

HILTS Company Vacation Held

By MRS. M. F. CAVIN
Hilts-Fruit Growers Supply company's annual employees vacation was during the last two weeks of August and saw many of the local residents traveling to various points throughout Oregon and California.

Miss Paula Eastman spent several days as a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Marius De Meyer, in Eureka. Her parents, Mrs. and Mrs. Rodney Eastman, drove over on a week end to return her home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cavin and daughter, Marcia, drove up the Oregon coast, attended the Centennial fair in Portland and returned home by way of Pendleton and vicinity recently.

Miss Marilyn Thompson spent her vacation at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoyt, and daughter, Charla, in Medford and at the home of Miss Lona Taylor at Phoenix. She returned home on Friday, Aug. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Audomar De Clerck and daughters, Barbara and Carleen, vacationed for several days at Crescent City and Brookings recently.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wisenbach spent several days in Reno, Nev., recently. Their daughter, Bonnie Kay, was a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lavene Dixon, and family in Alturas.

Also visiting in Reno at the home of relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fry and children, Davy and Susan. They also visited for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Widness and son, Mike, in McMinnville.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Givin and son, Leon, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Arias and son at Union Creek. The women are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vieira spent several days recently at the Pete Leaser home in Orick and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rose in Arcata. While there, Mrs. Vieira became ill and was returned by plane where her son, Charles Vieira, and daughter, Mrs. Dave Sage, met her with the Hilts ambulance at the Medford airport. She was hospitalized at the Ashland hospital where she received medical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Cavin and daughter, Janet, drove up the Oregon coast to Pacific City where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Powers. Mrs. Belle Linley, who was a guest of the Powers, returned home to Hornbrook with the Cavins.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Davenport and daughter, Lynn, returned home Saturday, Sept. 5, after visiting for three weeks in the state of Kentucky. They were guests of Mrs. Davenport's mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith in Paducah, her father and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Burton in Morganfield, Davenport's mother, Mrs. Minnie Lee Davenport in Wickliffe, his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Harrison, of Paducah and of Mrs. Davenport's grandmother, Mrs. Cora Burton, in Arlington, Ky. Mrs. Elsie Davenport, Davenport's cousin, returned home with them to visit at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Davenport, in Riddle, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson and children, Bobbie and Susan, attended a housewarming party Sunday, Aug. 23, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook in Ashland. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gibson and son, Jimmie; Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Reynolds, and Mrs. Bob Montgomery, all of Medford; and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson and son, Kelly of Central Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dithmart of Clinton, Iowa, visited for a week in mid August at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Roush. The women are sisters.

Jackie McAllister returned to his home in Garden Grove, Calif., after having spent the summer at the home of his grandfather, Joe Caston.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Williams and family were Mrs. Williams' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith and family of Montague.

Guests the past two weeks at the James Cain home were Mrs. Cain's parents Mr. and Mrs. Omar Miller of Arwin, Calif., and Miss Dorothy Cain of Medford. Miss Cain left from here for Oklahoma to attend to business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Itala Marin are the parents of a girl born Aug. 15, at the Sacred Heart

Educational Revolution Needed, According to College President

By MILLICENT CARRY MCINTOSH
President, Barnard College

New York - (AP) - We need an educational revolution in this country.

This revolution is not in the curriculum of our schools, although clearly much needs to be changed (and is being changed) in that area. It must be in our attitudes toward education, which at best are ambivalent and unrealistic.

Since our early days we have given lip service to the idea of equal opportunity for everyone. Education is a necessary foundation for democracy, we intone piously. But we have never taken action to implement this belief.

Unwilling To Pay
Even today, when universal opportunity for study through the college level has caught the imagination of every American, we are unwilling to pay the cost of a good education for all. Local school boards have great difficulty in raising school taxes or in passing bond issues; independent schools and colleges pay ridiculous salaries to their theoretically cherished teachers because parents "can't afford" higher tuitions.

We are unrealistic in our attitude toward the teaching profession. We are unwilling to face the fact that as a whole in this country, teachers are subsidizing the luxuries of the families they serve.

The result of our attitude is that we have allowed a cataclysmic problem to creep up on us. At a time when our doubling younger population makes us need many more teachers we shall be faced with a major shortage at both the school and college level.

Situation Deplorable
Most Americans will agree that the situation is deplorable, but they go on hoping that somehow the teachers will appear and be adequately paid, and that their children will be delivered what is assumed to be their natural birthright; a first rate education at low cost.

Much has been written on the problem, and many suggestions have been made for dealing with it. It may be of interest to outline briefly a few of the proposals, and to indicate what Barnard is doing to meet the situation.

One solution often held, especially by business men, is to raise teachers' salaries to what they should be, and then to increase tuition fees as much as is necessary to meet the extra cost. Barnard has actually been able in 10 years to improve its combined salaries and benefits by 48 per cent; in the same period tuition has been raised several times.

Increase Mistake
Some of us feel, however, that increasing tuition fees to cover 100 per cent of the cost of education would be a mistake in a college like Barnard where many of our students receive no funds at all from their families, and where many others are daughters of professional or business men with salaries in the middle income range. We must be especially careful not to freeze out these families, many of whom prefer not to apply for financial aid.

I do believe, however, that we must look forward to steadily advancing tuitions, and that families of pre-college age students must make careful plans in advance for financing the college education appropriate for them. One solution will be to use an increased realism in estimating the kind of college to which any particular child should go. A junior college or vocational training of some kind may easily be the right solution if parents can avoid setting their hearts on a college because of its social and intellectual prestige.

Long-Range Financing
Many people are advocating that parents and students hospital. She weighed 7 pounds and has been named Cheri Jean. Mrs. Marin's mother, Mrs. Anna Booth, of Central Point spent several days at the Marin home helping to care for the baby. This is the Marin's second daughter and third child.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fenton and children returned home Aug. 29 after spending the summer in Chico, Red Bluff and Redding.

Bobby De Voe of Medford was a week end guest recently at the Don Ward home. His mother, Mrs. Robert De Voe, and son, John, Mrs. Jackie McCollough of Medford and Floyd Vogel of Ashland came down on Sunday to return him home. They also visited in Hornbrook with Frank Ward.

Mrs. Clinton Gano and son Clinton Jr., of Corning and Mrs. Everett Elmore of Hornbrook visited Monday at the Don Ward home. Mrs. Gano and Mrs. Ward are sisters and Mrs. Elmore is their mother, take advantage of long-range financing to meet increased tuitions. The ideal plan certainly would be to take out college insurance at the birth of a child, to start a special savings account in which the interest will increase the total amount available through the years before college. If these plans are not practicable, long-term loans either for parents or for students may solve the problem. Professor Seymour E. Harris of Harvard, in the Winter, 1959, reminds us that the current college graduate may look forward to a life-long income of about $750,000, a figure which makes a four-year loan of $4,000 seem small indeed.

Perhaps the whole burden for finding funds to increase teaching salaries should not fall on students, parents, contributing alumnae, and friends of our college. The Ford Foundation some years ago expressed its conviction that there was much waste in our present higher education. At Barnard we have for 10 years been working to make our teaching set-up as thrifty as is consistent with effective teaching.

At the present time, a Faculty Committee on the Size of Classes is studying our distribution of students in the hope that we can absorb the 150 extra students we are committed to accept, up to our maximum of 1,500, with a minimum of new teaching appointments. The committee has recommended that we limit our seminars to 12 to 15 and our language classes to under 25; that we continue to teach introductory courses in sections not larger than 40; that we increase our straight lecture courses so
