Helpful Guide Covering What Wine to Serve

Old-timers in our wine growing areas experimented with wine, found their favorites and learned that you can enjoy any table wine with any food; that there are certain wines ideal for entertaining before dinner and others favored for dessert.

For new-comers, we quote freely here from "California Wine Selector," a round-up of wines and their most popular uses, as compiled by our good friends of the wine advisory board.

California Port. For entertaining and for dessert. A smooth, full-bodied wine, the color of rubies. Sweet but with the fruity sweetness of the grape and not "syrupy." Serve small glasses of port when guests drop in, afternoon or evening. Ideal, too, with dessert. It goes beautifully with cheese nuts, fruit, also cake. Serve chilled or at room temperature.

California Sauterne. A white table wine. Golden-hued, medium-bodied wine. Delicate in flavor, ranging from dry to sweet. Best with oysters, fish, chicken, eggs and light main-course dishes. Always serve well chilled. You'll find some Sauternes labeled for the grape varieties they are made from, such as Sauvignon Blanc, Semillon.

California Sherry. An appetizer wine. Most popular before-dinner wine. Has a tangy, zesty flavor often called "nutty." Ranges in taste from dry to sweet. As a cocktail, with appetizers or with soups, most people prefer a dry Sherry. With desserts, a sweeter Sherry is preferred. Serve chilled.

California Burgundy. A red table wine. Deep red, full-bodied and dry (not sweet). A slightly tart wine, yet soft and pleasing on the tongue. Ideal with red meats, stews, baked beans, cheese dishes. Usually served at cool room temperature. Some Burgundies are labeled for grape varieties—Pinot Noir, Red Pinot, Gamay and others.

California Muscatel. For entertaining—for dessert. Most Muscatel is golden to amber in color, rather full-bodied, definitely sweet. A great favorite among the ladies. Goes well with nearly all desserts and is a popular wine for festive occasions—birthdays, weddings, anniversaries and holidays. Sparkling Burgundy, an effervescent red wine, is popular for similar occasions. Serve sparkling wines well chilled.

California Champagne. A sparkling white wine. Effervescent ("bubbly"), light-bodied, dry to semi-sweet. Pale gold or pink. Champagne is the traditional wine for festive occasions—birthdays, weddings, anniversaries and holidays. Sparkling Burgundy, an effervescent red wine, is popular for similar occasions. Serve sparkling wines well chilled.

California Claret. A red table wine. Like Burgundy, a deep red, slightly tart wine—though somewhat lighter in body and in flavor. Great with steak, roasts, chops, spaghetti. Usually served at room temperature or, if preferred, cooled. Some Clarets are labeled Cabernet or Cabernet Sauvignon, after their grape varieties. Other popular Claret-type wines are Zinfandel, Chianti and Grignolino.

California Rose. Pronounced rosay. A pink table wine. This gay, versatile wine is typical of the informal California way of living. Light and delicate, it blends well with almost any food—chicken, chops, steaks, roasts, cheese dishes. Delightful, too, as an appetizer or afternoon refreshment. Serve chilled. Roses (rosays) are sometimes labeled with the additional name of the grape from which they are made; i.e., Gamay, Grenache, etc.

How to Keep Wine
Wine is easy to care for. Just remember to keep it out of the sunlight and away from hot water pipes and furnaces. Keep it in a cool, dry, dark place.

Lay corked bottles on their sides so the corks will keep moist and tight and seal out the air. Screw-top bottles may be stood up as can plastic-corked bottles.

Once table wines such as Burgundy, Claret, Sauterne, Chablis are opened and exposed to air, they become perishable. It is best to buy such dry table wines in the size of container which you will empty within a few days after opening.

Appetizer wines such as Sherry and Vermouth and dessert wines such as Port and Muscatel will keep indefinitely after opening when properly "stopped."

September Plentiful

Include Pork, Poultry
The third largest pig crop in history promises plentiful supplies of pork throughout the winter and spring. Menu planners now find fresh pork, cured pork, pork chops, roasts, spareribs, ham, bacon, sausage and all other favorites.

Family size turkeys continue in abundant supply with prices amazingly low for such good eating in so many ways. Try stewing a quartered turkey for the making of turkey a la king and turkey a la queen (a la king is done with milk, butter, mushrooms, green pepper and pimientos; a la queen is done with milk, butter, canned pineapple and slivered almonds). Or for casseroling in countless ways, for turkey pies, curried turkey, turkey loaf, turkey salads, turkey sandwiches, turkey hash.

Milk has been designated by U.S.D.A. as a plentiful food; abundant for the making of fragrant, satisfying cream soups and chowders as days grow cooler. Reminder, too, of importance of milk in daily diet as children go back to school. Plenty of cottage cheese and good old cheddar cheese for sandwich making and main dish cookery.

Pears Abundant
Beautiful Bartlett pears are especially abundant in our markets. Keep a supply on hand for out-of-hand eating, for dessert fruit arrangements, for salads in combination with cottage cheese or with shredded cheddar cheese and French dressing. Serve them with gingerbread or ginger cookies, with chocolate cookies or cup cakes. Surprise the family with halved pears with spiced sour cream as salad or dessert.

Other Fruits. Plenty of peaches, Gravenstein apples, bananas, lemons, Italian plums, oranges, lemons, limes, cantaloupes, watermelons, Casabas and Cranshaws. Some displays offer fresh pineapples and blackberries.

Vegetable Reminders. Bins are overflowing with excellent quality carrots, celery, cauliflower, corn, lettuce, cabbage, cucumbers, peppers, tomatoes, eggplant, potatoes, squash varieties, potatoes and onion.
