Aroused Phils Kick Giants; SF's Lead Cut to 2 Games

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Kick an underdog and you'll wind up with a piece of your league lead chewed out.

That's an age-old baseball axiom and if the faltering first-place Giants didn't know it before they sure know it now.

All season long, the Giants have been beating the last-place Phillies with a minimum of difficulty. But then they went and stirred up a beanball rhubarb with the tail-enders Thursday. That did it.

The suddenly aroused Phillies swept a doubleheader, 7-2 and 2-1, and the weary Giants limped out of Philadelphia with their National league lead sliced to two games.

Most of the fireworks took place during the sixth inning of the opener with the score tied at 1-1. Joe Koppe put the Phils in front when he led off the frame with a home run off Mike McCormick. After Gene Freese also homered, McCormick hit Harry Anderson on the head with a pitch.

Anderson fell to the ground, stretched out. It took him some time to get up, but when he did he shouted angrily at McCormick and had to be restrained from getting at the Giant pitcher. McCormick insisted he didn't throw at Anderson intentionally.

The Phils didn't believe him, though. They scored five rnus in the sixth to earn Jim Owens his 10th victory.

All the scoring in the nightcap came during the first inning. Willie Mays hit his 22nd home run in the top of the frame but the Phils came back with two off Al Worthington in the bottom of the frame on a walk, a single, a sacrifice fly, an infield out and another single by Wally Post.

St. Louis beat Milwaukee, 5-4, and Cincinnati took Chicago, 5-0, in the other NL games. Los Angeles and Pittsburgh were idle.

The first-place Chicago White Sox stretched their lead to 1½ games with a 5-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the only American league game scheduled.

Happy Birthday

Joe Cunningham celebrated his 28th birthday by collecting a triple, double and two singles in the Cards' win over the Braves. Cunningham's performance lifted his batting average to .349, only nine points back of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, who leads the league.

Rookie southpaw Jim O'Toole of the Reds limited the Cubs to five hits in pitching his first major league shutout and registering his fourth victory of the year. O'Toole fanned 10 and didn't allow a hit until the fifth.

Two youngsters, 23-year-old Barry Latman and 25-year-old John Romano, led the White Sox to their victory over the Red Sox. Latman blanked Boston for eight innings before Ted Williams teed off for his 10th homer in the ninth.

Romano singled home Chicago's first two runs off loser Frank Baumann in the third and then singled home another in the sixth.

John Day Gets Pat on Back

"Well I did it."

That's the heading on Sports Illustrated's "Pat on the Back" page in the Aug. 24 issue.

Honored was John Day, Jackson county rancher, for his recent record climb of Mt. Rainier in Washington. The climb and return in less than eight hours broke the previous record of 11 hours and 25 minutes.

Sports Illustrated points out that Day has added the dimension of speed to mountain climbing.

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

All of us have fishing or hunting trips we talk about for years but somehow never get beyond the planning stage. In my case, I've wanted to try fishing in Crater lake ever since I read one of Zane Grey's books in which he describes such a trip. I also wanted to try it just because it was water with fish in it.

THE TOLL TRAIL

The one and one-half mile hike down to the water didn't take much time or effort and was made interesting by some of the fattest, most audacious chipmunks I've ever had to argue trail rights with. They seemed quite put out that we had the gall to walk by without paying tribute with a cookie or candy bar. I can imagine they have acquired a sort of toll right over the years and were more used to the easily-distracted tourist than the fisherman intent on reaching the water as soon as possible.

THE BLUEST WATER

The water was clear and blue and cold. The blueness was of such a depth that it seemed almost possible to have it in a cupful of water, but such was not the case, no matter how many times I tried. And lest my readers think I'm getting too far off the track, some fishing was accomplished through the use of a small man-powered boat and a succession of ideas as to where, when and how some fish could be fooled onto the hook. The results were meager in that there were several strikes but only one fish was boated. Despite this it was one of the rarest fishing days ever experienced.

VITAL STATISTICS

Part of the rarity of this fishing trip was found in the type of fish that was caught. A deep-bodied sockeye salmon 16 inches long and weighing 1½ pounds. The lake is planted with this landlocked species and rainbow trout. The largest fish caught last year was a trout 27 inches long so it can be seen that there is a gradual growth despite the short growing season. It was said that the fish feed deep and their diet includes plankton, snails and a small shrimp. All boats must be in at the dock at 4:30 p.m., which limits top-water fishing to the early morning when the fish feed in the shallows. The salmon my partner landed was mature and since the sockeye normally weighs 4 to 5 pounds and measures about 24 inches when mature, it is easy to see what a constant cold water environment does to hamper normal growth. The fish react sluggishly to the hook and thus limit the sport derived from fishing this lake.

HURRY! HURRY!

At the present time it appears that there will be some pressure on the Engineers at the delayed hearing in November to complete their studies of the tributary projects in the basin. This pressure will come from individuals who want the storage dams built as soon as possible. The difficulties with the main stem dam will be left to be ironed out at a later date. This sequence of events, if they occur, will be opposed by sportsmen and conservationists.

FLOOD CONTROL

With the possible exception of the Copper project on the Applegate, the storage projects on the tributaries are irrigation dams with very little flood control. The conservationists can't be blamed for being somewhat skeptical about any plan which just takes more water for the land when these are supposed to be multi-purpose projects. They will insist that the accepted plan be a basin-wide proposal so that all projects can be considered as to their interrelatedness and overall effect.

DON'T SHOOT

The last legislature has put hawks and owls on the protected bird list, so hunters had better be sure what they're shooting at if they wish to avoid arrest. The reason for this action was that many hunters were shooting beneficial birds such as the marsh hawk and the short-eared owl under the impression that they were killing a harmful predator. Where a hawk is doing damage he may be killed only after issuance of a permit.

THE ANGLER'S LOG

It seems that at times this part of the column comes under fire in that the reports don't jibe with personal experience. Since I can't go to all places reported on here I depend mostly on resort operators for information on the fishing each week. Although one might suspect bias on the part of the resort operators, I am sure they are giving the most accurate reports they can.

Diamond Lake – Is good. Flatfish in the morning and flies in the afternoon seem to give the best luck. The weather has been perfect.

Fish Lake – Is still very good. The lake has risen a foot. The best fishing is near the lava and in the narrows. Limits have been taken still-fishing with worms and trolling FF&W on a short line. Cabins and boats are available.

Howard Prairie–Best fishing is in the early morning or late afternoon. The upper end of the lake on the far side seems to produce the best. A flatfish will hit paydirt.

Klamath Lake–Fishing is slow and spotty. The water is quite low. Andy Reekers are still the best medicine.

Lake of the Woods–Things are about the same as last week. Trolling with FF&flatfish or worms. There are lots of waterskiers and they usually cover the lake from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nights were cooler but are warming up again.

Willow Creek – Fishing is pretty good. Every boat is bringing in fish. Trolling FF&W or flatfish pays off. Flyfishing is good in the evening. The lake is clear and the water blue with all the algae gone.

THE OPTIMIST'S CORNER

Contrary to the opinion of some, the fishing season is just beginning. With cooler weather the lakes begin producing their best tasting fish and after a bit of rain the steelhead will be coming this way in greater numbers. And who can resist the kind of weather we have here in the fall. Every day has spice in it to remind us we're living in the best place to be alive.

GOOD LUCK!

Flag Hopes In Series At Stake

Los Angeles – (UPI) – The groggy San Francisco Giants, belted twice in a double header they wanted to duck, tottered in today for a series with Los Angeles which could turn Manager Bill Rigney's pennant dreams into a nightmare.

The tense pilot named Sam Jones (16-12) to start tonight against Don Drysdale (15-9). The Dodgers' side-wheeler has been hot recently, but mainly under the collar. He was stuck with both losses last Sunday as Los Angeles dropped a pair to the Pittsburgh Pirates. Then he sounded off against "second guessers" on his club.

The Giants took a double dunking of their own Thursday from the last place Philadelphia Phillies which sliced their lead over the idle Dodgers to two games.

That left San Francisco with a record of four losses in its last five contests on the eve of a pressure-packed, three-game series against Los Angeles.

Baker, Pauly Out of State

Portland – (UPI) – Two of the top prep athletes in the Portland area, Terry Baker and Steve Pauly, are reported to be considering schools other than Oregon State and Oregon.

Baker, Jefferson high all-around star, indicated earlier he would attend Oregon State. Pauly, Beaverton's basketball and football ace, indicated he would go to Oregon.

However, with time running out before enrollment this fall, both athletes were said to be considering other schools. They attended the Green Bay - San Francisco game last week as guests of Stanford alumni. Pauly has an uncle who is a part-time member of the California faculty and who is a Stanford graduate.

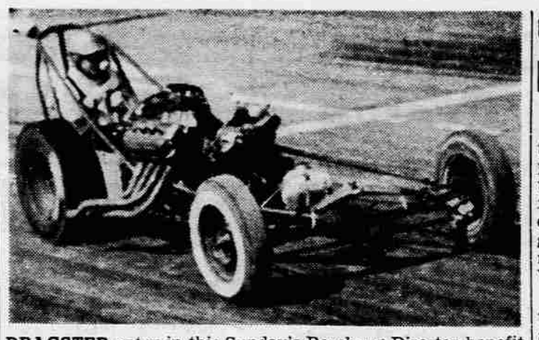
There are indications they would like to attend the same school.

Peter Cooper Heads Miller

Milwaukee – (UPI) – Gray-haired Pete Cooper, a 20-year veteran who has had his ups and downs on the professional golf trail, was the first-round leader today as the $35,000 Miller Open golf tournament went into its second 18 holes.

Cooper, 44, Lakeland, Fla., who returned to pro golf in 1958 from a year and a half layoff when a try at being a golf course owner failed, shot a six-under-par 64 Thursday at the rain-swept Tripoli Country club to lead Doug Sanders and Ken Venturi by one stroke.

The leaders were traveling in fast company as 42 golfers broke par in the opening round and 11 others shot even par. There were three men, including 1955 PGA and 1957 Masters winner Doug Ford, at 66 and six more at 67.



DRAGSTER entry in this Sunday's Roseburg Disaster benefit drag races is this Chrysler-powered machine driven by John Nickle from Eureka, Calif. This powerful acceleration machine, shown here in its debut at Redding recently has recorded speeds up to 125 miles per hour on the one-fourth mile strip. Several other dragsters will be on hand gunning for top honors in this Sunday's meet on the Camp White strip.

Roseburg Disaster Drag Race Sunday; Rule Changes Noted

Rule changes in the "F" modified class were stressed today for drivers who will participate in the Roseburg Benefit Drag races this Sunday at the Camp White strip north of Medford.

Officials of Southern Oregon Timing association said that contestants who enter the class should note four regulations. They are:

1. This class is for licensed street cars that do not have overhead valve V-8 engines.

2. Maximum engine displacement is at 260 cubic inches.

3. Engine may be modified in any manner as long as it meets the maximum displacement rule and does not have more than three carburetors.

4. Safety shields around the bell housing will not be required.

Shields For Others

Contestants were cautioned that safety shields will be required on all vehicles that are not stock cars or sports cars with an engine displacement of less than 2,700 cubic centimeters. These shields must be made of steel at least one-fourth inch thick and extending 360 degrees around the vehicle's bell housing.

Local merchants are donating prizes for the benefit drags, thus saving money that would otherwise be spent for trophies. SOTA officials stated they expect to have small trophies – donated by the trophy company that supplies awards for the regular meets.

Time trials will commence at 9 a.m. with the eliminations slated for after lunch. The drag strip is off the Crater Lake highway in west Camp White. Signs will be posted from the "Y" in north Medford.

Competition will be held in all regularly scheduled classes. For many contestants this Sunday marks the last opportunity to tune their engines and test their driving skill before the Centennial Gas Championship drag races, being held on the Camp White strip September 12-13.

Yturri Seven Off Golf Pace

Portsmouth, Va.– (UPI) –Lynn Yturri of Ontario, Ore., shot a 74 in Thursday's National Jaycee golf tournament to give him a two-day total of 147. That was four strokes off the pace set by Fritz Leffingwell Jr., of Miami, the leader.

Portsmouth, Va. – (UPI) – A pint-sized youngster from Florida with a sharp putter and a quick wit tabbed himself the favorite today as third-round play began in the 14th International Jaycees junior golf championship.

Fritz Leffingwell Jr. of Miami Shores, Fla., soared to a four-over par 74 in Thursday's second round, but still held a two-stroke lead over 99 competitors from 48 states with a 36-hole total of 143.

Danville's Wright Garrett, medalist in the recent Eastern Amateur tournament here and Virginia State Golf Assn. junior champion, shot Thursday's best round, a 71, to grab the number two spot in the tournament with a 145.

RIDES FOUR WINNERS

Chicago – (UPI) – Willie Shoemaker, seeking to repeat his 1958 title as champion jockey, rode four winners at Arlington Thursday. The Shoe, who has already won the honor three times and shares another with Joe Culmone, scored with Klingsor, Leap Year Maid, Official Seal and First Fair.
