The Painfulness of Indecision
Every so often I see a woman who is in a nervous breakdown. And when I ask her husband and sisters how she happened to get that way, they tell me she has an awful time making a decision. If she goes to a store to buy a dress, or a hat, she has a most distressing time deciding on one, and when she does buy it, she takes it back next day. Then she worries for days over what she did.

I always point out to these women that a business executive has to be making important decisions all day; usually he cannot change his mind, and actually, he hasn't the time. He cannot go back on his word, and he cannot spend hours wondering if he did the right thing. As I say to the indecisive women, "Why can't you learn to make up your mind? Your husband had to learn the trick." Often, also, I pointed out that so many of a woman's decisions are unimportant; if one of them should be unwise, no tragedy will follow. The only tragedy is for a woman not to make any decision at all; either good or bad.

I am reminded of what one of the greatest of the court physicians of the Middle Ages once wrote. Maimonides said, "The risk of a wrong decision is preferable to the terror of indecision." Many a time the able husband of a miserably indecisive woman has said to me, "She asks me to make decisions for her; and I say, 'All right, I'll make them.' But then, what does she do? When I tell what obviously ought to be done, she wants to argue with me at length about it!"

Death Can Be Welcomed
Because of one of my hobbies has always been archaeology, recently I was reading some poetry written in Egypt a few thousand years ago. Imagine my interest when I found the poet saying, what so many old people are writing me today—that death can be a welcome guest to the old man or woman who is tired out and worn down with months or years of suffering. As the poet said, "Death is before me today Like the recovery of a sick man Like going forth after sickness."

Dave Beck Granted Appeal Extension
San Francisco — (UPI) — The U. S. Court of Appeals has granted former Teamsters President Dave Beck a two-month extension until Oct. 31 to file his opening brief in an appeal of his conviction for income tax evasion.

The court said it granted the extension Wednesday because of the illness of one of Beck's attorneys, Charles S. Burdell, of Seattle, Wash., and because of the complexity of the case. The trial lasted three months and involved 795 pages of transcript.

Beck, who was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $60,000, is free on $70,961 bail, pending the appeal. He was convicted of evading $240,000 in federal taxes during 1950-53.

Prospect Schools To Open Monday
Prospect — Prospect schools will open Monday, Aug. 31, for registration, Superintendent Roscoe Larson has announced.

Buses will operate over the same routes as last school year. Since no lunch will be served Monday, buses will return students about noon. A full day's schedule is planned for Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Quotes From the News

By United Press International
Bonn, Germany—President Eisenhower, addressing a welcoming crowd at the Bonn airport as he arrived to begin his round of talks with European leaders: "The American people stand by your side in assuring that the loyal free people of free Berlin will, like yourselves, continue always to enjoy that great privilege."

Moscow—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a letter to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, warning that East-West war would be "tantamount to suicide" and discussing the future Eisenhower-Khrushchev meetings: "It may be that we are on the eve of an historic turn in the policy of the two blocs—from further isolation to gradual rapprochement and adjustment of the outstanding issues to ensure peaceful coexistence of all states."

Los Angeles—Royal Air Force Wing Commander John L. R. Bowman, a British space scientist, discussing the conditions under which space pioneers might work: "It might be desirable to let the space man have a martini a day on his off hours."

Chicago—Arthur Brown, 48, telling police why he killed his 41-year-old wife: "We'd been married 17 years and for 17 years she nagged me every day. I shot her and shot her and shot her to shut her up."

Trio Held in Cuba Assassination Try

Havana — (UPI) — Police today were holding three men for the attempted assassination of Lt. Rluardo Aulet, commander of the security guard at the presidential palace.

According to authorities, the three fired at Aulet from an automobile as he was leaving a hospital in suburban Vedado early Wednesday. Aulet, who was not hit, returned the fire and his attackers sped away, sidestepping a parked car as they did.

Police later spotted the damaged car and arrested the three men.

707 Jetliner Loses Wingflap Section

Las Vegas, Nev. — (UPI) — A Continental Airlines Boeing 707 jetliner lost an eight-foot section of a wing flap Wednesday while taking off on a training flight, but landed safely in Los Angeles.

Only five crewmen were aboard the craft, being put through a shakedown flight. Observers here saw the large wingflap section drop from the plane and immediately notified the pilot. He continued the flight, however, and landed without incident at Los Angeles International Airport.

SHOWN UP
Burlington, Vt. — (UPI) — A regular Army team of sharpshooting riflemen from the Granite City, Ill., Engineer Depot was glad to leave here after a team of summer reservists outshot them in a competition match.

English Channel Swim Race Won By Argentinian

Dover, England — (UPI) — Argentinian swimmer Alfredo Camarero won the international cross-channel race today, making the gruelling 22-mile swim across the choppy English Channel in 11 hours, 45 minutes and 26 seconds.

The race was marred by a chaotic start and fears for a time that one of the swimmers had lost his life. The missing swimmer, Primo Ferreira of Portugal, turned up safe and sound in a French hotel. He had turned around and swum back to Calais, after his escort boat lost track of him two hours after the pre-dawn start in the race from Cape Gris Nez, France.

Foul-Up in Boats
Sixteen of the 38 registered swimmers failed even to get started because of a foul-up in escort boat arrangements and the belief the condition of the channel today made their chances hopeless.

Camarero's victory in the cross-channel race, organized by promoter Billy Butlin, brought him the top prize of $1,400.

Choppy seas, the mixup in escort arrangements, and the cold of the early morning darkness combined to make a mess of the annual race.

Rough waters capsized several escort vessels. Others simply did not turn up. Many swimmers couldn't find their boats and abandoned the race. Some swimmers took one look at the channel and gave up.

Six of the 22 swimmers who did get off the French beach gave up soon after the start.

Americans Well Up
Two of the American entries in the annual race, Greta Anderson and Myra Thompson, both of Long Beach, Calif., were reported unofficially to be well up with the leaders. Paul Herron, 38, Sacramento, Calif., was forced to drop out half way across because of cramps.

Both Herron and Miss Anderson said before the race started that they hoped to try the round trip but the water appeared too rough for such an unprecedented attempt. The swimmers, including five women, were competing for prizes ranging from $140 to $1,400.

NARROW ANGLE
Cambridge, Mass. — (UPI) — Back in 1922, a movie company offered Harvard and Yale $25,000 for exclusive rights to their football game that year. The offer was rejected. It included a provision that the game had to be played on a field of 55 yards, the scope of the cameras.
