.

Store Manager Don Ford said there will be free soda pop for "anyone walking through the door" and that prizes, to include a living room set, a bicycle, a set of tires and some turkeys, will be given during the week.

The old Western Auto store south of the new store has been partially demolished to make room for construction of the 8th st. bridge. Business has continued during the moving process but the new store will close Thursday to prepare for Friday's opening.

Building Remodeled
The new building has been remodeled and provides more area for the company's operation. A slightly larger sales force will be available for customers.

Ford said that a new, expanded furniture department, which recently had been discontinued at the old location, would be in the store.

Tourists Add To Insect Problem

Washington (Science Service) — Americans returning from their travels abroad could literally devastate American agriculture.

This warning was made here by E. P. Reagan, in charge of foreign plant quarantine enforcement for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Many tourists, knowingly or unknowingly, carry with them insect pests, diseased plants or meat products that may be the source of serious animal diseases.

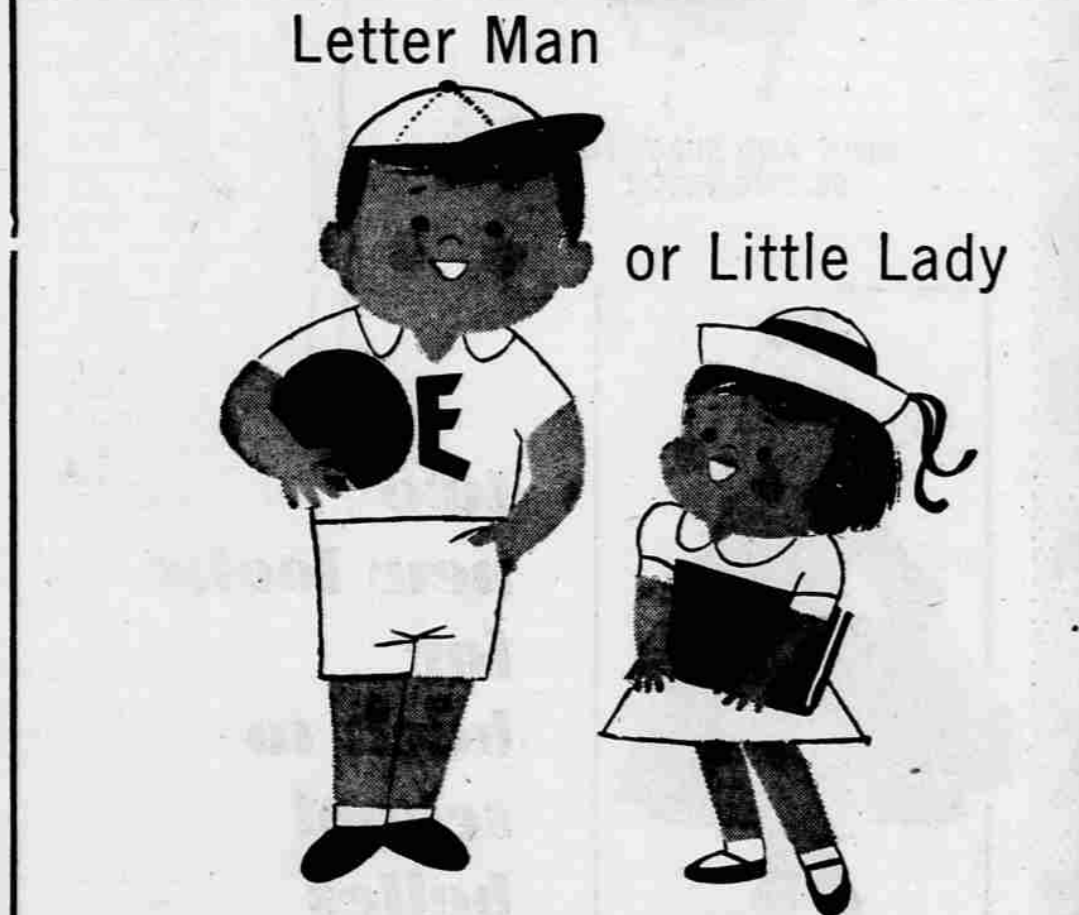

Inspection of incoming baggage is becoming more difficult as the mountains of baggage grows. Tourists have an increasing responsibility to refrain from bringing into the U.S. exotic plants and foods, the USDA points out.

Late year plant quarantine inspectors intercepted a destructive pest for every half-hour's examination of luggage, airplanes, ships, automobiles and trains from foreign lands. A school teacher returning from Brazil was discovered carrying coffee twigs and berries — a Mediterranean fruit fly larvae. It had cost $10,000,000 to eradicate the Medfly from Florida in 1957.

Travelers planning to bring back unprocessed foods, plants, seeds or animal products for special purposes should request a permit, before leaving the U.S.,

California Said Due Big Population Hike

New York—(Science Service)—Sunny California will be the most populous state in the nation by 1970, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. here predict. It will grow by 6,000,000 inhabitants to give it a total of more than 20,000,000 people, they report. For all 50 states, the nose-count should increase to more than 208,000,000. Nevada and Arizona, vanguards of the booming Southwest, are expected to lead in rate of population growth with increases of about two-thirds.
